DRIVE TO EJECT SPEAKER BEGUN BY INSURGENTS

Fight to Liberalize House Rules Becomes Move on Longworth.

COULD DEFEAT SLATE BY BUT THREE VOTES

Revision of Procedure and Administration Victory Probable Result.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The expected move to liberalize the House rules has begun to take tangible form under the guise of a movement to oust Speaker Longworth.

It probably will come to a head at the Republican caucus to be held the latter part of next month at which time presumably the Republican candidates for Speaker, floor leader, and other party places will be selected. Ordinarily it would be nothing but a perfunctory gathering, but at this time there is even some question as to whether the Republicans or Democrats will control the next House.

On the face of last November's returns the Republicans will have a two margin lead, but they must command every one of their votes to organize the House, and it is on this situation that the ostensible move to displace Longworth has been formed.

Insurgents Groom Opponent.

Under plans being formed within the insurgent group an opponent to Longworth will be put up. The strength of the plan is realized when it is known that only three Republicans have to bolt the caucus, or vote for Longworth's opponent to displace him.

The House insurgents have not insurged much during the past two years for the very simple reason that with the preponderant Republican majority, insurgency would not have availed them anything. The situation will be entirely different in the next House, however.

So far as can be learned Representatives La Guardia of New York, and Stafford of Wisconsin, are the leaders of the movement. And Representative Kvale, the lone Farmer-Laborite, is planning to go along with them. These three men by themselves could block Longworth's reelection as Speaker with a full Democratic membership voting.

Advanced For Speaker.

Representatives Purnell of Indiana, Michener of Michigan, and Ramseyer of Iowa, are being advanced as candidates for Speaker. LaGuardia, the more talkative of the group, says very emphatically that there must be a liberalization of the rules or else it will be Mr. Longworth's head.

In the end, of course, there is hardly any question that the rules will be liberalized and that Speaker Longworth will retain his Speakership, assuming of course, the Republicans keep that two-vote margin over the Democrats.

The movement among the insurgents has its comforting significance to the House leaders in that they know the extent of the concessions they will have to make to retain control. They fully expected demands for liberalization of the rules. Indeed, the rigid rules which they now have would be ineffective in the next House nine-tenths of the time anyway.

The movement, for one thing, definitely places Mr. Kvale. The Democrats have looked to him longingly, but the fact that he is aligned with the insurgent movement to liberalize the rules shows that he intends to go along with the administration on organization of the House.

Two Boys Are Burned In Laboratory Blast

Chemistry Experiment Ends Painfully for Students.

Two 17-year-old boys, students of Western High School, made their first sacrifice to science yesterday. Both are in Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, suffering from burns about the face and eyes. For a time it was feared one would lose his sight.

It was lunch period and Thomas Walsh was in the laboratory, alone, performing an experiment with iodine crystals. Deciding to have someone view the result, he called Daniel Springston, a close friend, into the room. Then, taking up one of the crystals with a pair of forceps, young Walsh prepared to place it on

DROUGHT AID CALLED BIGGEST EMERGENCY

CONGRESS IN DEADLOCK

Drought Relief Fund To Be Received by Post

The Washington Post will receive and turn over to the Red Cross contributions for drought relief. President Hoover has called upon the nation to raise $10,000,000. The quota for the District of Columbia is $100,000.

(Associated Press.)

The drought relief problem faced by the American Red Cross was said last night by John Barton Payne, the national chairman, to present "the greatest emergency in peace time that the organization has ever been called upon to meet."

His statement was made after President Hoover had issued a proclamation calling upon the public for $10,000,000 to be expended by the Red Cross in buying food and clothing for drought sufferers.

Meanwhile, the two branches of Congress remained deadlocked over the Senate proposal to add $15,000,000 for food loans to the $45,000,000 drought relief appropriation bill. Conferees failed to reach an agreement late in the day.

The next move in this controversy will be a Senate vote on whether to insist on its amendment. The House yesterday voted 215 to 134 against instructing its conferees to accept the proposal.

In his statement, Chairman Payne said the 1927 Mississippi Valley flood, in which the Red Cross spent $16,994,868 for relief of approximately 600,000 persons, "bids fair to be overshadowed in the present drought relief work."

"While at the peak of the Mississippi River flood work we were feeding and providing living quarters in refugee camps for 325,000 people," he

MITCHELL PREDICTS BUSINESS RECOVERY

New York Banker Sees It Near and on Sounder Foundation.

GAIN IS TO BE GRADUAL

New York, Jan. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The prostration of industry in the present business depression has not been disastrous, and a multitude of corrective influences are gradually restoring conditions for a return to prosperity, Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank, assured shareholders of that institution at their annual meeting today.

Judging by past experiences, he said he believed the volume of business had fallen as low as it is likely to go; "that replacements may be expected at least to maintain the present level, and that as the industries take the measure of the conditions with which they have to deal, a general revival of activity will gradually develop.

"For the business man who has a clear understanding of the difficulties in which the present situation is involved and a determination to adapt his policies to realities," he continued, "the future surely will afford opportunities as great as have been open at any time in the past. Unquestionably this country is going forward."

In comparing the "revulsion" of 1920-22 with that of 1929-31, Mr. Mitchell asserted:

"The business structure of the country is much stronger now than that in 1920-21 or in any previous crisis. The banking situation is stronger now than on such previous occasions, notwithstanding the development of weak spots, especially in country banks, which for the most part date back to 1920-21. The Federal Reserve Banks are liquid, whereas in 1920 they were loaned up practically to the limit.

"The decline in commodity prices has been much less than in 1920-21, inventory losses have been smaller, capital impairment in regular business has been comparatively small. There is reason to believe that unemployment has been no greater than in 1920-21 and that on the

Brisk Fight on Nominee Ends in Approval by Senate.

LINCOLN DIXON ALSO GIVEN CONFIRMATION

No Action on Power Board; Meyer Controversy Still Remains.

(Associated Press.)

The appointees of President Hoover to the new Tariff Commission were in office last night with Senate confirmation.

The sixth member—Edgar B. Brossard (Republican), Utah—survived a two-day attack to gain approval by 45 to 36.

Brossard was vigorously assailed by the Democratic leaders for his activities in connection with the sugar tariff as a member and employe of the old Tariff Commission. He was termed "too close to the sugar interests" and his "official integrity" was questioned.

Defended by Republicans.

Republicans stoutly defended the Utahan and the roll call showed eight Democrats voting with the Republican regulars for the nominee, while nine Republicans and the Farmer-Labor member lined up with 26 Democrats in opposition.

Lincoln Dixon (Democrat), of Indiana, the other member of the commission who was still to be acted upon, yesterday received approval without a record vote and without opposition.

The Senate reached on its calendar the three members of the Power Commission it has voted to reconsider, although President Hoover has declined to resubmit their names. These went over for future consideration and Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, indicated he would move later that the names be referred back to committee, although he conceded the Senate was without power to remove them in view of the position taken by the President.

One Controversy Remains.

One more controversial nomination faces the Senate—that of Eugene Meyer, of New York, to be governor of the Federal Reserve. Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, announced he would seek action upon it today.

With the Tariff Commission confirmations behind leaders were more optimistic over the prospect of getting to work on the vital legislative measures that must be passed before March 4 to avoid an extra session.

The Senate has said little about its attempt to reconsider the power nominees since its clash with President Hoover last week, but Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, brought up the subject briefly yesterday in a defense of the Senate.

The Massachusetts senator noted the criticism of the Senate in the press and said the issue involved in the Power Commission dispute was a broad one, involving the question of whether property rights were above human rights.

Integrity Is Questioned.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, carried on the fight against Brossard, which was started by Senators Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, and La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin. He said Brossard's refusal to be "frank" about his activities in drafting the "abortive sugar tariff report" of 1924 was an attitude which had contributed to the "breakdown" of the old commission.

SMITH INSISTS ON AMENDS FOR 'WET CARTOON'

Writes He Was Quoted Falsely in G. O. P. Device Against Norris.

LUCAS IS REFERRED TO AS DISTRIBUTOR

(Associated Press.)

Echoes of the 1928 presidential campaign were heard at the Capitol yesterday in a demand from Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic standard bearer, for an "apology and reparation" from the Republican national committee.

In a letter to Senator Wagner, of New York, a Democratic member of the Senate campaign funds committee, Smith characterized as "false" statements attached to a barroom cartoon circulated in Nebraska last fall against Senator Norris, Republican independent, by Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national organization.

The "false" statements, which Mr. Smith said arose from a "hoax" on the Joel Parker Association of Newark, N. J., and which he denied August 21, 1930, quoted him as saying the Democratic party would soon be in control and "will make this a happy as well as a prosperous Nation."

The cartoon was entitled "Al Smith-Raskob Idea of Happiness."

Apology Is Demanded.

Smith referred to testimony before the campaign funds committee that Lucas had 800,000 copies of the cartoon distributed in several States besides Nebraska, and said:

"I think an apology and reparation is due me from the Republican national committee which permitted its director to do this, and that I am entitled to have 800,000 copies of a statement showing that I was falsely quoted distributed just as widely as the original cartoon was, and to the same organizations."

He said "injustice" had been done not only himself, but also John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, "to say nothing of Senator Norris."

Neither Chairman Fess nor Lucas would comment on the Smith letter, which was read before the Nye committee at the outset of the day's session.

J. Matt Chilton, Republican national committeeman for Kentucky; Galen L. Tait, Republican chairman for Maryland, and F. H. Creetch, Nye committee auditor and investigator, were questioned. Chilton and Creetch were examined principally regarding the circulation of the cartoon and its inclusion in special campaign editions of the Fellowship Forum, a Ku Klux Klan newspaper, which were sent into Kentucky, Alabama and West Virginia.

Says Robsion Ordered Them.

Creetch testified that the records of the Independent Publishing Co., of this city, which prints the Forum, showed $3,375 of these "special editions" were distributed in Kentucky and dealt with prohibition and religion.

He said former Senator Robsion (Republican), Kentucky, ordered more than 100,000 copies and said friends would pay for them.

The records further showed, Chairman Nye later observed, that a Robert M. Estes paid $2,000 of the $3,375 bill.

Chilton denied knowledge of the special editions, but he agreed with Senator Wagner that use of such literature in a political campaign was

WITNESS DENIES ROW WITH MATE OVER GIRL

POLICE DOUBT METAL IN STOVE WAS PISTOL

Object Will Be Examined by Experts in View of Testimony.

George Bargfrede, the latest figure to enter into the mystery surrounding the murder of Beulah Limerick, who was arrested yesterday, was questioned at length last night at Police Headquarters by Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins in the hope that he might shed some light on the slaying.

Mrs. Martha Bargfrede, wife of the prisoner and close friend of Beulah Limerick, whose arrest terminated yesterday's session of the coroner's jury, was placed in the House of Detention after being interrogated for three hours by Mr. Collins and Capt. Edward J. Kelly.

A piece of metal, taken from the stove in the murder house on Nineteenth street southeast, several days ago, was sent to the Bureau of Standards yesterday by police. It will be examined there by Dr. Wilmer Souder, who will determine whether the object could have been a gun.

Quarrel Story Investigated.

Detectives late night were trying to confirm reports that Bargfrede had visited the Limerick home several weeks ago and had violently remonstrated with Beulah Limerick against keeping his wife out all night. Mrs. Bargfrede accompanied Beulah on her last dance of the Sky High Whoopee Club.

Inspector William S. Shelby said that information was received at headquarters to the effect that Bargfrede was displeased with his wife's intimacy with the Limerick girl. Authorities had also heard that Bargfrede owned a .22 calibre rifle which had been bored out so that it could fire a .25 calibre bullet.

When Capt. Kelly took him into custody yesterday a .22 calibre rifle was found; but tests showed that the bore had not been disturbed and was too small to take a .25 calibre cartridge.

Had Expected Arrest.

As Capt. Kelly placed him under arrest Bargfrede is quoted as having said: "Well, I've been expecting you." He was sitting alone, fully dressed, in a darkened room in his home on Luray place northwest.

Reports of the discovery of a gun in the stove in the murder house occasioned excitement at headquarters but Inspector Shelby, Capt. Kelly and Mr. Collins, said that in their opinion, the object was not the part of a pistol. In view of hte testimony of Mrs. Bargfrede, who said that Mrs. Ethel Limerick, sister-in-law of Beulah, had told her a gun had been found in the stove and warned her against mentioning it, authorities decided to submit the object to experts for examination.

The inquest broke up suddenly soon after noon when Detective Sergt. Carlton Talley held a whispered conversation with Capt. Kelly, who in turn talked with Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt and Mr. Collins. The proceedings were adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Discrepencies Seen in Story.

Mrs. Bargfrede was taken immediately to headquarters and later to Mr. Collins' office. Because several discrepancies were found in Mrs. Bargfrede's story, the detectives decided to hold her for questioning.

Mrs. Rosie Payne, in whose home Mrs. Bargfrede once roomed, was

MOSLEMS THREATEN ROUND TABLE DELAY

TALK OF CRISIS SCOUTED

London, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—A Moslem ultimatum on the age-old Hindu-Moslem quarrel today focused the attention of the Indian round table conference on a problem which may delay the realization of India's dream of responsible government.

Sir Muhammed Shafi, as Moslem spokesman, declared at today's session of the conference that "no constitution, by whomsoever devised, shall be accepted by Indian Moslems unless their interests are adequately safeguarded in that constitution."

The statement was a mere repetition of the Moslem position, but, coming, as it did, almost on the eve of adjournment of the conference, it caused something of a sensation. It followed the outline of a scheme for a federal government, given yesterday by Lord Chancellor Sankey, and which last night was the basis of a good deal of optimism that the conference labors would be crowded with success.

Sir Muhammed virtually declared today that Indian Moslems will not support self-government for India until their differences with the Hindus are settled. Coupled with a declaration by Mohammed Ali Jinnah, another Moslem leader, who said he doubted whether any all-Indian federalization would ever materialize, the Moslem section of the round table delegates today appeared in a gloomy frame of mind over the results of the two months' labors in London.

SUIT SEEKS RETURN OF STEEL BONUSES

SUM PAID OUT SINCE 1911

Newark, N. J., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Four common stockholders of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation today brought suit in chancery court for the return of $36,493,568, alleged to have been paid out in bonuses to officials of the company since 1911. Attorney George W. McCarter, of the law firm of McCarter & English, brought the action for Camillus Berendt, James E. Reilly, Ben Glickfeld and David Tait.

Vice Chancellor John Backes was asked to grant an injunction restraining the company from paying further bonuses until the suit is settled.

Those named in the complaint as defendants having received the bonuses are Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Co.; Eugene Grace, president; William E. Corey and Percy A. Rockefeller and fifteen other past and present directors of Bethlehem.

Grace testified at the recent hearings in Youngstown on the proposed merger of Bethlehem with the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., that he had received large bonuses from the company on the basis of company profits.

Vice Chancellor Backes said he would read the complaint and affidavits tonight and would announce tomorrow whether he would grant a preliminary injunction.

The bill of complaint stated the bonuses paid to officers and stockholders were made possible, in large part, by demands for shipping construction during the World War.

Additional defendants named are: Quincy Bent, C. Austin Buck, Rob-

Women Dropped as 'Spies' In War on Rum in Capital

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The police of Washington no longer are using woman informers to capture bootleggers, it was learned yesterday. The last one to be employed here—Aldys F. Larimer—is writing her memoirs for a New York newspaper.

To say that woman informers are not being used in this city is to say that there are no more woman informers on the Federal pay roll. For this was the last city in which woman informers were paid by Uncle Sam.

Under an arrangement peculiar to Washington, the metropolitan police hired the women and the Federal Prohibition Bureau paid them, giving them $5 a day for 90-day periods.

Legally, this arrangement still is in effect, and the Police Department could put several woman informers to work tomorrow at Uncle Sam's expense.

Inspector Thaddeus R. Bean, who has command of the police vice squad, explained last night, however, that women no longer are being hired.

"We have no use for them," he explained. "And unless something unforeseen turns up, I don't think we are going to have any use for them."

The last woman to apply for a job as informer, Bean said, had been arrested once. This, he said, would have eliminated her even if women informers were needed.

Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock once said no woman informers were on the Federal pay roll. But this was an honest mistake on his part, for at that time

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Extending the use of machinery has always made it difficult for the short-sighted to reconcile the interests of groups immediately affected with the interests of society. One of the fundamental reasons for this is the misleading name that has been given to the introduction of mechanical devices for doing work. We call it labor-saving machinery. In reality it is labor-making.

One of the machines most recently developed on a large scale is the motor vehicle. Directly and indirectly it has furnished employment for several millions of people. If both the workers and the tools engaged in the wagon industries became displaced more remunerative employment was found in other and allied fields.

The machine, by increasing the productive power of the workman, raises his wages and standard of living. Transferring and absorbing displaced wage earners with the least possible loss is a problem industry must solve. The process is indispensable to the progress of labor. Concerns and countries that fail to adopt the most modern machinery have the least work and lowest pay for the wage earner. It is only modern equipment that promises the most work and the highest wages.

Labor Urges Government To Adopt Five-Day Week

Federation Council Says System Would Relieve Unemployment; Drive to Begin to Permit Beer Brewing, Giving 1,500,000 Work.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor today adopted a resolution calling upon the Government to "get into step with progressive private employers" and make the five-day week effective for all employes.

Tomorrow the council will be formally advised of the formation of labor's legislative committee for the modification of the Volstead act, with which international unions, representing 2,000,000 of the 3,000,000 members of the federation, have affiliated for the most highly organized drive yet made to permit the brewing and sale of beer.

Such action, according to the spokesman for the committee, would provide almost immediate work for 1,500,000 men and revive a market for farm products that in 1918, the last year of legal brewing, used 950,000 tons of farm products, mainly grain and hops, valued at $110,000,000; relieve unrest and provide the Government with $400,000,000 in revenues.

In the drive 14,000 paid organizers of international, State and local organizations, working through national and local bodies, are expected to take part. The trade journals will be employed and the radio used, with the campaign being carried into every city and town where there is a local union.

Announcing the adoption of the five-day week resolution, President William Green said application of the called to Mr. Collins' office. Later Mrs. Lucy Ropke Tibbetts, sister of Mrs. Bargfrede, and Mrs. Minnie Ropke, her mother, were questioned and released.

Mrs. Bargfrede was the only witness heard yesterday. During her testimony she declared that she feared she "would be bumped off" because "she knew too much," but denied that any members of the Limerick family had threatened her.

Her reappearance on the stand was caused by her statement on the previous day that she had not been asked to tell of events that she had expected to be questioned about.

She told the jury that Beulah was not on friendly terms with the Limerick family.

"Well, tell us about it," said Collins.

Said Brother Hit Girl.

"Her mother told me once that David (Beulah's brother) had hit her once and it took her several hours to 'come out.'"

"Did she ever tell you he objected to her keeping company with you?"

"She said he didn't like me and didn't want me around the house—that he would knock hell out of me if I came over there after telling a lie on him."

"What was the lie? About the assault you told us about yesterday?"

"Yes," she whispered.

"Who said the gun had been found in the stove when you talked with the family on New Year's night?"

"Ethel Limerick."

"Who was present when she said it?"

"Mrs. Limerick, Mrs. Ethel Limerick, my husband and myself."

Saw Ashford With Beulah.

Mr. Collins asked if she could say whether Beulah knew Marion Ashford or Hugh Edwards, both male friends of the family.

She replied that she had seen Mr. Ashford talk with Beulah once and after he had left she asked Beulah: "Where did you find such a funny looking man? She told me he lived in the same house in which her mother lives."

Under further questioning she stoutly denied that her husband had objected to her acquaintanceship with Beulah.

"Yes. I slept with Beulah."

"Who came after you?"

"My husband."

"Did he quarrel then?"

"No."

Mr. Collins pressed the witness on this point, but she continued to deny any dispute.

Warned by Policeman.

"Did you tell your husband that David Limerick assaulted you?"

"Yes."

"What did he do?"

"He told me to stay away from him."

"Is your husband afraid of David Limerick?"

"No; he is not."

Under further questioning she said that she had not gone to her home on Monday night because she was afraid that some one "would bump her off." She said that a policeman named Clyde Rouse had told her a week ago to be careful.

James O'Shea, counsel for Vernon Limerick, William E. Paddy and Richard Reed, developed through questioning that Mrs. Dora E. Limerick, mother of the slain girl, had objected to Beulah's intimacy with Mrs. Bargleredе.

"Once when Beulah told me that her mother objected to me going with her," Mrs. Bargfrede said, "I told her if I had a mother like that I would go jump in the lake."

Husband Accompanied Her.

On the night that Mrs. Ethel Limerick told her about the recovery of a gun in the stove, she said, her husband had driven her to the Limerick home on North Carolina avenue after Richard Reed and Paddy had notified her of Beulah's death.

Mr. O'Shea then dwelt upon the slain girl's fears of Patrolman Robert F. Langdon, who also is held in connection with the death of the 19-year-old usher. The witness replied that Beulah was afraid that two policemen, who had been loitering about the house might catch Vernon and Richard in alleged bootlegging.

On the night after the murder Mrs. Bargfrede said she went to the Limerick home and Mrs. Limerick said:

"Martha, where did you leave Beulah last night?" Mrs. Bargfrede continued, "I said Beulah left me at my home."

"Then she said, 'Martha, Beulah has been shot; they found a bullet in her head.'"

Gun Found in Stove.

"I said, 'they did?' Ethel said, 'Yes, and they found a gun in the stove.'"

"I said, 'what kind of a gun?" She said, 'Well, I'm not supposed to say.'"

Harry T. Whelan, counsel for Langdon, asked only whether Langdon's name had been mentioned on that night and Mrs. Bargfrede replied that it had not.

Mr. O'Shea then asked the witness whether Beulah Limerick was expecting to be confined before she took the trip to Kansas last summer and Mrs. Bargfrede answered that to her knowledge she was not.

Then Mr. Collins asked whether she had been in communication with her husband yesterday morning. She replied that she had not and had learned of his arrest from newspapers.

DROUGHT AID CALLED BIGGEST EMERGENCY

added, "we find today that we have already given drought assistance to 406,000 persons and calls are increasing daily, indicating that the peak is not yet in sight."

The chairman said in the Mississippi flood the Red Cross cared for persons in 170 counties, but that it now was feeding drought victims in 350 counties and had previously given seed to families in 238 counties.

Payne listed 17 States as now receiving aid—Alabama, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, Ohio, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, Arkansas, Illinois, Missouri, Montana, Oklahoma and Texas.

Four other States—Wyoming, New Mexico, Georgia and Pennsylvania—are in the drought area, he said, and Red Cross chapters may require help.

Sharp spoken conflict surrounded the House action. In addition to refusing to instruct its conferees for the $15,000,000 food loan, it voted 215 to 143 against opening the food loan question to debate.

The Senate amendment is sternly opposed by administration spokesmen, who have asserted the Red Cross is fully capable of relieving all human suffering resulting from the drought.

The issue now rests with the conferees of the two branches of Congress.

The following conferees were appointed to grapple with the problem: For the Senate—Jones of Washington and Smoot of Utah (Republicans) and Harris (Democrat), Georgia. For the House—Wood of Indiana, Cramton of Michigan, and Wason of New Hampshire (Republicans) and Byrns of Tennessee and Buchanan of Texas (Democrats).

Flares Up in Senate.

Late in the day the food loan issue flared up in the Senate. Connally, of Texas, a Democrat, appealed for enactment of the $15,000,000 amendment.

"Hunger and starvation are beating at the doors of the farmers," he said. "I ask the Republican leaders to use their influence with the powers that be to release their strangle hold on the other house in order that the conferees may agree to a niggardly sum to feed the farmers and their families."

He read a number of telegrams from his constituents describing conditions and asking for Federal aid.

Representative McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, read a telegram in the House from Walter M. Harrison, of the Daily Oklahoman and the Oklahoma City Times, urging the Senate amendment be approved.

Filibustering Is Charged.

It was McClintic who made the motion that House conferees be instructed to yield to the Senate. It followed an effort by LaGuardia (Republican), New York, to extend the benefits of the bill to the unemployed of the cities. This was overruled on a point of order.

Charges of filibustering and a sharp interchange between Garner, of Texas, and Tilson, of Connecticut, the Democratic and Republican leaders, preceded the action of the House.

Two additional relief proposals were introduced yesterday in the House. Representative Golder (Republican), Pennsylvania, presented a bill to loan $50,000,000 to individual States to relieve unemployment and drought conditions. A resolution to authorize $25,000,000 for the Red Cross for unemployment aid was introduced by Representative Sabath (Democrat), Illinois.

Marlboro Firemen Pick 1931 Officers

Chief Wesley Kerr Again Is Organization's Head; Few Newcomers.

Only five new officers were among the lot chosen to lead the Marlboro fire department at its meeting last night. The president, Fred Wilson, was reelected, as was the vice president, Samuel J. Wyville. Former Sergt. George H. Morris was promoted to the office of captain, the post left vacant by the death of B. Wesley Cranford, who was killed when the fire engine overturned last fall.

The secretary is Earle Wyville, who succeeds himself. Mike Wyville is one of the new officers, acting as treasurer. Both the chief and assistant chief, William F. McCormick and Wesley Kerr, were reelected. Joseph A. Rinehart was chosen as lieutenant and Ray Suit will fill Morris' place as sergeant. Edward Pollock is the new engineer, while Dr. Frank McGuire succeeds himself as surgeon.

J. O. Fisher and W. S. Parran are the new members of the board of directors. They will sit with T. Van Clagett, F. M. Hall, L. G. Sasscer, W. T. Davis, and Charles J. Hill, all of whom were chosen again.

The group also voted to join the Southern Maryland Firemens Association, which comprises companies in Leonardtown, North Beach and La Plata. Lower insurance rates are said to be likely as a result of this move. Membership in the Southern Maryland organization will not affect the membership in the county association.

LABORATORY BLAST BURNS TWO YOUTHS

the floor and tramp on it, for the sharp report which would ensue.

They crystal never got to the floor. The crystal exploded in Walsh's forceps and both he and Springston, who was bending closely over the chemical, were painfully burned.

Teahercs and students, attracted by the blast, rushed into the room. After being given first aid, the boys were taken in a teacher's car to the hospital.

Young Springston, who was the more badly hurt, is a senior and lives at 3141 Mount Pleasant street. Although through wit hthe study of chemistry in high school, he is intensely interested in the subject and often goes to the laboratories at Georgetown University to do research work with his father, Perry H. Springston, said last night.

Thomas Walsh lives at 3902 Windom place northwest. He, too, is a senior and has completed his scholastic requirements in chemistry. It was the fascination which the subject exerts over its devotees which led him to the laboratory when fellow students were eating their lunch.

And, like an untold number of scientists who have pursued their calling to the exclusion of personal safety, he and a confrere paid the price.

WOMEN NO LONGER ARE DRY WAR SPIES

he was not aware of the arrangement between the local Police Department and the Federal Prohibition Bureau.

The arrangement, Woodcock has said since, was in existence before he took office, and he saw no cause for changing it. It had been made, he explained, because of the intimate relationship between the Federal Prohibition Bureau and the metropolitan police.

Washington, not having a prohibition enforcement act, it had been necessary to deputize 38 metropolitan policemen and to give them authority to make arrests for sale and transportation of liquor, Woodcock emphasized.

The woman informers who were paid by the Federal Government were carried on the rolls of the Civil Service Commission as "special employes."

Commissioner Herbert Crosby, who has jurisdiction over the Police Department, said he left such matters as informers to Maj. Pratt and Inspector Bean. In one instance, he said, a woman informer had turned in informatoin that could not be trusted.

LABOR URGES 5-DAY WEEK ON GOVERNMENT

shorter week would relieve unemployment, and that it was the judgment of the council that there would be immediate relief if it were applied at once in such departments as it may be expedient to do so.

"The Government, according to reports reaching us," said Mr. Green, "is actually adding to the unemployed by laying off men in the Navy Yard and other departments, and by failing to fill vacancies.

"The Government ought to make a special effort to retain all its forces and it should apply the ve-day week to help take up the slack in employment."

The committee which will make the drive for modification of the Volstead act is made up of the heads of international unions, State federations and the several departments of the federation and to date includes every large union with the exception of the miners, who have yet to declare themselves, and the printers.

The committee will hold a national conference in Washington February 23 and 24, where the drive will be formally launched.

In the report, which Ira N. Ornburn, president of the Cigar Makers International Union, executive secretary of the committee, will make to the council tomorrow the committee announces its purpose to "use every legitimate avenue for the development and crystallization of public opinion."

"We are determined," says the committee, "to stamp out bootlegging, smuggling, illicit distilling and the manufacture of alcoholic beverages in the home.

"The passage of the Volstead act has done more to create unrest than any other law on the statute books. Class hatred has been engendered. The present generation is becoming a generation of whisky drinkers. Making beer drinking a crime has made criminals out of thousands of former law-abiding citizens.

"Modification would help law enfrcement. As conditions now stand, law abiding citizens are resentful and rebellious, with resulting disrespect for all laws and corruption in public office."

Headquarters of the committee will be in Washington from which will issue through the international unions general directions for the drive which in many respects will resemble the campaigns during the war to sell Liberty Bonds, with the 5-minute speaker a feature.

WET FORCES TO WAR ON DRY BUREAU FUND

House Opponents Plan Fight on $2,369,000 Increase for 500 Agents.

TO COME UP TOMORROW

(Associated Press.)

The rattle of prohibition armor was heard again yesterday in the House.

Wet forces prepared for an assault on the increased allowances for prohibition in the $135,739,000 annual supply bill for the State, Justice, Labor and Commerce Departments.

The contest over the increase of $2,369,000 allowed the Prohibition Bureau for 500 additional agents will be waged by the House wet bloc tomorrow when consideration of the measure gets under way.

In addition, efforts to prevent the use of funds for procuring alcoholic evidence and for "undercover agents" are to be made by Representative Tinkham, of Massachusetts, a Republican member of the appropriations committee.

As reported by that group yesterday, the bill sets aside $11,369,000 for the Prohibition Bureau which was transferred to the Justice Department from the Treasury last June.

The measure allows a total increase of $5,831,000 for the four departments over current outlays. Of this the Justice Department alone received $5,843,000 additional over this year to expand penal institutions, care for growing court business and enforce prohibition.

The Justice Department received $51,239,000; Commerce, $53,988,000, a decrease of $627,001; Labor, $13,830,000, an increase of $1,609,000, to be used largely in deporting aliens, and State, $16,681,000, a decrease of $993,000.

Appeals Decisions Set for Tomorrow

Virginia Tribunal Expected to Deliver Opinions in Important Cases.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Thursday will be the first opinion day of the January term of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals.

Among other opinions expected to be handed down will be one on the case of Garland Smith, charged with killing two Mecklenburg County officers, more than a year ago, which was appealed after he had been sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Another case that has aroused much interest is the appeal from the Circuit Court of King and Queen County, involving the practice of borrowing money from the State literary fund. The lower court has held that under the amended constitution all applications for loans must be preceded by a favorable vote of the people, no matter how small the loan, or for what purpose it is to be used.

BETTER BUSINESS SEEN BY MITCHELL

whole the prostration of industry has not been as disastrous. The business organization is ready to function more promptly and with greater efficiency than after any other major crisis.

"It has been a year of debt paying on a great scale which necessarily means curtailment of purchases and a check on enterprise, but also means that when this policy has run its course new and sustained buying power will appear in all markets. A new state of mind will be developed, more sane and constructive than that which ruled in the boom period.

"This attitude of mind is likely to be reflected in the bond and security markets before the industrial recovery is perceptibly under way."

Incident Occurs After Wife Has Testified in Her Suit for Annulment; Case Is Taken Under Advisement.

A woman fainted in District Supreme Court yesterday at a hearing on her petition for annulment of marriage, and Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat, before whom the case was being heard, was the first to reach her side. He was a few steps ahead of Harry Dertzbaugh, assistant clerk, and James S. McCarthy, assistant United States marshal.

The woman, Mrs. Eva Zambuni Savas, 35 years old, of Park road northwest, near Fifteenth street, is a striking brunette.

Her fainting spell occurred just after she had recounted her story of her domestic difficulties which precipitated the parting from the husband, Theodore Savas, of Whitestone, N. Y. After the swoon, although the testimony had not been concluded, Chief Justice Wheat took the case under advisement. The woman was taken to her home by her attorney, Arthur M. Presmont.

The Savases were married in July, 1928, and the separtion came, the wife said, because of the husband's cruelty.

Mrs. Savas also charged she had entered into the marriage contract through fear and coercion. Savas was not present, but more than two years ago he filed an answer, denying coercion.

Savas then said he had met the woman through her brother; that at that time she was married, but obtained a divorce; that she called him from Albany, N. Y., to Washington, and that on his arrival he learned she had made arrangements for their marriage.

Dry Agent Admits Killing During Rai

Stinnett Testifies He Shot Mountaineer to Save Life of Superior.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Tally Stinnett, 35, testified in Federal District Court today that while deputized as a Federal prohibition agent he shot to death Ernest Grant in order to save the life of V. O. Smith, a State prohibition officer participating in the raid on Enowden Mountain, Amherst County.

Smith also testified that Grant had him covered with a pistol when Stinnett fired.

Grant's body was found on the mountain after the raid and Stinnett, Frank L. Debord, Federal prohibition agent, and Smith, were jointly indicted for murder in Amherst County Circuit Court. Debord and tSinnett had their cases removed to the Federal court here.

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The Wright Aeronautical Co. went to court today to fight what it called Communist activities "threatening" its $10,000,000 organization at Paterson.

The company obtained a temporary injunction from Vice Chancellor Bigelow restraining further interference with the operation of the Paterson plant.

Is on Its Way—
Prosperity in America

The history of the United States shows that every period of depression has always been followed by a mounting wave of prosperity. The revival of good times is due now.

Our buying power is as strong as ever. It simply needs vision and courage to make itself felt. When it does, values will quickly swing upward.

Real estate will be one of the first commodities to benefit by the renewed activity.

Particularly is this true of Washington real estate. Property values in the District of Columbia have a background not enjoyed by any other city in the country. Enormous investments on the part of the Federal Government is a guarantee which no other city has.

Guarantee and insure your future by investing in well-selected Washington real estate now (income-bearing property preferably). Opportunities exist right now that will look extremely low in the future. Carefully placed Washington first mortgages are as sound as the "Rock of Gibraltar."

CREDIT IDEA DOOMED AT JOHNS HOPKINS

COURSES ARE CHANGED

Baltimore, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The American college custom of grading and graduating students by totaling the number of points awarded for attending certain classes and passing certain examinations is to be dropped by Johns Hopkins University, it was announced today.

The new plan, which provides that an undergraduate student shall major in specific subjects at the end of his sophomore year, is based on the so-called Gilman plan in use at the university from its founding until a decade ago. It is to become effective in 1932.

A set of comprehensive examinations in the spring of the year the student presents himself for a degree is provided, but otherwise the daily grind of the student will not be greatly affected, for there will be course examinations also.

The traditional system of awarding credits, said an announcement, "gives the student the idea that once a course is ended it is absolved and may be forgotten."

Because of the credit system, it was said, students are permitted to take any courses so long as the requirements have been filled, and as a consequence they are graduated "with a heterogeneous collection of information which is bound to be superficial."

Under the new plan, the student will be compelled to take courses in conjunction with the subject to which he devotes his major attention. A tentative grouping puts undergraduate subject matter in the general classifications of laboratory science and logic, social science and ethics, and literature and language.

"The proposal plans to do away with the heterogeneouness of subject matter and to insist that a student shall know something about his own and closely related subjects," it was explained.

$1,000,000 Building Urged in Annapolis

Capitol Annex Is Proposed to House Offices in Baltimore.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 13.—The biennial movement to have all State business affairs transacted at Annapolis and therefore all office headquarters centered here, was launched today by the Annapolis city council, which has directed Counselor George B. Woelfel to prepare a bill for presentation to the legislature. The design of the bill will be for the erection of a State office building costing around $1,000,000.

Bills of similar nature have been offered in the Assembly for the last twenty years, covering ten sessions, but they have failed to muster sufficient support, largely because of the influence brought to bear by Baltimore interests and its representatives in the legislature.

Municipal authorities now, however point to the fact that they have a strong champion of the cause in Senator Ridgely P. Melvin, who has advocated it for years. A large majority of the State officers and departments have headquarters in Baltimore, for which the State pays more than $200,000 annually in office rentals, and that within a few years rental savings would cover the cost of erecting one big building here. It is further urged that the constitution requires that State business be transacted in the capital city, and that to have them grouped here would mean much to the business life of the city.

Gold Star Mother Dies.

Danville, Va., Jan. 13 (Special).—Mrs. B. V. Vandiver, 60, died here today after a short illness. She is the first Gold Star Mother to die here. Her son, Ollie Pruitt, was among the first of Danville's war casualties. Her husband and six children survive.

RITCHIE TAKES OATH FOURTH TIME TODAY

NOTABLES TO BE PRESENT

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 13.—While the Maryland General Assembly entered its second week today and held sessions in the afternoon, plans for the inaugural ceremonies tomorrow when Gov. Albert C. Ritchie will be inducted into office for his fourth term marking the beginning of his twelfth year in office, occupied the spotlight among the lawmakers, and vanguard of crowds began to pour into town.

A crew of workmen was busy decorating the building. The governor will take the oath at noon in the presence of a company of men and women distinguished in the official and social life of the State.

The Senate chamber, where the administration of the oath will take place; the hall of the House of Delegates, where the governor will deliver his address, and the rotunda of the capitol have been draped in varicolored bunting national and State colors predominating.

The rostrum in the House chamber is a bower of potted plants.

Address to Be Broadcast.

The governor is scheduled to begin his inaugural address at 12:15 o'clock and it will be carried over a Nation-wide hook-up, extending even to Toronto, Canada, of the Columbia System. Station WBAL, Baltimore, has made plans for an independent broadcast of the entire ceremonies. The governor's address, it is understood, will not be as long as most inaugural addresses are.

With the formal ceremonies over, the governor will retire to the historic Senate chamber in the old part of the statehouse where he will hold a public reception. Meanwhile the Naval Academy Band will give a concert in the grounds of the executive mansion, and officers commanding troops of the Maryland National Guard who will be as the official military escort, will be served luncheon in the State armory in Bladen street.

Political foes and friends will be among the official party at the inaugural. The only two former governors of the State now living have accepted invitations to attend. These are Emerson C. Harrington, Democrat, of Cambridge, and United States Senator Phillip Lee Goldsborough, Republican, of Baltimore City.

The governor also has invited Mayor William F. Broening, of Baltimore, Republican, whom he defeated in the last November election, and former Attorney General Alexander Armstrong, Republican, of Hagerstown.

Others in Ritchie Group.

Others in the gubernatorial party that will assemble at the executive mansion before proceeding to the statehouse will be Millard E. Tydings, Blair Lee and the Right Rev. Edward T. Helfenstein, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Maryland; Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy, and his aid, Commander D. F. Beary; Brig. Gen. Milton A. Reckard, adjutant general of Maryland; Maj. Gen. Fred W. Sladen, commander of the Third Corps area; David C. Winebrenner 3d, secretary of state; Frank A. Furst, and Dr. Joseph S. Ames, president of Johns Hopkins University.

The procession will start at 11:45 a. m. The governor and his official party will be greeted by a joint committee of senators and members of the House of Delegates. At noon, Chief Judge Carroll T. Bond, of the Court of Appeals, will administer the oath of office to the governor. This will take place in the presence of the Senate, the House of Delegates and judges of the Court of Appeals. It will be followed by a salute of nineteen guns fired from a field piece placed on the campus of St. John's College.

METZEROTT OFFERS BILLBOARD TAX ACT

Measure at Annapolis Also Provides License for Firms Using Signs.

FIGHT ON PRESTON FAILS

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 13.—The campaign to abolish billboard advertising signs along the highways of Maryland, or at least to provide severe restrictions upon them, was launched in the House of Delegates today when Delegate Oliver L. Metzerott, of Prince Georges County, Republican floor leader, introduced a bill providing an annual license fee of $200 upon concerns engaging in this form of advertising. The fee would be payable to the several counties and the City of Baltimore.

In addition, the bill prescribes a tax of 25 cents per square yard for signboards up to 50 square yards and 50 cents per square yard for boards larger than that. Placing of such boards along the highways would be under the jurisdiction of the State motor vehicle commissioner, and none would be permitted within 200 feet of any structure. Funds accruing would be used for roadside tree planting.

Groups Meet Tomorrow.

Many women's organizations of the State have long been opposed to billboards, the erection of which has become very extensive. Representatives of these groups have been called to meet in Baltimore on Thursday to outline a definite stand. It is understood that Miss Lavinia Engle, of the Montgomery County delegation in the House, will sponsor a bill embracing the attitude of the women's organizations.

Advocates of extending terms of members of the judiciary beyond the prescribed retirement age of 70 years won a second fight in the House today when a resolution in behalf of Judge Walter W. Preston, of the Third Circuit—Harford and Baltimore Counties—was sped on its way through the legislative mill. Dr. George L. Edmunds, chairman of the Montgomery delegation, led the fight against the measure when a motion to suspend rules to hurry it on to passage was offered. He said his opposition was based upon opposition to extending terms of any officials. James J. Lindsey, Baltimore County, Democratic floor leader, in supporting the resolution, cited the constitution, which empowers the Legislature to extend terms. The vote to suspend carried, 90 to 15.

Owens' Term Extended.

A resolution extending the term of Judge Albert S. J. Owens, of the supreme court bench of Baltimore City, offered in the House under similar proceedings, was adopted today. The vote was 114 to 1. But when the Preston resolution came along, Delegate Edmunds and some of his colleagues thought it was going too far.

Judge Owens will reach retirement age in March, 1933. His term does not expire until 1936. Judge Preston will be 70 in January of the same year, and his term is also until 1936.

TRAFFIC ACT TO GET FAVORABLE REPORT

EARLY PASSAGE IS SEEN

Favorable report is to be made today by the House District committee on the much-discussed and fought-over new traffic law for the District.

Decision to make a favorable report on the measure was reached at a conference yesterday afternoon in the office of Representative Gale H. Stalker (Republican), of New York, chairman of the traffic subcommittee of the House District committee.

Harleigh B. Hartman, vice chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, attended the conference, representing his body; Donald P. Evans represented the United States Bureau of Efficiency, Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, and Edwin S. Hege, of the Federation of Citizens' Associations, represented the public, and William W. Bride, corporation counsel, and William A. Roberts, his assistant, had the difficult job of attempting to represent the District Commissioners and the Utilities Commission.

Represented Two Sides.

The job of Mr. Bride and Mr. Roberts was a difficult one because the Commissioners and the Bureau of Efficiency were lined up on the one side and the Utilities Commission was on the other.

The afternoon conference followed a public hearing held in the morning in the House District committee room, at which the expected fight over the provisions of the drafted and redrafted measure occurred.

Representative Stalker took direction of the hearing and cut the knot of formality by bringing the various parties whose views were in conflict into partial agreement and calling a conference later in the afternoon.

Measure Again Amended.

Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), of Maryland, attended the conference and after considerable discussion the much-amended measure proposed by the Commissioners was amended slightly again on the insistence of Mr. Hartman, who protested that in an effort to unify control of traffic the sponsors of the bill were dividing authority to regulate public utilities.

Mr. Stalker said that he was confident that House leaders would give time for consideration of the measure and that it would be passed by the House and Senate at this session of Congress.

Inquest Into Death Of Veteran Is Set

Inmate Believed to Have Fallen Into Soldiers Home Areaway.

An inquest into the death of Arthur A. Praeger, 50 years old, an inmate of the Soldiers Home, who was found dead in an areaway near the Sherman Building there, early yesterday morning, was ordered by the coroner. A date had not been set. Police believe Praeger fell down a flight of stairs 7 feet above the areaway. His body was found by Charles Van Allstine, another inmate, at 7:30 yesterday morning. Death was caused by a fractured skull, said E. J. Kallus, Home physician.

The man was a veteran of the Philippine insurrection and had lived in the home six years. He was from Ithaca, N. Y. He is survived by a sister, Nellie M. Praeger, of Irvington, N. J.

Officials at the home say Praeger had poor vision and that he might not have seen the stairs and toppled to the areaway.

Resale Price Bill Attacked by Young

Distributer and Consumer Would Be Hit, Ad Club Is Told.

The Kelly resale price bill was attacked as a "menace" to distributor and consumer in an address before the Advertising Club of Washington yesterday by Harold R. Young, Washington secretary of the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

Mr. Young, who spoke following the club's weekly luncheon at the National Press Club, said the measure introduced by Representative Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania "would make the retailers the manufacturers' agent and would prevent him from deciding on his own price policies as the manufacturer does."

Its whole effect, he said, would be to "stultify" initiative in advertising and merchandising. He said the bill should be resubmitted to a committee by the House for further consideration.

Report to Be Delayed On Advisory Council

The special committee appointed December 1 to investigate the usefulness of the Citizens Advisory Council will not be ready to report to the Federation of Citizens Associations at its regular meeting Saturday night, Edwin S. Hege, chairman, announced yesterday. The report will probably be made at the first February session, he said.

James G. Yaden, a member of the committee, has expressed himself as favorable to retaining the council, but others have strongly advocated abolishing it on the ground that it serves no useful purpose. Other members of the committee are William McK. Clayton, B. A. Bowles, and Fred Emery.

Boys' Club to Meet Friday.

Kaufman to Speak At Jewish Temple

Accepts Invitation From Rabbi Simon to Tell About Chest.

Joseph D. (Radio Joe) Kaufman, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Community Chest, has been invited by Rabbi Abram Simon to outline the Community Chest campaign at the meeting of the Washington Hebrew Congregation at the Eighth Street Temple Friday night. Mr. Kaufman will speak at the regular religious services at the temple. He said yesterday:

"Because of the Jewish organizations which are supported by funds supplied by the Community Chest, the success of the chest is a matter of the utmost interest to every Jew in Washington. The Jewish race, like every other in America, has been affected by the unemployment crisis, and its members are exceedingly anxious that Washington, through the chest, shall make adequate provision to care for this situation here.

"We expect to have speakers before every Jewish congregation in Washington before the end of the campaign, and to see that every person of the Jewish race in Washingon is acquainted with the increased needs of the chest this year, which are mostly due to unemployment."

RENTAL SIGN SOUGHT IN SPITE OF PADLOCK

BAN TO EXPIRE MARCH 4

Right of the Government to forbid "for rent" signs on property padlocked under the national prohibition act was questioned yesterday in a petition filed in District Supreme Court. The petition, which was for an amendment of the padlock decree, asked that such a change be made in order to permit the posting of signs signifying that property at 2101 to 2105 Fourteenth street northwest could be rented or leased after March 4, when the padlock injunction expires.

Francis W. Hill, sr., owner of the premises, appears as petitioner. The petition for modification is one of many he has filed since the property was padlocked by Government agencies as a result of its alleged use by the so-called Herbert Glassman gang in violation of the Volstead act.

Through Attorneys James S. Easby-Smith and Francis W. Hill, jr., the petitioner tells the court that a real estate agent sought permission to post the signs but was refused. The request, it is explained, was made to the office of United States Attorney Leo A. Rover. It also is asserted that Mr. Rover was asked to make an ultimate decision but refused to do so.

After the indictment of Glassman and a number of associates the Government applied for padlocks on the Fourteenth street property and other property on L street northwest near Thirteenth street, which it was alleged had been used as liquor depots. The Glassman associates were indicted for alleged conspiracy, but so far never have gone to trial.

Padlock proceedings, however, were instigated and tried. After the verdict of the District Supreme Court an appeal was taken, but was lost.

Nye said he might subpena Estes.

Bettie Jane Bennett, 5 years old, of 1910 Irving street northeast, killed Sunday in front of her home by an automobile, came to her death as the result of an unavoidable accident, a coroner's jury decided yesterday morning. The verdict was returned by the jury which is considering the Limerick case.

Thomas H. Bell, 19 years old, of 2909 Franklin street northeast, driver of the car which struck her, was absolved of blame. Testimony was offered which showed that the child ran in front of his car and that he was unable to avoid hitting her.

DENISON ATTACKS COURT JURISDICTION

LAW FEDERAL, HE AVERS

Jurisdiction of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to decide whether Justice Peyton Gordon of District Supreme Court erred in throwing out an indictment in which Representative Edward E. Denison, of Illinois, was charged with violating the prohibition law was attacked yesterday.

Through his counsel, E. Hilton Jackson, Everett Sanders, and William E. Leahy, Mr. Denison claims that the appeal should have been taken directly to the United States Supreme Court. He cites statutes which provide that a writ of error taken by and on behalf of the United States from decision of a Federal Court can be taken directly to the highest court.

This alleged right of direct appeal deprives the Court of Appeals of jurisdiction, it is said. It also is pointed out that the prohibition act is a Federal statute and that when the District Supreme Court acts on cases arising under it the court is functioning as a Federal District tribunal.

Mr. Denison was indicted several months ago following the discovery of a trunk load of liquor in his office in the House Office Building. He demurred to the form of the indictment, claiming it did not secure him, even if convicted, against future prosecution under the same bill for the same offense. Justice Gordon sustained the demurrer.

The Government appealed, and Mr. Denison's attorneys already have answered the appellant's brief.

District Nets $800,000 From Realty Tax Sales

The District treasury will be bolstered with an addition of about $800,000 through the sale of certificates on approximately 17,000 pieces of property on which taxes were not paid within the proper time, Chatham M. Towers, collector of taxes, announced yesterday as the sale was completed.

As the demand for the tax certificates was not so heavy as usual, several thousand pieces of property were unclaimed. Owners of property against which tax certificates were issued have two years to clear titles.

Street Connection Measure Approved

Coordinating Committee Is in Favor of Benning Bridge Underpass.

The connection of Michigan avenue and Harvard street with the aim of improving traffic conditions in the Northwest section was approved yesterday by the District coordinating committee. Likewise indorsement was given to the bill providing for the widening of Piney Branch road to 90 feet from Butternut street to the proposed Baltimore & Ohio Railway underpass.

Opinion was voiced that the bill authorizing the District Commissioners to close certain streets without obtaining separate legislation for each should be passed as soon as possible. The committee expressed informal indorsement of the plan to close several streets for the building of the Anacostia Junior High School.

Approval was given to the plan to relocate Aspen and Thirty-fifth streets northwest and to the proposed dedication of Texas avenue from Twenty-eighth to Thirtieth street. The committee expressed a preference for an underpass at Benning bridge as a part of the Anacostia Park expansion rather than a "cloverleaf" traffic arrangement.

Columbia Players To Offer Comedy

"The Vegetable" Staged for Congressional Night at Wardman Park.

"The Vegetable," a three-act comedy, under the direction of Aurora M. Poston, will be presented by the Columbia Players at the Wardman Park Theater Friday evening. This will be the first showing in Washington of this play, and special arrangements are being made by the president of the players, Robert D. Chase, for a congressional night.

As members of the Community Drama Guild of Washington, the Columbia Players have many successes to their credit, notable among them their revival of the old melodrama, "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." For the last two years they have won the annual tournament of the guild in which various groups compete with a one-act play.

Sponsors of the play Friday are Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of Senator Davis, and Mrs. Clyde Kelly, wife of Representative Kelly, who are assisting in featuring the congressional night.

Belgian Anatomist Will Lecture Here

Prof. Jules Duesberg to Be at Corcoran Hall Tomorrow Night.

Prof. Jules Duesberg, eminent Belgian histologist and anatomist and rector of the University of Liege, will give a lecture on "The Cause of Unequal Cytodieresis" tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at Corcoran Hall. The George Washington University is the sponsor of the lecture and has invited many prominent scientists from the educational institutions, research foundations and the Government departments to attend.

Prof. Duesberg has done extensive research in the field of cytology, the biology treating of cells, and as there is considerable difference of opinion among scientists as to the process of cell division his lecture will probably be received with great interest.

The professor holds the degree of doctor of medicine from the University of Liege and is an honorary member of the American Medical Association. The Carnegie Institution chose him to conduct special research in the department of embryology of Johns Hopkins University. At the present time he is visiting the United States under the auspices of the Educational Foundation, established by the Commission for Relief in Belgium.

2 Men, Released, Held for Grilling

Alleged Phone-Box Thieves Enjoy Short Liberty After Order.

Charged with breaking into 50 coin boxes belonging to the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., Earl Yost and John Gilbert won temporary freedom yesterday when the company was unable to prove that the boxes had contained money. United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage immediately ordered their release, but no sooner had they been carried to the office of the United States marshal than it was discovered they were wanted elsewhere.

Chief Deputy United States Marshal Steve B. Callahan and Assistant Chief Deputy John J. Clarkston said that the men were wanted in practically every State in the Union on similar charges.

Both men were turned over to headquarters detectives and taken to headquarters for questioning. As they left the cell dock in District Supreme Courthouse the two men smiled, but soon changed demeanor when they realized that detectives were waiting for them. Attorney Bertram Emerson appeared for the men before the commissioner and indicated he might seek their release today on petitions for habeas corpus.

Divorce Plea Is Lost Because Wife Is Absent

Because Mrs. Virginia S. McKee has returned to New York since filing her bill for limited divorce from her husband, Joseph B. McKee, of Fifth street northeast near A street, Justice Jennings Bailey in District Supreme Court yesterday dismissed her petition.

At the same time the justice dismissed a cross bill brought by the husband on the ground that he had failed to sustain his charges. Justice Bailey ordered the husband to pay counsel fees to Attorney Philip W. Austin, who appeared for the wife.

GIVE QUICKLY!

President Hoover's proclamation, calling upon the people to contribute $10,000,000 to alleviate suffering in the drought-stricken areas, ought to bring immediate response. The American people have never been insensible to the distress of their fellows and neighbors. Every emergency of this kind has been conquered.

Public opinion has repudiated attempts to open the Treasury for the distribution of doles. The action of President Hoover and the American Red Cross has left the advocates of a Federal dole without a leg to stand on. The people will take care of their own needs without levying new taxes or waiting for the red tape of bureaucracy to be put into operation.

The Red Cross is to be commended for grappling with this situation. Winter is half gone. Distress is nearing its peak. Relief measures must become effective at once if hunger and cold are to be warded off. The public response to this call should be immediate as well as generous.

In view of the generous public response whenever the Red Cross has called for funds in the past, that organization can assume that it will be adequately financed to carry out a complete program of relief work. It is to be hoped that the Red Cross will not, therefore, wait until $10,000,000 has been collected before putting its program into execution.

This call for aid puts the American people on test. It is inconceivable that the people will allow widespread suffering to go unrelieved when the means and the machinery of relief are at hand. It is up to the public to meet this demand quickly and generously.

EVILS OF AN EXTRA SESSION.

President Hoover is drifting into dangerous waters, thinks the New York World, when he fosters the notion that an extra session of Congress would be a calamity. How dare the President make such an insinuation against Congress? Is not Congress the body that ministers to the wants of the people? Has it not enacted measures of drought relief and bills designed to counteract unemployment? Who can say that Congress is an unstabilizing influence?

Have these critics stopped to think what kind of a Congress would meet in extra session? Election returns gave the Republican party a majority of one member in the House. Since then two Democratic members have died, leaving the present membership at 214 Democrats, 218 Republicans and 1 Farmer-Labor. The Senate is already a bedlam of confusion, and the new Senate which takes office after March 4 will be still more hopelessly impotent to pursue any constructive course.

The Seventy-first Congress has been able to make some progress because the House and the President have forced the Senate into line. Party traitors in the Senate have made plenty of trouble for the administration, but the coalition has had to yield on most important issues. Even this Congress, by the very nature of its erratic course, has caused uneasiness in business and industrial circles. What can be expected from a Congress in which both houses are more hopelessly divided than the Senate now is?

It must be admitted that such a Congress will find difficulty in passing legislation of any kind. Unable to act, it will become a political forum given over to investigations, partisan assaults upon the administration and recriminations of every kind. All it will be able to accomplish will be mischief.

Innumerable radical measures would be introduced at an extra session. Perhaps few of them would be enacted. President Hoover would be on guard against socialistic enterprises and quack remedies for the economic situation. There seems to be little danger from any legislation that such a session might write upon the statute books, but there is no end to the damage that might be done by the mud-slingers and political agitators. Threats of reckless trouble-makers are always more disturbing to business than are the actual laws passed.

In view of its probable impotence Congress ought to afflict the country with only such sessions as are absolutely necessary during the coming two years. Little constructive legislation can be passed, and incalculable mischief might be done. President Hoover sees the great disadvantage of having an extra session, and he is letting the country know about it. Of course, the leaders in Congress recognize it, too, and only those legislators who are seeking political advantage out of this unfortunate situation favor an extra session.

COALITION FILIBUSTERING.

The Democratic-insurgent attack upon Dr. Edgar B. Brossard, of the Federal Tariff Commission, resulted in a defeat only less inglorious than the Power Commission fiasco. Dr. Brossard's nomination was confirmed by a vote of 45 to 36, with a number of Democrats voting against the coalition in which their party is involved. The vote was, nevertheless, purely partisan, as was the assault on Dr. Brossard.

The Tariff Commission can now proceed with its work. Ever since President Hoover gave the six members recess appointments the commission has been under attack. A few senators attempted to mislead the public and their colleagues as to the qualifications of these men, with no other motives than partisan politics to justify them.

Now that the Senate has wasted a week and a half in useless assault upon the Power and Tariff Commissions, perhaps it will be able to spare a few hours to consider one of the eleven appropriations bills that must be enacted before March 4. It is plainly apparent that these attacks have had a double purpose. They were designed to discredit the administration by immolating several of its appointees, and to force an extra session of Congress.

What will be the next pretext for carrying on the coalition filibuster?

THE THIRD PARTY.

In announcing that a press bureau will be established in Washington to make whoopee for the Socialist party, Morris Hillquit, national chairman, scoffs at Prof. John Dewey's plan to create a third party with Senator Norris at the head. Mr. Hillquit says:

> The Socialist party answers all requirements of an effective third party in the United States in its program, methods and form of organization.

Argal, Senator Norris should become the head of the Socialist party. But will he faithfully do his duty? Try him!

The Republican party has tried for a long time to regard Senator Norris as a Republican, but he refuses to cooperate, although "truth in advertising" would seem to require that he should not advertise himself as a Republican and then, after securing election under false pretenses, betray the party. But that is his little weakness, and all parties may as well understand it in dealing with him.

If Senator Norris should agree to become leader of the Socialist party, as he should do as a good Socialist, what assurance would that party have against betrayal by him at a critical juncture? Possibly knowledge of Senator Norris' propensity to betray his party affiliations is the reason why Mr. Hillquit does not suggest that Mr. Norris take the place where he belongs.

A WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITY.

It was expected that the depression would result in decreased enrollments in colleges, but an advertisement offering for sale Palmer College, "located in the thriving city of Albany, Mo.," comes as a very much of a surprise. Other colleges seemingly have been able to weather the storm of economic adversity. What happened to dear old Palmer that financial difficulties, as admitted by a member of the board, should have caused her to fall by the roadside?

It is significant that Palmer has never had a championship football team. Possibly this explains the reason for her downfall. In this day and age no college can amount to much if it doesn't have at least one superior football team every generation. Other factors may enter into Palmer's downfall, but patently her lack of a football team must have been largely responsible.

If this be so, a business opportunity of the first magnitude is contained in the "for sale" announcement. Palmer offers on the market "college property, consisting of a large campus, athletic field, administration building and one large dormitory." What a chance to establish a championship football team! Trained on the athletic field, housed in a large dormitory, its business affairs directed from the administration building, the Palmer team would have at least one advantage over any other college team that should make it invincible. Note that Palmer offers for sale no recitation halls! The Palmer Panthers, therefore, would not be forced to divert their attention from football for sorties into classrooms. Their coach would have no scholastic eligibility rules to harass him. The team would eat, sleep and live football. It could be developed into a world-beater.

Here is a rare opportunity for an ambitious man. Good football teams draw gates up to $500,000 in a single season. If dear old Palmer can be bought at the right price, the purchaser should be able to set himself on the road that leads to financial independence.

FOR RASKOB RELIEF.

No Democrat with a heart can fail to applaud every word of John J. Raskob's 'apologia pro vita sua." He tells why he stepped forward when he was the only Casabianca left on the burning deck. He displays an optimism that looks on impossibilities and is not dismayed. Although only two Democrats have stepped forward with cash to supplement his contributions, and their combined offerings amount to only $15,000, Mr. Raskob confidently expects to be reimbursed for the $225,250 in cash he has lent, and to be relieved of the liability for $400,000 more that he has assumed to some degree.

It required no long recital to prove Mr. Raskob's devotion to the Democratic party. Can it be that money no longer talks? Who is the Democrat, and where is he, who can compare with John J. Raskob in party devotion? A man in Fitchburg, Mass., is said to be his nearest rival, with a $10,000 contribution to his credit. A foutra for such rivalry! It is an insult to compare Mr. Raskob's princely donations with the bagatelle of Fitchburg.

The citizen of independent mind may be disposed to ask, "Well, what is Raskob going to do with the party, now that he owns it?"

But this question can not be properly asked by any Democrat. It is for Democrats to stand behind John J. Raskob, and not too far behind at that. Apparently only three Democrats in the United States are willing to support their convictions with their pocketbooks, and two of these speak with such a still small voice that they are barely heard. What is the party coming to? Of course, the defense will be made that Democrats have no money—that black Republican rascals in and out of office have gobbled up the country's wealth and natural resources, waterpower and all. But surely it can not be that all Democrats are so impecunious. Where is Owen D. Young in this crisis? If he can not contribute a little he can at least formulate a Young Plan that will provide a system of reparations for the relief of Mr. Raskob.

CRUISER CONSTRUCTION

By Commander HOLLOWAY H. FROST, U. S. Navy.

(This is the second of a series of four articles. The first appeared yesterday and the third will appear tomorrow.)

The cruiser-building program which Congress authorized several years ago provided that our total of 10,000-ton, 8-inch cruisers should be 23. Had not the London Treaty intervened eighteen of them would have been either built or building before the end of the present fiscal year, i. e., June 30, 1931. While the treaty permitted an ultimate total of eighteen, it delayed the construction of the last three. Of these three, the first may be laid down during 1933, the second during 1934 and the third during 1935.

Of the first fifteen 8-inch cruisers, five have been built and nine are building. The contract for the fifteenth will be awarded next spring. Appropriations for the sixteenth cruiser probably will be asked of the Congress which convenes next fall, so that construction can be commenced on January 1, 1933. The remaining two vessels probably will be commenced in succeeding years. We have the option, should we so desire, to replace the last three 8-inch cruisers, whose construction was delayed by the treaty, with 45,500 tons of 6-inch cruisers. Naval opinion today does not favor this substitution.

The uses and advantages of the 8-inch cruiser are well known in this country. That they are realized abroad is shown by the largely successful attempts of the other countries to keep to a minimum our tonnage in this category. Suffice it to say, that 8-inch cruisers are designed with extended cruises and long-range single-ship actions in view. Their greatest value is found in trade warfare and distant scouting. In close scouting their superiority is much reduced and in battle they are generally considered less effective than the 6-inch type.

If we build to our full allowance of 180,000 tons of 8-inch cruisers we are limited to 143,500 tons of the 6-inch type. As we already have ten 6-inch cruisers of a total of 70,500 tons a surplus of 73,000 remains to be built. This tonnage may be used for several types of 6-inch cruisers. Those to which particular thought have been directed are:

1. A 10,000-ton, 12-gun, 6-plane, heavily-armored, long-radius vessel.

2. A 7,500-ton, 9-gun, 6-plane, lightly-armored, long-radius vessel.

3. A 10,000-ton, 9-gun, 36-plane, heavily-armored, long-radius vessel with a flying deck.

The 10,000-ton, 6-inch cruiser is very similar to the 10,000-ton 8-inch cruiser and approaches it very closely in effectiveness. In fact, it probably equals the present thinly-armored 8-inch ship. Its duties are the same as those of the 8-inch cruiser. It would be a little less effective in trade warfare and scouting and a little more effective in battle. A vessel of this type is not included in the present one-year program. It is briefly discussed here only because of its possible substitution for one of the other cruisers recommended.

The Navy Department has recommended one 6-inch cruiser of 7,500 tons. There are three general types of such cruisers in existence. First is the British Enterprise. It carries seven guns, all in unarmored single mounts, and mostly on the center line of the ship, so that they may fire on both sides. Second is our Omaha. It carries twelve guns, but they are arranged in a most peculiar manner. Four are in two 2-gun unprotected turrets on the center line and eight are in single mounts on the broadside, where they can fire on only one side. Third is the German Konigsberg, which incidentally is much smaller than the other two. It has nine guns in three 3-gun armored turrets on or near the center line. Thus all its nine armored guns can fire on both sides, compared with the Omaha's broadside of eight and the Enterprise's of six unarmored guns. In our opinion, it is by far the best design for a medium size 6-inch cruiser.

The medium size 6-inch cruiser is considerably less effective than the 8-inch cruiser in trade warfare. The same is true for distant scouting. However, in close scouting it is very effective and in battle it holds a considerable superiority over the 8-inch type.

The role of the cruiser in battle is fourfold: First, to obtain and transmit information of the enemy forces when concealed by mist or smoke; second, to clear the way for our destroyers attacking the hostile battleships with torpedoes; third, to repulse the attacks of enemy destroyers on our battleships, and fourth, when favorable opportunity offers, to attack the hostile battleships with torpedoes.

In the performance of these duties cruisers will be required to engage hostile cruisers and destroyers at close range and come under the medium and long range fire of battleships. They must be capable of avoiding the torpedoes fired by destroyers and possibly by submarines. Under such conditions it is desirable that a cruiser have great maneuverability; that it present a comparatively small target to guns and torpedoes, and that it be capable of delivering a great volume of rapidly-fired projectiles on a swiftly-maneuvering, and often small, target. With these qualities there must be an ability to accompany a fleet to any part of the globe and to cruise with it at high speeds for long distances. A 6-inch cruiser of about 7,500 tons can best meet these requirements.

A provision of the London Treaty permits the use of flying decks on one-fourth our cruisers. This led to the idea of substituting for one three-gun turret of the 10,000-ton 6-inch cruiser a flying deck and hangar capacity for 24 planes—with another twelve in reserve. The remaining nine 6-inch guns, mounted in three well-protected turrets, would make the ship the equal, with its guns alone, of any 6-inch cruiser thus far built. When to this are added 24 planes, capable of taking the air in four minutes for scouting or bombing missions, we have a ship which may well prove superior to even the 8-inch cruiser. Of course, any predictions to this effect are dependent upon what effect a diving bombing attack by 24 planes would have upon an 8-inch cruiser. There is no answer to this until the experiment is made, but there seems to be a good chance that the 8-inch cruiser would be so damaged as to permit the battery of nine 6-inch guns to complete the victory. In scouting the additional complement of planes will give the flying deck cruiser an advantage over either the 8-inch or 6-inch types. In battle both planes and guns will be valuable in the inevitable cruiser-destroyer melee ahead of the battle lines—though the planes must take off before the cruiser enters this fight and must land on aircraft carriers. While there will be technical difficulties of construction to be overcome, this type of cruiser seems to combine in one ship many of the advantages of both 8 and 6 inch cruisers and to be well worth building. And also, it is time Americans struck out for themselves in ship design and started something new. That suits us better than sticking to convention and copying foreign ships.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

RESTLESS JANET.

Little Miss Janet is wondering why
Stars do not tumble right out of the sky.
Where is the wind kept when it doesn't blow?
Where does it come from, and where does it go?
These are the problems which bother her head
When little Miss Janet lies thinking in bed.

Who started kissing and who started words?
Who teaches music to young little birds?
Who thought up colors for children to learn?
Who first discovered that paper would burn?
When bothered by problems so knotty and deep
Do you wonder that Janet sometimes can not sleep?

Last night as she tossed on her bed I went in
And just to console her I lay at her side,
A trick that all parents I fancy have tried.
She was still for a time, but she started once more
With: "Who gave us toenails and what are they for?"

How often we've heard little Janet reply:
"I can't go to sleep howsoever I try!"
But even a grown-up lies tossing about
When his mind has a problem it just can't work out.
So how could a child be expected to doze
Who is truly perplexed by such questions as those?

Wherever Farmers Try to Raise Sheep, Some Man Claims the Right to Keep Dogs.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

AMERICA'S worst enemies, in time of crisis, are Americans.

School children are taught to revile Benedict Arnold because he tried to betray his country, but he differed from thousands of his kind only in the fact that he wore a uniform.

While Washington and his faithful few suffered at Valley Forge for want of food and clothing, American farmers made themselves rich by selling supplies to British troops. And throughout the whole of the Revolution, men who loved money more than freedom did their treacherous best to handicap the patriots who made this a nation.

During the war of 1812, when stupidity and sectional jealousy and foolish blunders had enmeshed the country in a net from which escape with dignity seemed impossible, untold thousands hated their own government more than they hated England and the money-lovers traded with the enemy in open defiance of law and decency.

When the Southern States, outvoted by the manufacturing North, tried to withdraw from the Union—and did in fact secede and set up a government of their own—money-mad manufacturers of arms, with factories located in Baltimore, New York and New England, continued to fill orders from private citizens and State governments in the South four months after Jefferson Davis had assumed office as provisional president of the Confederate States of America.

From the very beginning of white civilization in America—when in defiance of law men sold rum and guns to the Indians—traitors have grown more and more bold, until in the last great war the one desire of millions was to rob their country while the robbing was easy.

We are not, in any exact sense, a nation of loyal citizens. We are a conglomerate mass of many races and sections and factions, each intent on getting all it can at the expense of the others and brazenly determined to thwart any plan or undertaking begun without its approval.

Our selfishness and petty stubbornness and greed are delivering us bound and helpless into the hands of criminals against whom we have no defense.

Day by day the racketeers grow greater in riches and power. And history repeats itself as men who claim the right to do as they please undermine their liberty by trading with the enemy.

PRO AND CON

Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great Show, "Politics," Staged in Congress.

"Insufferable Speechmaking."

New York Times.

Above all, no special session of the new Congress is wanted. Obstructionists scheming in Congress to bring one about would fall instantly under general rebuke. If there is anything like an order of the day which the country is issuing to Congress, it is something like this: "Get the thing done and quit."

Senators may not be able to enact good laws for others, but they are each of them a lovely law unto himself. To speak irrelevantly from the rising of the sun till the going down thereof is a privilege which there is no way of taking from a United States senator. The exercise of it, or the abuse of it, is the thing which friends of the administration most dread. It is known that long-drawn-out speeches attacking President Hoover are already stuffed into senatorial guns, waiting to be fired. It is reported that the Republican senators who wish to save time have resolved not to reply at all to these vain discharges. They prefer to let the President appear to be without defenders in the Senate rather than to compel the calling of a special session of the new Congress, against his will, simply because of killing too much time and all patience by insufferable speechmaking.

Objections to Chinese Loan.

New York Herald Tribune.

The obvious objections to the Chinese loan schemes are too numerous to list, let alone explain. The first is that, according to Finance Minister T. V. Soong, China wants no loan. She wants to balance her budget. The second is that, as the international banking consortium has recognized for ten years, no loan proceeds can be spent in China to the real advantage of the Chinese people, no money can be put into official hands without financing bigger and more destructive wars, except under such alien control of expenditure as would amount to intervention. A third objection is that China does not need silver. In the routine of trade China last year took half the world's total output and, because chaotic conditions blocked Chinese production and export, little bullion reached the interior except through the medium of the military, who destroy more than they spend, and great silver hordes lie frozen in every commercial center.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Advocates National Effort on War-Time Scale to Bring About Prosperity.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is a fact which no one versed in our history can gainsay, that both of the major conflicts in which we have engaged, the Civil War and the World War, were accompanied by great waves of prosperity, some of it temporary indeed, but much of it of an abiding character. There is little doubt that the same thing would happen if we were to enter upon a great war tomorrow, unless, of course, we were invaded and overwhelmed by a calamity such as came to France in 1871. As in the past, we would float vast loans and commit ourselves to vast expenditures in the defense of our national life and the prosecution of our national policies. The result would be, as in former wars, a feverish industrial activity, a free and rapid circulation of money, the accumulation of wealth by many individuals who would spend lavishly, high wages, and a general diffusion of economic well-being among nearly the whole civilian population.

Why could not the same thing be accomplished in peace time? Is the call to arms, the fancied romance of war, the armed menace to national life necessary to make the Nation open wide its pocketbook and spend money, if need be, like water? Without any leaning to pacifism, one may say that peace calls for as resolute, fearless and generous patriotism as war. Can anyone doubt that if in the next eighteen months the National and State governments were to spend on public works and needed constructive enterprises one-quarter of the amount that the United States spent for winning the World War over approximately the same period of hostilities—can anyone doubt that a far greater prosperity would result than followed in 1917-1918? Some waste and possibly some graft there might be, but the direct constructive results of such expenditure—contrary to what happened in wartime—would be great and tangible: roads built, rivers controlled, deserts made to blossom, natural forces harnessed and made to work; and the indirect wealth and prosperity resulting would be, as in wartime, vastly greater.

Is it not possible that the present and proposed expenditures for public works, excellent so far as they go, are much too small? Would Congress and the people have been satisfied with such appropriations in the World War? Is not the present economic crisis perhaps as crucial and challenging as that of the war?

Government Would Save Money by Paying Veterans Now.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In recent weeks it has been pointed out that the Government can save one billion dollars by paying off the adjusted compensation certificates now held by the war veterans. It seems that the idea is based on the saving of the 4 per cent interest that would be compounded on the certificates over the next fifteen years. The Treasury Department can borrow the entire amount necessary to make full settlement now and pay only 2 per cent on the borrowings. Thus a saving of 2 per cent compound interest could be made. The certificates represent a Government obligation that must be paid eventually, regardless of politics.

The amount of money involved, if paid now, would at one stroke definitely settle the Government obligation, relieve cases of distress, provide necessities, put men to work, finance home ownership by the veterans and do an amount of good that would be felt for many years before that money ceased to circulate. The statement that the relief would be only temporary is an evasive subterfuge on the face of it.

Suggests Sale of Wheat to China on Long-Time Payments.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A transaction that would result in great benefit would be the sale of the 100,000,000 bushels of wheat now owned by the United States Government to the government of China, providing that country could be prevailed upon to buy it. The Chinese need the wheat now, and this country undoubtedly would be glad to dispose of it on any reasonable time payments. Chinese are proverbially honest and if the Chinese government would take the wheat and issue a note to pay for it in a few years' time, it would be a much better arrangement of the matter than to keep the grain for any length of time. As the affair stands at present, the grain is only a dead weight on the American Government and will unfortunately tend to keep down the price of wheat for a long time to come. In the meantime millions of Chinese might be saved from suffering and death through starvation.

Mrs. Russell Holds That Military Training Is Inconsistent With the Kellogg Pact.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The efforts of the Liberal Club of Johns Hopkins University to abolish compulsory military training in schools and colleges seems to be a much needed step in the right direction.

It must appear either extremely ludicrous or extremely hypocritical to other nations for the United States to take the lead in establishing a solemn pact to outlaw war, and then to insist upon continuing the training of its youth to be outlaws.

COPYRIGHT REVISION APPROVED IN HOUSE

185-34 VOTE ENDS FIGHT

(Associated Press.)

The House yesterday overwhelmingly approved the Vestal Bill to revise the copyright laws. The eight-year-old proposal now goes to the Senate.

A vote of 185 to 34 ended the long dispute over this first redraft of copyright laws since 1909. It followed an exchange on the floor between party leaders over a Republican charge that the Democrats filibustered against the measure Monday.

The bill provides United States membership in the International Copyright Union, now embracing about 40 nations, and confers automatic and exclusive right to copy upon producers of creative work, and divisible copyright saleable for separate uses of the product.

Representative Garner, Democratic leader, called for an explanation from Representative Tilson (Republican leader), Connecticut, of a statement off the floor that the minority was conducting "an adroit, cleverly concealed filibuster."

"I thought it was rather cleverly concealed," retorted Tilson.

"If it constitutes a filibuster for the gentleman from Mississippi, Representative Busby, to oppose the bill as he did yesterday," Garner came back, "or if it constitutes a filibuster for the gentleman from Texas, Representative Lanham, to try to promote this legislation, then we certainly had a filibuster."

Tilson complained of repeated Democratic calls for a quorum, insisting "the facts in regard to the presence of a quorum fully justify all that I said."

Busby termed the reference by Tilson a "rank injustice to me." The Mississippian insisted on separate expressions on two proposed amendments, but lost both.

MOSLEMS THREATEN INDIAN CONFERENCE

ations. Tonight a conference spokesman declared more had been read into Sir Muhammed Shafi's statement than was intended and that no crisis existed. On the other hand, Lord Peel, the conservative spokesman, said the statement raised grave issues.

Thus the conference approaches its final sessions, with the broad shoulders of Premier Ramsay MacDonald again carrying the load of responsibility for British statesmanship.

Plenary Session Awaited.

The whole fate of the negotiations seems to rest on the declaration he will make at the final plenary session, either Friday or Monday.

Tomorrow he will make an approach to the whole problem when he unfolds the draft report of his minorities committee. He is expected to declare that the rights of minorities in the future India will be definitely and securely safeguarded.

This will be the firs tstep toward placating the Moslem at a time when Great Britain seems on the verge of yielding a great measure of self-government to India.

The basic point of the Hindu-Moslem dispute is that the Moslems demand separate electorates in federalized India, while the Hindus insist that Moslem candidates take their chances in joint electorates of all communities. This was the position when the delegates assembled two months ago, and no progress has been made toward solution, although various compromises have been suggested.

There were so many reservations to the report Lord Sankey made on a plan for federal government that tonight one general reservation was drafted including all individual points of difference as well as the blanket reservation of Lord Peel and Sir Samuel Hoare, Conservative party delegates, who agreed that nothing had been done, but expressed their willingness to continue a study of the problem.

Public Opinion Final Resort.

During today's discussion Lord Sankey said it was obvious a detailed scheme for federal government for India could not be drawn up at a London round table and that public opinion in both Great Britain and India must be consulted in the final analysis.

These remarks served to emphasize that the conference was not a constitutional body, but merely a consultative gathering, and that whatever offer Premier MacDonald has to make must be confirmed by the British Parliament and be accepted by the Indian people.

Speaking at a dinner tonight, Prime Minister MacDonald told the Indian delegates he believed a constitution would be evolved at the conference under which India would enjoy not only happiness but self-respect.

"And then it may be, my Indian friends," he said, "that when our constitution breaks down, you, having enjoyed the blessings of the Indian constitution you are going to get, will offer your timely services to come here and enable us to redraft ours and enable this country to enjoy the great felicities and peace which I believe you are going to enjoy when you make it possible for the new constitution of India to be promulgated."

Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, of the United States, in a brief address, said he wished to testify to the world-wide favorable impression created by the members of the conference in displaying high purpose and courage.

He said existing facts had been neither avoided nor minimized, but met as honest men should always face problems affecting the good of humanity.

The dinner was given by the British-Indian delegation to the round-table conference and was attended by leaders of all political parties and by various members of the Diplomatic Corps.

Nurses Rarely Over-Fat

Because They Know

Doctors, nurses, druggists and others in touch with modern medical practice are rarely over-fat. Nor are people who consult good doctors. They know that a main cause lies in a gland weakness. And they combat it with the factors used in Marmola prescription tablets.

Marmola is made for those who wish to employ this new-day method at small cost. It is prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory to fit the average case. People have used it for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others, and the use has grown and grown. Now all can see on every side that excess fat has met a foe it rarely can resist.

All because science has found the gland weakness which lets too much food go to fat. It has found the right treatment in feeding what that gland fails to supply.

That is what Marmola does. A book in each box gives the formula and tells how and why it acts. No abnormal exercise or diet is required. Simply take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal and vitality comes up.

Let Marmola fight your over-weight in this right way. Do it to look normal and feel normal. Don't wait longer while so many enjoy its good effects. Telephone your druggist now for a $1 box.

RASKOB IS ACCUSED OF OBSCURING FACTS

Newspaper Man-Critic Says Democratic Chairman's Reply Is Evasive.

MAKES CHARGES ANEW

Chairman John J. Raskob's defense of his alleged "underwriting" of the Democratic party was denounced as "deliberately designed to obscure the facts" in a reply made public last night by Frank R. Kent, Washington correspondent for the Baltimore Sun.

It was an article by Mr. Kent that elicited Chairman Raskob's letter in denial of assertions that the party is "owned" by him.

The correspondent reiterated his earlier statements that Raskob "had underwritten the very heavy expenses of the Democratic headquarters in Washington, had assumed all of the party liabilities, reduced the million-dollar debt, personally loaned the party a quarter of a million dollars, and owned the committee machinery."

The party chairman's reply, Kent said, was "evasive, deceitful and disingenuous." He said Raskob is not really "indignant," but is "just a breast-beating amateur in politics who has had the covers pulled off him."

"I don't like the idea of the Democratic party owing you so much money," the correspondent wrote the party chairman. "Even if I didn't know you, I wouldn't like it. It gives a Democrat an unpleasant and uncomfortable feeling," Mr. Kent wrote him. "It would be to the party's advantage to 'pay you off and get rid of you' in the next campaign."

BASE OF MONUMENT PLANS TO BE SHOWN

MANY ITEMS ON AGENDA

Some of the plans under consideration by the Washington Monument committee for improving the grounds around the base of the mnoument will be revealed by William T. Partridge, consulting architect of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, at the two-day meeting of the commission which opens tomorrow. The proposal to establish a sunken garden was found impractical as it might endanger the shaft.

The commission will discuss the exact location of the District World War Memorial, which is to be near the Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool, the proposed Washington Museum, the progress of the avenue-of-States plan for East Capitol street, changes in the highway plan, markers at the entrances into Washington and pending District legislation.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d will report for the special committee on selecting a site for the proposed War and Navy Building or buildings and also on the Beeler plan for providing street car and bus transportation in the triangular area when the Federal building program gets under way.

Studies made by the commission staff of plazas, squares and circles throughout the city will be presented by C. W. Eliot 2d, city planner, who will also report on the regional trend of population in nearby Maryland and Virginia.

The commission will take a field inspection trip along the proposed fort drive, which is intended to link Civil War forts encircling the Capital. Several recommendations of the District coordinating committee will also be considered.

AUDIENCE PRAISES CONCERT OF GIGLI

Opera Tenor Forced to Give Four Encores Before Quitting Stage.

FOLK SONGS APPLAUDED

Beniamino Gigli, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, gave a notable concert yesterday in Constitution Hall, when the audience would not let the singer leave the stage at the conclusion of the program until he had sung four encores.

The audience then only consented to leave when the tenor laughingly pointed to his throat, indicating exhaustion for the moment. Curiously enough, while his operatic arias were warmly received, the great enthusiasm of the audience was exhibited after he sang some simple Neapolitan folk songs in a manner so inimitable as to bring salvos of applause.

Signor Gigli was assisted by Miss Kathryn Newman, coloratura soprano, a prima donna of rare gifts, while Miguel Sandoval, a pianist of more than usual ability, was his accompanist.

Sings in Italian and French.

Signor Gigli's voice, hailed as the greatest tenor heard since Caruso, outlined a series of tone pictures in operatic selections, Italian ballads and a French group.

The audience was thrilled with the exquisite pianissimos, high tones, and other vocal pyrotechnics alike of the singer. His diction, whether singing in French or Italian, was impeccable, and his phrasing was artistry itself.

Signor Gigli's first song was "Ombra mai fu," by Handel. This was followed by "Caro mio ben," by Giordani, while the concluding number of the first group was "Intono all' idol mio," by Cesti.

Verdi Aria Sung.

The first operatic aria sung by Signor Gigli was from Verdi's Il Ballo in Maschera" and the delighted audience got a glimpse of the vocal and histrionic genius of the star.

Miss Newman won instant favor by the beauty and coloratura qualities of her voice. Her first number was an aria from "I Puritani," by Bellini.

Then came the group of Neapolitan folk songs by Signor Gigli, which aroused the audience to such high pitch of enthusiasm. One of these ballads, "Vurria," was written by M. Sandoval, Signor Gigli's accompanist of the afternoon. The opera star insisted on sharing the applause which came at the conclusion with the composer.

The concert was given under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

STAR OF "THE BLUE GHOST"

SEENA OWEN.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

SEENA OWEN, now, this Seena Owen, who is playing at the Belasco in "The Blue Ghost," well, there's a girl for you—a real personality. This is her first experience with "trouping," the gypsy life that takes players from town to town, one night stands, one week stands, going, going, all the time; here today and gone tomorrow. You see, up to this time Seena Owen had been in the movies. Though her looks and youth belie it, Miss Owen spent fourteen years "on the lot."

* * * *

If you ask Seena Owen, she'll confess forthright that she likes the theater better than the movies—and she's not being untrue to her first love, either; for there is this between acting in the celluoids and play-acting before an audience—human sympathy, or the lack of it. For sixteen weeks, more or less, Miss Owen has been trouping up and down the Atlantic in this trick play from the pen of Bernard McOwen and it has given her an ambition. She wants to have a career on the stage. So, when this opus gives up the ghost—as it will on Saturday night—Miss Owen will hie herself to New York, there to look over a play that has possibilities; with a part in it somewhat similar to the central character in "Anne Christie."

* * * *

Stage training is not a bad idea for a motion-picture actress in these days of the all-talkies. It is the belief of this young lady, too, that the best days of the stage and screen are ahead—and she is undoubtedly right there, for the best minds in both mediums of expression have learned a few things in these past five years that they never knew before. This terrible upheaval in the show world has not been without its results, and from now on things are going to change mightily. Of a certainty that old road is going to be rediscovered. It just has to be. Believe it or not, Miss Owen, in her trouping, found audiences hungry for plays—which probably explains why "The Blue Ghost" had such a long run of it, here, there, and yon.

* * * *

While Mr. Stoddard Taylor, manager of the Belasco, watches the spooks haunt his house night after night—as the mysteries of "The Blue Ghost" unfold themselves—he is not averse to heralding the next occupant of his stage. That, of course, is the way of show business. You must always look one week ahead. So, he calls attention to a play entitled "In the Best of Families." This is the piece that will confront playgoers along Lafayette Square next week—a comedy by Anita Hart and Maurice Braddell. It has Charles Richman in the cast, the same Charles Richman who looks so powerfully like the late President Harding that the secret service men were baffled, years ago, when Richman played Washington.

* * * *

Down at the National, where Francine Larrimore is having a time of it on a high sea, in "Storm Song," Mr. Harry Rapley and his able assistants are preparing for another Theater Guild production—"Green Grow the Lilacs." This is the play by Lynn Riggs that had its first taste of the footlights in Boston not so very long ago and received the plaudits of the pundits. It comes in here with a typically Guild cast, which means that it will be well played, well staged and, probably, well attended.

Sickels, of Beechwood Park, Pa.; Miss Marguerite Cohn, of Fort Smith, Ark.; Mrs. George S. Fitzgibbon, of Moline, Ill., and Mrs. Dwight E. Aultman, of Norman, Okla.

The hands were: Mrs. Sickels, Dealer, South: Spades, K, 9; Hearts, A, 9, 2; Diamonds, K, Q, J, 10, 7, 3; Clubs, J, 5. Miss Cohn, West: Spades, A, Q, 7; Hearts, Q, 10, 5; Diamonds, 4; Clubs, K, Q, 10, 9, 8, 6. Mrs. Fitzgibbon, North: Spades, 8, 6, 5, 2; Hearts, K; Diamond, A, 9, 6, 5, 2; Clubs, A, 7, 3. Mrs. Aultman, East: Spades, J, 10, 4, 3; Hearts, J, 8, 7, 6, 4, 3; Diamonds, 8; Clubs, 4, 3.

Mrs. Sickels, the Dealer, had a choice between bidding Diamond and No Trump; but with a six-card Diamond suit including four honors without the Ace, and with only an Ace and a King on the side for a No Trump, the Diamond was clearly the wiser bid; so she opened the auction with one Diamond. Miss Cohn, West, bid two Clubs, preferring to bid the minor on her six-card suit rather than to play at the weak major that her partner might name if Miss Cohn made an informatory double.

Mrs. Fitzgibbon, North, with a hand which fitted so admirably with her partner's Diamond bid, decided to shut out further adverse bidding by calling four Diamonds, which held the bid.

Miss Cohn, West, opened the play by leading the King of Clubs; Mrs. Sickels, Declarer, played the Ace from North, the dummy hand; Mrs. Aultman, East, played the Trey, and Declarer the 5 from her own hand.

Mrs. Sickels, counting her tricks, was sure of all of her trumps, and also of winning with her Hearts because one of the closed hand's small Hearts could be ruffed in Dummy, but she saw she must lose one Club and game would be lost unless she could win with the King of Spades. As the hand stood, she would have had a showdown for game at No Trump, but the die was cast and she had to play Diamonds.

To trick 2 she led Dummy's Deuce of Diamonds; East played the 8; Declarer the King, and West the 4. Declarer then led the Deuce of Heartts from closed hand; West played the 5; Dummy the King, and East the Trey. To trick four, Dummy led the Diamond 5; East discarded the 4 of Hearts; Declarer overtook with the Queen of Diamonds, and West discarded the 6 of Clubs. Declarer then led the Ace of Hearts; West played the 10; Dummy discarded the Deuce of Clubs and East followed suit with the 8 of Hearts. Declarer continued Hearts with the 9; West played the Queen; Dummy, North, ruffed with the 8 of Diamonds, and East played the 7 of Hearts.

Declarer then had her hands in such shape that she was ready to put Miss Cohn, West, in the lead with a Club. So to trick seven Declarer led the 7 of Clubs from Dummy; East played the 4; Declarer the Jack, and Miss Cohn, West, won with the Queen.

Miss Cohn could not lead another Club because Dummy could ruff and closed hand obtain a valuable discard. She had not a Heart or Diamond to lead, therefore she was forced to the Spade suit, of which she led the Ace. Dummy, North, played the Deuce; East the 4; and Declarer, South, the 9. Mrs. Sickels, South, then faced her hand, showing the winning Spade and four trumps, for which adversaries conceded her the balance of the tricks. North and South therefore scored 35 for tricks and 90 for honors. At Duplicate or Progressive they would also have scored 125 for game in one deal.

In his remarks about the exhibition hand Mr. Work selected as the feature of the game the way in which Mrs. Sickels forced a lead up to her King-9 in Spades. As Mr. Work expressed it: "With that holding, the average player would only have seen that it was necessary to win with the King of Spades in order to make game, and after a vain lead of a trump or two would have led Spades from the dummy hand with the hope that the Ace was in Mrs. Aultman's, East's, hand, and therefore the King could be made a winner. There was hardly an even chance of that as Miss Cohn, in the West, had bid, and Mrs. Aultman, in the East, had not; but leaving out that indication of the location of the Ace, Mrs. Sickels found a play far superior to leading toward a King. Of course, in hands in which a lead up to a guarded King can not be forced, it is advisable to lead toward it; but if the forced lead can be worked out as in this hand the lead toward the King need not be risked.

"The crucial play was the discard of the Deuce of Clubs from Dummy on the Ace of Hearts from closed hand. It was necessary to reduce Dummy's Clubs to two—the same number as held by the closed hand. If the Dummy had been left with three Clubs when Miss Cohn, in the West, was placed in the lead she would have led another Club and the game would have gone a-glimmering."

At Contract, the bidding of this hand under the common sense system would have been: South, two Diamonds, thus showing a minimum of six tricks with Diamonds the trump, at least three of which are high-card tricks. West would have bid three Clubs, and North five Diamonds. North would count her hand as having assisting tricks, or raisers, for South's Diamond bid as follows: 1 for a singleton; 1 for the Ace of Diamonds; 1½ for five cards of partner's suit with a singleton in the hand; and 1 for the Ace of Clubs—a total of 4½ raisers. As it takes one less raiser than the number of tricks to which the bid is advanced to jump partner's suit-bid of two or three or four of any suit or to five of a minor, it will be seen that North had ample strength to bid five Diamonds immediately and thus end the contracting.

The play in the two games would be identical. Mr. Work pointed out that it happens in this hand that North or South playing at No Trump could have made an easy game; but with such a preponderance of cards of one suit it was wiser to try the longer minor route to game; and, of course, the minor was worth more on account of the honors, which in Contract would count 100 points.

In closing, Mr. Work announced these hands for problems 13 and 14 in his handicap series: South—Spades, A, Q, J; Hearts, A, J, 8, 2; Diamonds, K, J, 7, 4; Clubs, A, K. West—Spades, 9, 6, 3, 2; Hearts, 10, 3; Diamonds, 9, 6; Clubs, Q, J, 9, 4, 3. North—Spades, 7, 5; Hearts, K, 7, 6, 4; Diamonds, A, 5, 3, 2; Clubs, 8, 7, 2. East—Spades, K, 10, 8, 4; Hearts, Q, 9, 5; Diamonds, Q, 10, 8; Clubs, 10, 6, 5.

With South playing No Trump (three No Trumps in Contract), West, to trick one, would lead the Queen of Clubs. The questions are:

Question No. 13—How many entries does the North hand contain?

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

YOU can't do your best if you are only one half well

NO MATTER how conscientious you are—no matter how anxious you are to do your best, it just cannot be done consistently day in and day out, when you are only one-half well.

Body weakness, lack of appetite, underweight, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils are symptoms of a low blood count. These may indicate that you need S.S.S.

S.S.S. restores the red-blood-cells to normal. Your appetite picks up, your whole body is strengthened, invigorated—you feel like yourself again!

How to recognize a low blood count

Fatigue without any apparent cause, sluggishness, loss of appetite, loss of body weight, paleness, boils and pimples are outstanding symptoms of a LOW RED-BLOOD-CELL COUNT. The red-cells are your body builders. They carry nourishment to every part of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the tissues. When your red-cells drop to 80 per cent of normal strength, you haven't the proper number of workers to keep you "fit." 60 per cent of normal is dangerous.

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Anemic red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is responsible for body weakness, loss of appetite, underweight, paleness, sallow complexion, boils and pimples.

New British Naval Attache Is Approved

Capt. MacNamara Is to Succeed Ritchie, Here Three Years.

The terms, hail and farewell, express the order of things at the British Embassy these days. No sooner has Mr. Michael Wright who has been serving as third secretary departed, than announcement comes from the admiralty in London that King George has approved the appointment of Capt. Patrick MacNamara as naval attache at the embassy here. Although he will serve in the same capacity at the British missions in Mexico, Panama and Cuba, he will make his headquarters in Washington.

Capt. MacNamara will succeed Capt. J. S. M. Ritchie, who will complete three years of duty in Washington in March. With Mrs. Ritchie he will leave the last of March for London for duty at the foreign office. The departure of Capt. and Mrs. Ritchie will cause keen regret among the young married members of the Diplomatic Corps, with whom they have been popular during their residence here.

Capt. MacNamara is married, and will bring his wife to Washington with him when he arrives early in April. He has recently been serving in London in the intelligence division of the admiralty, and has been in the royal navy for more than 30 years. During the World War Capt. MacNamara was on duty on the battle cruiser Tiger, with the Grand Fleet.

Enochs Sailing With His Bride To New York

Former Miss Shirley to Visit Mother in Washington.

While the battleship Pennsylvania rides at anchor in Philadelphia, Capt. John M. Enochs, just named her commander, is "rolling up from Rio" with his bride, the former Elizabeth Randolph Shirley, and on January 19 will reach New York after an absence of some time in South America, where he went as executive officer of the United States naval mission to Brazil.

After disembarking in New York Capt. and Mrs. Enochs will take in a little of day and night life in the metropolis before coming to Washington and to Fairfax County, Va., where Mrs. Enochs' mother, Mrs. Thomas Edward Kernan, makes her home and where Mrs. Enochs will visit while the captain is on cruise.

Capt. Enoch's assignment as commander of the battleship represents one more laurel in his naval career, for the officer is known and popular from Joffa to Shanghai, wherever the flag of his country waves. Stationed in Brazil at the time of their marriage, in October, Capt. and Mrs. Enochs have maintained a sort of salon in the South American capital, as both come under that significant classification, cosmopolites. For both have spent much of their lives in other lands, both speak half a dozen languages and count among their friends widely known people whose zone of travel is the wide world.

Maj. and Mrs. Henry Leonard have with them for a short time the latter's sister, Mrs. Ralph Ellis, who until recently has been at her home in Berkeley, Calif., where her son, Ralph Ellis, jr., is a student at the University of California. Mrs. Ellis will take possession soon of her house at 3318 N street, where she intends to live permanently, although she still maintains the beautiful old house, The Puddles, near Jericho, Long Island. The third of the Warder sisters is Mrs. John W. Garrett, wife of the United States Ambassador to Italy.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

The family name 'Brisbane" is of combined French and English origin. It means "break-bone," and was obviously first given as a nickname. It is often impossible to tell whether the names of this type were first given seriously or in sarcasm. Thus, "Brisbane" may have been first applied to an unusually good fighter or to a man who was conspicuous for his weakness and inability to fight.

In spite of the many different theories and guesses concerning the family name 'Shakespear," its explanation is quite simple. Like "Brisbane," it belongs to that group of nicknames which were generally given in sarcasm, although it is possible that in certain cases their meanings are to be considered as compliments. Thus, "Shakespear" may have been first given to an unusually strong and active spearman or to one with conspicuous inability to do what his name suggests. Old English records show a large number of names of this type, that is, names composed of a verb and a noun. A great many of them are decidedly uncomplimentary and have therefore been disguised or dropped in more recent times. A certain Robertus Shakasper is mentioned in an English record of the year 1379. The similar form "Shakelance" occurs in the Hundred Rolls. "Shakeshaft" appears to be much later. A certain Nicholas Shakeshaft is mentioned in an English document of the year 1542. As is well known, the common variations in the spelling of "Shakespear" are "Shakespeare," "Shakspear" and "Shakspeare."

The family name "Friederich" (also spelled "Friedrich," "Friedrichs," &c.) is very common in Germany. Its source is the old Germanic "Frithareiks" (English "Frederick") which means "peace-ruler." Some German families which originally bore this name have adopted the Latinized form "Friederici."

Jane Corbett Interprets the Mode

Lenief's deep pink and silver lame (lah-may) evening gown is very stately with its unusual draping.

Paris, January 13.

IN EVERY collection of any size that shows the latest ideas for resort wear, the jacket is all-important. I never saw so many versions of it before in my life, ranging from very abbreviated Eton jackets and boleros to hip-length jackets of cardigan lines.

They have a definite use, too, besides being so ornamental. Most of the dresses I saw were sleeveless, and the gay little blouses, too, and this year it is not permissible for a Lovely Lady to wear sleeveless frocks on the street at any time! Voila, the jacket's the answer—for indoors, sleeveless frocks are allowed to sport their sleevelessness shamelessly.

These jackets play their part in the matter of color contrast, too. Contrast was very evident in all the clothes I saw, on morning, afternoon and evening frocks. For the morning frocks the jacket just about always matched the brightest color in the print or plaid; in afternoon frocks the jackets were often gray or beige and worn over brightly colored dresses and for evening the little jackets of velvet were brilliantly colored themselves—flame, or cerise, or emerald, and worn over white or eggshell gowns.

Oh, yes; I had only to see the season's resort clothes to realize how much depended upon the jacket and how nobly the jacket played its part!

Fashion French: Tabac (tab-bah), tobacco; Tablier (tah-blee-ay), apron; Tache (tahsh), spot; Taffetas (taffeta), taffeta; Taille (tie), waist measure, size, figure.

Aphrodite, 1931 model, drapes her lovely self in Lenief's rose and silver lame (lah-me) evening gown and awaits developments. And while she's waiting I have time to sketch for you the gown in all its stately loveliness. See the draped decolletage which leaves one white shoulder entirely bare and falls loose in the back. And sh-h-h-h, but wouldn't calories count most terribly beneath as form-fitting a gown as this one?

Holding Beauty.

Have you ever seen a statue purporting to represent beautiful womanhood which did not have a beautiful bosom?

Civilization makes demands on our figures that were not made upon Roman matrons, but are we going to sacrifice our womanly loveliness? Certainly not! We are going to use the intelligence that civilization also gives us and assist our bodies to have and to hold beauty.

And your intelligence should point to you the absolute necessity of sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for an illustrated leaflet, telling you clearly terms you can follow whether or not you know how to crochet, how to make this truly marvelous form-fitting and molding brassiere—a secret of the haute couture? 'N' a dainty evening brassiere along the same lines is thrown in for good measure.

Don't you find Dare's weekly fashion letter well worth looking for? Do look for it in The Sunday Washington Post every week.

Au revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

A MAN ADVISES "KARICK."

IF "Karick," who wrote this column in despair some days ago, could only read the many letters sent to comfort her she would realize that this world is just one family after all. "Karick," facing motherhood alone, wrote from the depths that she saw only one way out. We asked her to send her name so that we could help her. "Karick" has not answered our plea. But many have answered hers. Today a man writes his views on the "Karicks" of the world. He married one and wants the world and "Karick" to know that he blesses the day he met this girl who once suffered all that "Karick" is suffering today. His letter sheds new light upon the times in which we live. Read it.

Dear Frances McDonald:

That poor little "Karick" has thousands of friends whom she does not know. Tell her so for me. You are one of them, of course, but there are thousands more. It is a blessing that one like you is given the opportunity to extend to suffering souls such sympathy, and above all, understanding. It so happens that I am myself peculiarly qualified to understand what this girl is really going through and I will tell you why.

Years ago I met a fine little lady who like "Karick" had met and loved the type of man to whom the word mother has no meaning. She, too, was left to face her future alone. One more forced to regard motherhood as a curse instead of a joy. I know how she suffered for she is the most sensitive and tender-hearted little woman in the world. The selfish ingrate who deserted her in her hour of terror has since married a veritable shrew who has made his life a burden while my life has been made heaven on earth by the sweet soul he discarded after she had trusted him. I am just human enough to rejoice that he has received the portion of wormwood that he deserved, and received it at the hands of the woman he chose instead of the one to whom he owed protection.

My dear wife is a girl of sweetness and dignity, the most loyal wife a man could ask. She is far too good for me and too good to me. I respect and love her utterly for all that I know her to be. Have I been magnanimous and big and forgiving? What rot! I am just grateful that life was kind to me that once in sending her my way. And let me tell you my biggest holiday is the anniversary of the day I met her. My whole life was changed that day to happiness.

And let me say there are thousands of men who are intelligent enough to know that these girls like Karick and my own wife have the God-given gift of affection which is what makes a home and holds a man in it. Their affections may be misplaced or may even lead them to give a scoundrel credit for being a man. But once married they have the ability to love and to make a man feel surrounded by love and trust. And do not think men are too stupid to know that many a girl is strictly proper because she is incapable of loving any one or anything but herself. And these are the ones who will marry without a qualm a fellow for whom they care nothing. And their mothers are just the Mrs. Grundys who would not sit in the same pew with a girl like Karick. Yet they see nothing indecent in marrying their girls off without love to sanctify the union.

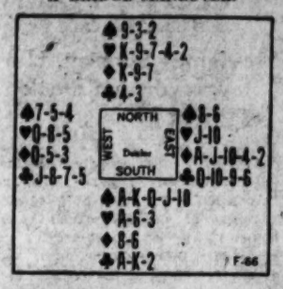
Here is one man who without bragging can say he could have married several ambitious young ladies. But he had just sense enough to know that he meant nothing to them other than future security. He now knows what is it to be loved—and blesses the day he met his little "Karick."

Long live your column. All intelligent and straight-thinking people are with you and with "Karick," too.

ONE LUCKY MAN.

WORK ON BRIDGE

A BRIDGE MANEUVER.



With the above hand at Auction Bridge South might bid three Spades and shut out all other bidding, or bid one and rebid if East ventured two Diamonds.

The hand actually was played at Contract Bridge; South bid three Spades and North four Spades.

West led the Five of Clubs. South took with the King, led his Ace of Clubs and then a third Club which North ruffed; then 3 rounds of Spades exhausted the adverse trumps. Next South's Ace and North's King of Hearts won, and a small Heart was led, which West won. West then led a Diamond through North's King, and the Declarer lost two Diamond tricks but still made his contract.

Was it possible for him to make more?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Declarer could have made one extra trick, and probably could have made two extra if he had won the first Club with the Ace and then led a small Heart from closed hand and played the Nine from dummy. East winning the trick with the Ten of Hearts probably would not have led his Ace of Diamonds in the face of the exposed King in dummy. If East led anything except the Ace of Diamonds to trick 3, Declarer would take twelve tricks as he would be able to ruff one Club in dummy (as he did in the above play) and after taking out the trumps, to run dummy's Hearts, discarding two Diamonds on them. If East, sensing the situation, led his Ace of Diamonds, Declarer would get five-odd.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:15 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m., and from 5:30 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

The planetary aspects for January 14 favor those who are interested in mental work, such as literary or journalistic efforts, scientific investigation or philosophical study. Young people will find worries inseparable from love affairs, and the green-eyed monster, jealousy, will play its part.

The child born on this January 14 will have a pleasing, but not forceful, personality, and will be endeared for its merry, thoughtful and unselfish ways. It will have a superficial mind, but a clean one. It will be only an average student, with very little ambition to excel.

There is not much starch in your character, and you quickly wilt when confronted with real grief or disappointments. Mental cowardice makes you "turn tail" when you should "face the music." You will put up with a great deal of discomfort for the sake of peace, and unless you have some one to fight for verse will be forfeited through lack of grit and gumption. Many of your self-sacrifices are unnecessary and unappreciated.

You have no vicious traits, and very few selfish ones, and you are an enemy to no one but yourself. Your conscience is always on the job and you never turn a deaf ear to that "still small voice" which keeps you on the "straight and narrow." You are good, because it is not natural for you to be otherwise, and you are not easily tempted. You will finally find your proper niche in the world, where you can lead a subdued, a sane and an almost ambitionless life. Your spiritual development is much keener than your mental or physical one and you do not "hit it off" very well with those who are worldly. You will never allow your ideals to sink for the sake of material progress. If you have a sympathetic mate, you will "blossom out" considerably, and your latent talents may be brought to the front.

Successful people born January 14:
1—Benedict Arnold, the traitor.
3—James R. Mellon, banker.
4—Felix Warburg, banker.
5—Jean de Reszke, operatic tenor.
6—John I. Nolan, representative in Congress.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES. LYNE.

Grandmother's Footstool.

Thanksgiving had not yet come when Michael decided on what he would make for grandmother's Christmas.

He had noticed that her feet did not rest comfortably on the floor when she sat knitting in her armchair. Grandmother certainly needed a footstool.

At Michael's school there were no manual training classes for children of his age (he was 9), but he was permitted to use the shop from 8:30 o'clock until 9 each school morning.

Without help he drew the plan for a footstool that would be just high enough and wide enough, that would stand firmly on the floor and that would be a credit to the family living room.

Every school morning from Thanksgiving until Christmas Michael was up and out of the house a half hour earlier than usual.

Each morning he struggled alone with hammer and saw and rasp. Because the school authorities did not permit him to use a draw knife, he had to fashion with his own pocket knife the curved ends which seemed to him an essential part of his project.

At last it was finished and painted a beautiful green color. But he was not wholly satisfied. He sighed resignedly as he explained to mother that he had wanted to upholster it, too, but that the job was too hard for him. Did she think that grandmother would be pleased with it as it was? Would she really use it?

Undoubtedly grandmother was appreciative, for into the making of that footstool went initiative, perseverance and the capacity to meet obstacles cheerfully.

It showed the ability to give up the ease of the moment for a deferred satisfaction and that one giving pleasure to some one else, and to accept without whining a result that represented his best efforts even though it did not come up to his highest hopes.

EASTER LILIES IN JANUARY.

JUST now your Easter lily, which is likely to be developing rather rapidly, needs special care. The green fly (aphis) is almost sure to trouble it at this time. Examine carefully the heart of the shoot, where the growth is young and soft, as this is where the aphis is to be found. No doubt it does not appear to injure the plant at present, but the result will be apparent when the buds begin to show. Where the aphis is present the buds are sure to be split, curled up or in some way imperfect.

To prevent this and keep down the green fly, you need to be continually on the alert. Whenever you see the first sign of aphis, dampen the foliage and give it a good dusting with powdered tobacco. You may have to repeat this treatment several times before the blooming season, but it is necessary to insure perfect flowers. Never allow your Easter lily to become potbound. It requires plenty of root room. Never let it suffer for want of water. If you neglect it in this particular the flowers will be very indifferent ones.

Easter lilies take kindly to plenty of stimulation, and the easiest way to administer this is to top dress the soil in the pot with a handful of chicken manure or bonemeal. This acts as a mulch. Merely place it on top of the soil. In a few weeks remove this and add more manure. In repotting lilies—and, in fact, any plants—never fill the pot to the rim with soil; rather leave one inch at the top to hold water.

I see so many plants in living rooms so full of soil that there is no room for water and all the moisure the plant receives is the little water that soaks in while you are pouring it on the main body of the soil never becomes thoroughly soaked. The poor plant can not possibly flourish until planting time comes in the spring, and then it usually takes the entire summer to recuperate.

The Life Story of Gen. Wood

By HERMANN HAGEDORN

By HERMANN HAGEDORN.

CHAPTER XI.

Gen. Wood turned next to the organization of the municipalities of Santiago Province. These municipalities were less cities than townships, such as he had been familiar with on Cape Cod, each including its point of concentrated population and a sizable territory of farms and hamlets surrounding it. The municipalities, taken together, covered therefore the full area of the province. Each had its mayor, with a council appointed by the civil governor and as many minor officials as the finances of the community would bear. Gen. Wood generally made a clean sweep of the incumbents, brought together his committees of notables and let them appoint new officials or, in the smaller towns, hold elections.

"The temper of the people is excellent," Wood wrote the President, "and I believe that I have their confidence to a great extent. The plan of administration has been one of personal supervision to the greatest extent possible. I inspect, advise and counsel with hundreds of people daily, always with one end in view; that is, getting them to disband, getting them to work, and impressing upon them the necessity of recognizing the absolute authority of the civil law. The great danger of these tropical people is the tendency to militarism and its consequent revolutions and upheavals."

Best Respond Quickly.

He was astonished how eagerly the best of them responded to the practical ideals with which he sought to supplant the poisonous sentimentalism of the agitators; astonished, too, how quickly these men grew. Apathy had given place to confidence and interest. Even the poor and the ignorant seemed to expand. When, early in November, the best elements in Santiago asked him to give them a mayor from among themselves, Wood promptly appointed a man named Emiliano Bacardi, who had proved himself one of the ablest men in the city. It happened that Bacardi was the manufacturer of a famous brand of particularly potent rum. "I don't know what my puritanical friends in Massachusetts will think," he said to Hanna, "when they learn that I have selected Mr. Bacardi as Mayor of Santiago."

Gen. Wood turned next to the courts, which had been abandoned and disorganized.

Under the President's proclamation concerning conquered territory, Wood had power to retain as much or as little of the Spanish law and precedents as seemed to him advisable. Since the Cubans had rebelled against the oppressive laws and methods of Spain, he decided that it would be foolish to give such laws and precedents American sanction, further than might be necessary to protect vested rights and interests.

Citizens' Rights Defined.

Wood issued an order which brought to every inhabitant of the province a clear statement of his personal rights under the law and of his relation to the military and civil authorities. It was, in effect, a bill of rights, a paraphrase of the first ten amendments of the American Constitution, providing for the right of peaceable assembly, religious freedom, fair trial in criminal as well as civil cases, security in person and property against executive whim or arbitrary law, the privilege of habeas corpus, freedom of speech.

The order was greeted with enthusiasm all over the island as the "Santiago Constitution," for it brought to the Cubans fundamental privileges for which they, for 100 years, and Anglo-Saxons for 600, had spent some of their noblest blood. The effect was invigorating. Only here and there the military mind looked on askance.

"Ever since I have been in Santiago," Mr. Wood said subsequently, "I have prescribed liberal doses of the United States Constitution, and the treatment has been remarkably efficacious."

More Like Him Sought.

"If you have any more generals like Leonard Wood," wrote one enthusiastic resident to the New York Evening Post, "send them along, and we will let them be our absolute rulers as long as they like."

The city council translated this enthusiasm soon into a medal and a parchment. "To make one's self beloved of the people in difficult moments is the best of victories."

But it was not only in Santiago that he was beginning to loom large. At home, from Maine to California, his name was acquiring a curious kind of glamour. The picture of a young Army doctor rising out of obscurity to autocratic power in an atmosphere of palm trees and tropic moons appealed to the imagination. Romanticists were thrilled at having a new hero; the more thoughtful wondering how the Nation was going to handle the colonial problems suddenly thrust upon it.

Through that busy, strenuous half-year he was the only American governing in Cuba; no one shared the limelight; all eyes were on him. Newspapers and magazines sang his praises; in distinguished houses in Washington and elsewhere he was the subject of table talk.

Work Wins Applause.

A reference to Wood's work in Santiago, which Roosevelt made at dinner in New York, brought a storm of applause.

"It would have done your heart good," Nathan Straus, the philanthropist, wrote Wood the middle of November, "and been to you some compensation for your sacrifices and heroic devotion to a most noteworthy and most arduous task."

"Your whole policy and course of action seems to be in the highest degree wise and able, and I find that to be the universal opinion here," wrote Henry Cabot Lodge. "You are making a great reputation and winning the admiration of everybody."

Wood was made major general of volunteers early in December. He was on an inspection trip at the Morro when the news reached Santiago, and the first he knew of it was the booming of the major general's salute from the Punta Gorda batteries. The people of Santiago took enormous pride in his new honors and showed it as only Latins can. They rang their church bells, they brought out their bands, they toasted him in every cafe in the city, they solemnly proclaimed that he was the best Governor their province had had since Columbus first touched Cuban soil. There was something childlike and touching in this jubilation over the personal fortunes of their king.

Other Emotions Awaked.

The news of Wood's advance woke other emotions elsewhere. The elder officers of the Army had growled when Wood was given the brigade over the heads of two lieutenant colonels of the regulars; but they had borne the infliction, remembering the humble rank to which he must soon return. This second jump within five months startled them. What rankled was that Wood was a doctor, a mere member of the medical corps. The line and the medical corps had never been too friendly, and in the early eighties there had been a row which had become famous, on the momentous question whether medical officers connected with the Army should bear military titles. The medical men had won and the line officers had not yet got over it. The fact that Wood was a protege of President McKinley made inevitable the easiest answer to the query, how any man—line or staff—could get ahead so fast.

Wood's days of omnipotence were drawing to a close. After interminable procrastinations, the Spaniards had finally agreed to evacuate Cuba on the 1st of January, 1899. The question who was to be the first military governor of the whole island under American rule now became urgent.

An emotion that was almost dismay ran through the responsible element in Cuba when the President announced, the middle of December, that he had appointed Maj. Gen. John R. Brooke as governor. Brooke had for a period been military governor of Porto Rico and the record he had left behind was not reassuring.

Conservative and Slow.

He had been a good soldier in the Civil War, a brigadier when Wood was still clinging to his mother's skirts; but since those bright, heroic days he had, like most of the other elder officers in the Army, expended what energy he retained on insignificant issues. He was rigid, conservative, methodical, slow to move. Even in the Army the heavy cast of his mind had been noted respectfully by the enlisted men. Charles G. Dawes, the Comptroller of the Currency, remarked on the ungodly fuss Brooke had made on one occasion when at some function in Omaha he had inadvertently been placed on the music committee.

Wood looked on Brooke's appointment with apprehension. For five months he had been monarch of all he surveyed. Henceforth he was to be subject to the will of another. That that will happen to be the will of a particularly narrow military pedant, merely intensified his apprehensions.

A correspondent found Wood in his office in the palace with his desk piled high and his anteroom crowded. He had just been through another siege of fever and looked harassed. "I am willing to stay here and work like a slave," he exclaimed. "I am willing to fight the fever and do ten men's work. I will stand any hardships and do everything within my power if they will only let me alone."

Brooke Assumes Authority.

That happened to be precisely what the vague forces he called "they" had no intention of doing. On January 1 Brooke took up the reins. No adequate study of conditions on the island had been made in advance, and no specific instructions had been given to him. The administration in Washington was, indeed, entirely vague in its own collective mind concerning its intentions in Cuba, beyond a certain amiability which in spots was wearing thin. Washington was honest enough to want to keep its voluntary pledge to the world not to annex Cuba, but no one could be sure that facts might not be stronger than sentiment and force annexation. Meanwhile one moved from step to step.

Brooke, feeling his way, stumbled in his first stride, proclaiming the old Spanish law in force subject to such modifications as he might from time to time decree.

Santiago shook with indignation. After centuries of despotic government, the people had for two months been living, to all intents and purposes, under democratic institutions. They had had every reason to believe that these institutions would be permanent under American occupation. Suddenly they were snatched from them. All the old laws, the iniquitous decrees, all the old centralized despotism were once more enthroned.

Second Shock Comes.

Santiago had barely caught its breath when it received a second shock. An order from Brooke directed that henceforth all revenues of the port of Santiago were to be sent to the treasury at Havana, where funds for the government of Santiago Province would be allocated by himself according to his own judgment. Now the fat really was in the fire. The order meant presumably that work on public improvements—on roads, on the harbor, on the water works—would be stopped at once and that thousands of men would be thrown out of employment.

All this was bad enough; but what seemed worse was the echo of Spanish tyranny which in the ears of the Cubans ran through these initial acts of the American governor. The standing grievance against the Spanish government had been that revenues collected in Santiago were spent for the benefit of Havana. Under the Americans, too, it appeared, Santiago was to be governed from a distance by men who had no knowledge of her needs. The Chamber of Commerce passed resolutions of protest; mass meetings were held at which Gen. Brooke's name was hissed; the newspapers flamed with indignant editorials. Brooke responded with peremptory orders to Wood.

"Respectful discussions of the needs of the City of Santiago are permissible, but excited and unintelligent criticism of the policy and purposes of the President, or those of the division commander conformable with his instructions, are wrong and must not be countenanced by you.

Might Use Power.

"Exercising proper discretion, you, as commanding general, will be expected to conduct the affairs of your department along the lines prescribed for guidance, repressing with your influence, power, if necessary, all acts that may tend toward interference with the orderly execution of, and adherence to, every regulation prescribed by the President for the government and business affairs of the island."

Shades of the freedom which Wood had not only himself enjoyed but had granted to the people of Santiago!

"I have never prohibited the people in this department," Wood explained subsequently in a letter to Corbin, the adjutant general, "from holding public meetings or assemblages for the purpose of expressing their views or asking redress for what they believed to be grievances, but have given them authority to hold meetings in an orderly manner whenever they desired, knowing that the desire of the United States Government is to prepare these people for a liberal form of government, and knowing that no liberal form of government can exist where free expression of public opinion is not tolerated. I have also permitted the press of this department to criticise freely in decent language my administration of affairs, knowing that this administration must be very weak if there could be any criticisms which were incapable of refutation. I am still of the opinion that this policy is the one to be adhered to."

PICKANINNY—
WHEN SPANISH SETTLERS IN THE SOUTH SPOKE TO NEGRO CHILDREN THEY USED THE PHRASE "PEQUENO NINO," WHICH MEANT LITTLE CHILD. IT SOUNDED TO AMERICANS LIKE "PICKANINNY," AND THIS MISPRONUNCIATION OF THE SPANISH WORDS HAS BECOME PART OF THE LANGUAGE.
SLACKER—
IN ENGLISH COLLEGES, MANY YEARS AGO, A SLACKER WAS ONE WHO REFUSED TO TAKE PART IN GAMES OR EXERT HIMSELF TO HELP HIS SCHOOL. DURING THE WORLD WAR THE TERM WAS APPLIED TO ANYONE WHO SHIRKED WAR DUTIES.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—Talkie town topics:

One of Hollywood's thousands of extras is Harold Lockwood, jr., son of the star who was at the top of the ladder of movie fame when influenza caused his sudden death in 1918.

MYRNA LOY

Young Lockwood, who resembles his father, semi-occasionally plays small parts, but more often is one of the mob.

The only street I am certain is named after one of the citizens (a former one now) is Greta Nissen avenue, in a suburb near here.

There are others that may or may not have been given names to honor picture folks, including Pickford, Talmadge and Dix streets. A move once to give some of the important boulevards "movie names" didn't get very far.

Believes In Mysticism

Myrna Loy, red-haired and freckled screen vampire, who hails from up Montana way, believes in mysticism. She never makes an important decision without first meditating to seek what she calls "divine illumination."

When Mrs. Wallace Reid, widow of the star, opened an apartment house, she gave tenants their choice of furniture. Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, moving in, decided he liked that in the lobby, so it was forthwith sent up to his suite.

Jackie Searl, the youngster who did such good work as Sid in "Tom Sawyer," got a long-term contract on account of it.

The comedian, Hardy, signs his first name $am.

The Famous Bunny

Going back into movie history, John Bunny, one of the first comedians, was among the earliest players to be really starred.

The comedies Bunny was in were written around him and his vast girth, so it was logical to put his name with the titles of the pictures, hence he was a star.

Bunny quit the stage and Shakespearean roles to try the movies. He was waiting at a studio gate with other extras when a director spied him mopping his perspiring brow. He thought the fat man's face so remarkable that he immediately hired him.

In 1913 Bunny took off 40 pounds by dieting. But his popularity left with his tonnage. Then he went back to three or more meals a day and the box office returns fattened.

Bunny died a number of years ago.

GARLIC THIRD IN FEATURE RACE

Choice, Prince Zeus Give Way to Mince Pie Near Finish.

FAIR GROUNDS RACE TRACK, New Orleans, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Mince Pie, F. P. Leteller's chestnut filly, came from a long way out of it to capture the Olympia Purse, one mile contest which featured the program at the Fair Grounds course today. Prince Zeus landed in second place, a half-length behind the winner, with Garlic, the favorite, third.

Unable to get going in the early stages, Mince Pie made up ground rapidly after going a half mile and, getting to Prince Zeus and Garlic a furlong from the finish, outstayed them.

The track was heavy and holding, but excellent weather brought out a good weekday crowd to view the sport.

Princess Tell Graduates From Maidens.

Princess Tell, Joseph Leiter's chestnut filly, received an excellent ride from Jockey Eugene James to graduate from the maiden ranks in the opening race, a sprint of six furlongs.

The daughter of Runantell was rated close behind the pace set by All Girls and wore down the brown filly when ready. All Girls held on for second place with Brighton third.

E. Schwartz's bay colt, Fly Guy, won his second straight race when he cantered to an easy victory in the second at one mile for 3-year-olds. Jimmie L. finished second and Valedictory saved third after setting the early pace.

Well up from the start, Fly Guy moved around Valedictory on the turn into the stretch and rapidly drew away to win as his rider pleased.

Duelist Easy Winner In Fifth.

Duelist stole into a long lead soon after the start and cantered to victory in the fifth race, a mile and a furlong contest in which eight started. Torch was second and third place went to Vanquish.

Jockey Carl Meyer was astride Mrs. E. L. Swikard's bay horse, and he allowed Duelist to open up a big margin and remain there throughout.

G. U. Prep Tossers Beat Landon, 27 to 24

Georgetown Prep's covey of dribblers crashed through to a 27-24 victory over Landon Prep yesterday at Epiphany Gym, after a second-half drive which saw them overcome a slight lead and much strong play on the part of the Landoners.

It was too much Ezekin and O'Brien in the second half for the Landon crew. The fleet guard and center for Georgetown took matters mostly in their own hands, displaying a passing and scoring combination that was responsible for the victory.

It was the Garrett Parkers' third win out of four starts.

White Socks Is Added To Mrs. Lee's Stable

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Jan. 13.—Mrs. D. N. Lee, of Middleburg, prominently identified with horse shows and hunting clubs of the East, whose stable in invariably one of the chief prize winners at show ring exhibitions, has added White Socks, a big 16.3 3-year-old chestnut gelding, to her famous triumvirate of horses, Broken Glass, Rock Arden and Dew Bark. White Socks was purchased from William Skinker, of The Plains, Va., according to word brought here today from Middleburg.

Mrs. Lee is planning an active season when the horse shows open next summer. She confidently expects her latest buy to be an outstanding star this year. He is jumping well in schooling and promises to be a worthy stablemate of the famous big three of Mrs. Lee's stable. These four sterling jumpers will be first shown at Worthington Valley Md., in May, later at the Devon Show, and in every one of the shows on the Virginia circuit, beginning with the National Capital Show at Washington and closing the season with the Warrenton classic.

St. Alban's Tossers Find Bethesda Easy

Coach Kessler's St. Albans had little trouble in disposing of the Bethesday High dribblers in the Saints' gym yesterday afternoon, 28 to 17.

Fletcher was high scorer of the game, but Freeman's passing shared in picking a feature, as most of the Saints' baskets resulted from his feeding of the ball to his mates.

Alexandrians Start Series Thursday; Bar Railroad Five

ALEXANDRIA, Jan. 13.—Alexandria's city basket ball series for the championship will begin on Thursday of this week in Armory Hall, when the Alpha Delta Omega and Del Ray Clubs clash in the opening games.

All details for the playing of the series were mapped out at a meeting held in the Alexandria Gazette office. Teams represented were the Alpha Delta Omega, Del Ray A. C., St. Mary's Lyceum and the R. F. & P. Railroaders. The latter team was ruled out of the league because of their affiliation with the Washington Independent League, which body is recognized as a professional organization.

The three local teams will affiliate with the A. A. U., and it is understood the winner of the city series will clash with the champions of Washington after the completion of the District of Columbia championships, to be sponsored by The Washington Post, one game being played here, one in Washington and, if a third is necessary, a coin will be tossed to decide the playing floor.

Armory to Be Scene Of All Games.

The Gazette will present a handsome trophy to the winner of the city championship. All games will be played in Armory Hall and the series will be run off in one month.

The schedule mapped out for all games follows:

January 15—Omega vs. Del Ray.
January 16—Del Ray vs. St. Mary's.
January 22—Omega vs. St. Mary's.
January 28—Omega vs. Del Ray.
February 5—Del Ray vs. St. Mary's.
February 12—Omega vs. St. Mary's.

ST. MARY'S—Hamilton, Lucas, Thomas, Mumford, Gensmere, Lyons, Sinclair, Collum, Newton, Vogt.

Railroaders Forced To Withdraw.

Managers present at the session were Ralph Scrivener and Dr. C. T. Dreifus, of the Alpha Delta Omega; Bob Vogt and J. T. Preston, jr., of the St. Mary's Lyceum; P. P. Clark, of the Del Ray Athletic Club, and Robert McDonald and Earl Cronin, of the R. F. & P.

After hearing Manager McDonald's plea for entrance, the managers voted that his team must be entered in the A. A. U. before he could be registered in the series. The Railroaders' leader couldn't meet these terms and withdrew.

The session was presided over by Fred Petitt, assistant sports editor of the Gazette. The managers selected Jack Tulloch and Fred Petitt to handle all games as officials.

FROSH SQUAD SELECTED AT V.P.I.

Prospects Less Promising Than Those of Last Season.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Jan. 13.—Twenty-five players have been selected for the freshman basket ball squad at V. P. I. These candidates were selected from among threescore that reported for practice several weeks ago, and nearly all will be kept in training throughout the season, according to Henry Redd.

The squad, according to Coach Redd, lacks the experience and the scoring power of his 1930 squad, which never met defeat at the hands of a Virginia team in more than a dozen battles.

Season Will Open January 21.

The season will open on Wednesday, January 21, against Glade Spring High School on the home court. The schedule, which lists an unusual number of high school games, includes but one contest with an out-of-State adversary—that with Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va.

The squad: A. F. Jackson, Norfolk; W. L. Russell, Waynesboro; M. Cunningham, Roanoke; F. P. Eversole, Bristol, Tenn.; B. H. Sutherland, Radford; H. B. Pack, Appomattox; C. F. James, jr., Appomattox; C. F. Robinson, Canastoto, N. Y.; C. A. Groth, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Al Casey, Portsmouth; W. G. Buchanan, Roanoke; H. L. Kyle, Fordwick; A. H. Stephenson, Ivor; E. N. Hibbert, Ashland, Ky.; R. S. Cofer, Montvale; F. A. Hurtt, Beckley, W. Va.; F. E. Wisoman, Charles Town, W. Va.; R. B. Bowen, South Norfolk; H. E. Pritchett, Danville; F. B. Calkins, Yonkers, N. Y.; T. A. Nadeau, Philadelphia, Pa.; J. W. Berry, Staunton; H. H. Downing, Front Royal; T. H. Lewis, Lynchburg; D. Gilman, Hampton.

January 21—Glade Spring High School at home; 24, Roanoke High School at home; 28, V. M. I. freshmen at home.

February 3—Vinton High School at home; 6, Woodrow Wilson High School at home; 7, V. M. I. freshmen at Lexington, Va.; 12, Potomac State School at home; 14, Washington and Lee freshmen at Lexington, Va.; 18, Emory and Henry freshmen at home; 19, Hopewell High School at home; 21, Washington and Lee freshmen at home; 24, Salem High School at home.

Giant Hurlers Shape Up Well, Figures Show

New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Despite a common belief to the contrary, the New York Giants didn't lag behind in the National League pennant chase because of an inferior pitching staff, according to Charles Stoneham, club president.

Stoneham now has the official figures of the league which in a large measure back up his contention.

The Giants, the figures show, had three pitchers who rated better in the number of earned runs allowed a game than three hurlers on any other National League club.

Carl Hubbell, southpaw, was headed only by Brooklyn's Dazzy Vance, in holding down the opposition's earned scores. Directly on Hubbell's heels followed Bill Walker, another lefthander, and Fred Fitzsimmons, rolypoly right-hander, held down the ninth position.

The best showing by any other club was made by Brooklyn. The Dodgers had Vance in the vanguard, Babe Phelps in the sixth place, and Adolfo Luque, tenth.

The pennant winning St. Louis Cardinals had only one man in the first ten, Burleigh Grimes, who wound up fifth.

DOGS FURNISH POWER.

Smith College girls had a sledding party this winter in which dogs of the Byrd Antarctic expedition were used for power.

SOME SHOOTER.

SWIM HOPES HIGH AT VIRGINIA

Most of 1930 Talent Back With Several Good Additions.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 13. With most of the men back from last year's varsity and a wealth of good material from the 1930 first-year team, Virginia's swimming team has started practice for the coming season, under the direction of Gordon Peyton, of Brooklyn, N. Y., former tank captain, who has been coach of swimming for two years.

The Cavalier natators were not defeated in the South last season. This winter the varsity tank squad, of which Fred Hatch, of Akron, Ohio, is captain, hopes to keep its slate clean again against all Dixie foes.

Faster Relay Than That Of 1930 Looked For.

Coach Peyton says that he expects to have a faster relay team this year than last and that Penick, Chenery and Lampton, all from last year's varsity relay, will have to do some good work if they expect to hold up successfully against the competition being furnished by men from the freshmen members of last year.

Diving will be taken care of this year by Goldenburg, Fishburne and McMurtry. Capt. Hatch will perform in the breast stroke event. Andrews, who starred in the 220, the dashes and the relay last year for the freshman team, is being made over into a back stroke performer to help Capt. Hatch take care of this event.

Evans and Echard, both from the first-year team of last year, are showing up well in the dashes. Garrett, who performed in the breast stroke events for the yearlings in 1930, is being tried out in the 440-yard race. Sayer, who swam with Andrews on the yearling team in the 220, the dashes and the relays, is also trying the 440 this year.

The varsity schedule will be announced shortly.

Richmond U. Games Halted by Smallpox

Richmond, Va., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Officials of the University of Richmond announced today that all athletic contests and public gatherings on the school's program for the next two weeks had been canceled or postponed because of the discovery of a case of smallpox in the student body.

Flying Express Scores In Feature at Havana

Havana, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—J. E. Lewis' Flying Express, a son of Flying Ebony, won the best offering at Oriental Park today, a six furlong claiming dash for 4-year-olds and up.

Len Sweep and Owl set the early pace but both faded in the stretch. W. D. Buck's Ad Remmcon then shot into the lead but faltered before the closing rush of Flying Express. Mrs. E. Denemark's Easter Boy was third. After the race, Flying Express was claimed by the National Stable.

A heavy rain, just before dawn, made the track a quagmire and so riddled the program with scratches that four of the six races had to be substituted.

W. & L. TEAMS FACE BUSY WEEK

General Five Here Saturday to Meet G. U.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Jan. 13.—Winter sports activity at Washington and Lee will this week move forward at a faster clip as five teams see action. Tonight, Coach Ray Ellerman will send his cagers against Lenoir Rhyne, of Hickory, N. C. The Maryland game demonstrated that the lack of strength in the guard posts will prove an obstacle for the Generals to overcome.

Saturday night at Georgetown, in Washington, the Generals will begin a two-day invasion of the Capitol. Maryland will be played at College Park, the Old Liners' home court, on Monday night.

Saturday Big Day for Indoor Teams.

Saturday is a big day for the Washington and Lee indoor teams, as in addition to the Varsity Basketball Team, Coach A. E. Mathis' wrestlers start their Southern Conference season against North Carolina State. Present plans call for the bouts at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Coach "Bus" Malone's pugilists open their season Saturday night in Doremus gym when they swap licks with the Wolfpack boxers of North Carolina State beginning at 8:30 o'clock. Coach Malone thinks he has the makings of a fine team and plenty of work has been piled on to get his squad into the best of shape for their opening bout.

Hyattsville High Wins After 3 Extra Periods

Three overtime periods were required before Hyattsville High was able to triumph by a 23 to 22 score over the Mount Rainier Junior High at the Mount Rainier school yesterday, in the first of a series of three games for the basket ball championship of Prince Georges County.

The regular game ended with the score at 21 all and the first overtime period was scoreless. Hyattsville lost an opportunity to win the game in the second overtime period when Cogar missed two foul shots. Stevens clinched the game in the third extra period with a goal from directly beneath the basket. For Mount Rainier Belman made good one of two chances for foul goals in the final minutes.

Duke Opens 3-Game Basketball Trip Here

Special to The Washington Post.

Durham, N. C., Jan. 13.—With the prospect of three games which will tax them to the limit for victories, Duke's cagers are billed for a week-end away from home on a three-day Northern tour.

Opening Thursday night with Maryland at College Park, the Devils will be anxious to take that Southern Conference contest. Maryland had little trouble defeating the veteran team of Washington and Lee on the Generals' home floor recently, and is now considered as one of the foremost contenders for the Southern cage crown.

On the next evening the Devils will face another hard game when they meet Temple University's quintet at Philadelphia. To end the week's trip, the Devils will meet Navy at Annapolis.

TAKOMA-S. S. TRIUMPHS.

Takoma-Silver Spring High tossers simply toyed with the Gaithersburg High five yesterday, triumphing by a 38 to 6 count. Leizear, with 12 points, and Bocievitch, with 11, led the scorers.

SCHMELING AND STRIBLING SIGNED FOR FIGHT IN JUNE;

CATHOLIC U. DEFEATS COLONIAL FIVE IN UPSET, 31 TO 24

Burgess Covered by Oliver; Score at Half, 13-13.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED FANS sat in Catholic University's giant gymnasium last night waiting for George Washington University's basket ball team to get started and commence stamping on a covey of Catholic University upstarts who had not only taken an early lead, but insisted on holding it. At the end, half of that number were still looking for the spurt and Catholic University won the game, 31 to 24.

Buster Sheary and Lou Spinelli led in the victory of Catholic University. To this duo was added, while he was in the game, swarthy Johnny Oliver, whose guarding of Forrest Burgess balked all but two attempts on the part of George Washington's scoring ace to score from the floor.

C. U. played an inspired game of basket ball throughout, seeming to have been smiled on by the goddess of good fortune, after receiving nothing but frowns from that lady in their last five attempts. Its passing was at all times accurate and certain, it's basket marksmen always willing to take a chance, and in Sheary and Oliver it found a pair capable of gaining nearly every ball off the backboard.

It looked as though G. W. would come forth quickly after C. U. had gained a 9-to-2 lead when half the first half was gone. Burgess broke loose from Oliver's leechlike guarding to drop in two baskets, starting a string of shooting which saw the score at 13-13 at the half.

G. W. tied the score twice in the last half, once at 15-15 and once at 23-23, within four minutes of the end of the game, but thereafter Mulvey's free toss was the only ball which would go through the basket for G. W., while Spinelli, Ambrose and Walsh were tallying C. U.'s margin of victory.

Grid Receipts Decline Cuts Cincinnati Sports

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—The University of Cincinnati will probably abandon all spring sports this year because of reduced receipts from football last fall, Director of Athletics R. GAMES FRIDAY.

Central vs. Business.
Tech vs. Western.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE high-school basket-ball series went into high gear yesterday at Tech Gym as Eastern tightened its hold on first place by sending a stubbornly fighting Western High School outfit down to defeat by the score of 32-26 and Tech defeated Central by 1 point, 26-25, in a game which caused perfect strangers to clap each other on the back.

That second game set a tremendously high mark for excitement for the remaining series to shoot at. In the final moments of the fray, with Central 1 point behind and the ball sailing through the air in long drama-ridden arcs in the direction of Tech's basket, the crowd of 3,000 stormed down from their pews to congregate about the court in a four-cornered screaming blockade.

Teams Always Within Five Points of Each Other.

Never more than 5 points separated Tech and Central as the charges of Coaches Boyd and Coggins streaked about the Tech floor. George Beach, who was to figure most prominently for Tech, dropped in a gift toss just as the gun ended the first quarter to knot the count 5-5; Tech saw a 10-5 lead, with a minute left of the second quarter to play, diminish to 10-9 at the gun, but at three-quarter mark Tech had gained a 21-16 advantage, with Beach counting 4 points just before the period ended.

The last quarter is hard to describe. Bill Burke, playing a type of game so strenuous that it was presently to throw him out of the fray on personals, put in a great shot taken off the backboard to start the quarter and a moment later came through again after Beach had added 2 points to Tech's score. With the count at 23-20, Everett Russell, captain of Tech, was removed from the game because of personals, and Central's cohorts went into paroxysms of joy as Henry Broadbent dropped in a free toss to put Central within one basket of Tech.

Cumberland's Heave Misses By Inches.

But here Beach again came to the fore. Coolly he sank two foul shots to take Tech away by 4 points. Downey Rice, tall Central center, brought the score to 26-23 by popping in one of Swoft's tosses, but Willison made good on a foul shot shortly afterward, rendering useless the two great free tosses of Broadbent with but 10 seconds to play. Central shot whenever it got the ball after this, and one heave, from the hands of Whitey Cumberland, did everything but go through the wicket.

Everett Russell was guarded in great fashion by Gene Swift, Central's fighting brick-topped guard. The brilliant Tech captain had to be content with an exceptional floor game, Swift balking practically all attempts at shooting.

Tech wavered for one slight moment when Russell was taken out of the game just at its pitch, but seemingly by tacit understanding the helm was taken by Beach.

Eastern, in chalking up its second victory in two starts, was just a mite better all around than Western, a combination which showed its best form to date in making a gallant stand against the more favored Lincoln Parkers.

Bill Noonan Keyman For Eastern.

Big Bill Noonan was his old self as pivot around whom nearly all of Eastern's plays rotated. The big Celt found the cords for 12 points, and jumped feet higher than Yowell to secure for Eastern nearly every tap-off.

Anthony Latona had Western's hottest hand, scoring five field goals, four from positions rendered almost impossible by the close guarding of Shirley, who hung to the high-scoring forward like a uniform.

MAX SCHMELING. YOUNG STRIBLING.

Sharkey Is Excluded From Plans as Two Bouts Are Sealed.

Commission May Act Today to Interfere With Garden.

By HERBERT W. BARKER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, of Germany, will defend his heavyweight title against W. L. (Young) Stribling, of Macon, Ga., next June, and the winner will face Primo Carnera, vast Italian carpenter, in September, under terms of a contract signed by the interested parties late today.

The contract was signed on behalf of Schmeling, Stribling, and Carnera with the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois.

Briefly, it calls for Stribling and Schmeling to meet in June for the Illinois corporation, with the Hearst Milk Fund as the beneficiary, and the winner to battle Carnera for the Illinois corporation alone. A third verbal stipulation was that the ultimate survivor of these two matches would defend the title for the milk fund alone in 1932.

Neither the exact date nor the site for the Stribling-Schmeling bout was fixed, but it was understood the third week in June had been decided upon and that the site would be either Jersey City or Detroit.

Jersey City Stadium Sought as Site.

Selection of Jersey City as the place for the battle depended, it was said, upon whether a new stadium to seat something like 100,000 persons would be constructed in time. In the event that it is, the second match of the series, Carnera against Stribling or Schmeling, also might be held there.

If it is found that Jersey City can not be selected, Detroit was understood to be the second choice. Some experts clung to the belief that before the selection is finally made, Chicago would be suggested as the logical place for the bout. Soldier Field in that city will accommodate a crowd of about 125,000 and was the scene of the greatest promotional triumph of the late Tex Rickard's career—the second Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Carnera Would Fight Every 30 Days.

One odd quirk in the contract was insisted upon by Carnera's representatives, Leon See and Billy Duffy. They had inserted in the agreement a provision granting Carnera the right, should he win the championship, to fight at intervals of 30 days should he so desire. See and Duffy asserted that the big Venetian would want to fight often even should he capture the title.

Neither Stribling nor Schmeling will engage in any bouts until they clash for the title.

The entrance of the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois into the negotiations may bring down upon the New York Garden the official wrath of the New York State Athletic Commission. Both Schmeling and Carnera are under suspension in this State and a commission rule provides for the suspension of any promoter or organization which deals with a boxer on the ineligible list.

Commission Action Expected Today.

Bill Carey, of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, of New York, took no part in the negotiations. He has maintained that the Illinois corporation is a separate organization, with a perfect legal right to deal with any boxer so long as it obeys the rules and regulations of the Illinois Boxing Commission.

Just what answer the New York Commission will make to this claim remains to be seen, but forecasts tonight were that some action would be forthcoming when the solons meet tomorrow.

SPORTS VIEW UNCHANGED IN SOUTH

Carnegie Report Had No Effect, Colleges Generally Say.

(This is another of a series of stories on college athletic conditions based on a Nation-wide survey made by the Associated Press.)

ATLANTA, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Athletic directors, faculty advisors and publicity directors of Southern colleges and universities are overwhelmingly of the belief that the publication of Carnegie Bulletin No. 23 has had little if any effect in their territory.

They were asked by the Associated Press to answer the question: "What, if any, changes have been manifest since the publication of the Carnegie report on subsidizing and recruiting?"

The answers ranged from the observation of H. C. Byrd, director of athletics at the University of Maryland, that "it gave an impetus to recruiting" to the statement of Dean S. V. Sanford, of the University of Georgia, that "it has been accepted as a real asset." The answer generally was "none."

McGugin Sees No Changes.

Dan McGugin, director of athletics at Vanderbilt, and one of the leaders of Southern thought, said he regretted "I do not see any evidences of changes generally."

Dr. Thornwald Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe, believes as does Dean Sanford, that the bulletin did some good and thinks coaches, athletic directors and college presidents are more frank in their statements concerning the situation existing at their colleges.

"An approach to open acknowledgement of existing evils with efforts being made in many cases to justify systems of subsidizing and recruiting or in other cases to ignore its existence," was cited by Stanley Robinson, of Mississippi College.

"It has not affected us at all," said H. H. Norton, director of athletics at Centenary College.

Tulane and V. M. I. Cite Clean Bills.

Dr. Wilbur Smith, director at Tulane University, and B. B. Clarkson, of Virginia Military Institute, two schools which received a clean bill of health in the Carnegie report, merely called attention to the fact and did not hazard an opinion as to its effect generally in the South.

South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Alabama, Poly and others believed it had had no effect whatsoever.

On the question, "Do you think college football is overemphasized," the answer was unanimous. It was a ringing "No."

"Not nearly so much as supposedly is the case," said Clarkson, of Virginia Military Institute.

"I do not think football is overemphasized so far as students and players are concerned," McGugin answered, "although it apparently is in the minds of a certain element of the public."

President Jacobs, of Oglethrope, said, "Football is the most wonderful blessing ever to come to a college. It is the best advertisement and draws students."

"There is no such thing as overemphasis in college football in the sense that the word is generally used," was Byrd's answer. "However," he added, "There are some things in college football that might well be rectified."

TUNNEY SUIT ABANDONED BY HOFF

$350,000 Action Is Dropped; Boxer Now Free of Courts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—For the first time since he earned it, Gene Tunney was free today to enjoy whatever remains of the $1,715,863.54 he collected as world heavyweight champion without having to worry about some of it being taken away from him.

The last of the lawsuits against him—lawsuits which began almost as soon as he won the championship and which, had he lost them, would have taken practically all of his earnings—was dropped today by Max (Boo Boo) Hoff, Philadelphia promoter, who was suing far 20 per cent of Gene's bankroll.

Hoff's suit, based on a contract which he said Tunney signed with him the night of the Dempsey fight in Philadelphia, whereby in return for undefined assistance in connection with the fight he was to pay Hoff 20 per cent of his earnings as champion, was for approximately $350,000.

Suit Was Pending For Four Years.

The suit had been pending for nearly four years. At one time, in addition to Hoff's suit, Tunney was defendant against Timothy J. Mara, racing man and owner of the New York Giants, professional football club, who demanded more than $400,000, and against John S. Fogarty and Katherine King Fogarty, who asked $500,000 each in alienation and breach of promise suits.

Mara lost his suit when it came to trial in supreme court here last fall. The Fogarty suits never came to trial.

Hoff's suit against the former champion was discontinued today at Hoff's own request. Tunney said it was withdrawn as the result of an examination before trial conducted by Max Steuer, Hoff's attorney, while the Tunney-Mara suit was in progress last November. This examination, Tunney said, convinced Steuer that his client had no case.

Dempsey May Referee Baer-Heeney Battle

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey has agreed to referee one of the matches on Friday night's boxing card at Madison Square Garden, it was announced today.

Max Baer, California heavyweight who lost to Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, in his Eastern debut, meets Tom Heeney, New Zealand warhorse, in the main bout. Dempsey probably will handle this bout.

Cochet Denies Thought Of Turning Professional

Paris, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Henri Cochet, ranking tennis player of the world and leader of the French Davis Cup players, told the Associated Press today he had "absolutely no intention of turning professional."

"My only present ambition is to be able to do everything possible to keep the Davis Cup in France," he said.

Despite this emphatic denial considerable agitation was apparent in tennis circles here. Friends said offers made him to tour with William T. Tilden as a pro were so tempting they were fearful Cochet could not resist them long, despite his business connections here which, he said, would not permit him long absence from Paris.

MILLER SEEN AS NAVY'S COACH

Ingram's Aid, Former Rockne Star, May Be Given Berth.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 13.—That Edgar E. (Rip) Miller, former Notre Dame football star, would again cast his lot with the Naval Academy as line coach of the Midshipmen next fall, was the statement made today by Capt. Henry D. Cooke, director of athletics at the Academy.

Miller has filled that post for several seasons. His reappointment was announced two weeks ago, and athletic officials here have been assured of his return since William A. (Navy Bill) Ingram resigned as head coach and has accepted a like position at the University of California.

Reports emanating from Berkley, Calif., have been to the effect that Ingram contemplated having Miller team with him. Miller was dubious about returning to the Middies for 1931, until he found that it would be convenient to his business interest in Washington.

Three Apply for Position.

Moreover, it would not surprise local gridiron circles if Miller is offered the post left vacant by Ingram. The former Rockne pupil is popular among the student body and the Naval contingent in general.

Meanwhile, however, athletic officials have given no inkling of Ingram's probable successor. Capt. Cooke said today a decision would not be reached for two weeks or possibly longer. He said that already three applications for the post have been received, but declined to reveal who made them.

Fiber Pads Protect Legs of Courtmen

It is the newest innovation of Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, coach, noted for new basket ball ideas.

Dr. Meanwell believes the new pads will reduce the number of injuries to leg muscles which result in "charley horses."

Jones Only 'Prentice In Eyes of Golf Pros

Chicago, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones doesn't need instruction to play golf, but he must have it to become a duly recognized golf professional.

Under a ruling passed by the Professional Golfers' Association no golfer, not even the mighty Bobby himself, can be recognized until he serves a three-year apprenticeship under a professional in good standing.

Berlin Peewee Golf Has High-Hat Opening

Berlin, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Miniature golf was formally introduced here with champagne and oysters on the roof of the leading tourist hotel—so formally that the players wore evening dress and talked practically nothing but the fashionable language of Berlin, which is English.

As yet, however, no Tom Thumb courses have been opened on the lower beer levels.

Shenandoah Defeats Massanutten, 42-31

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Jan. 13.—Shenandoah College defeated Massanutten Academy by a margin of 42 to 31 in a fast court contest tonight at Dayton. The Hornets took the lead at the start and were never headed. Brown, Shenandoah forward, registered 21 points. Flennikin scored 17 points for the Woodstock Cadets.

Cinci Finishes With 69 To Win Florida Prize

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Henri Ciuci streaked home in 69 tonight to win the $1,500 Fort Lauderdale open with a 213, just before they lit up the course with automobile lights so the rest of the boys could finish the 54-hole tournament.

The Bridgeport, Conn., professional offered a 36 and a 33, the latter 2 under par for the back nine, to gain his 69.

Johnny Farrell and Willie Klein were one stroke behind Ciuci with 214's. Farrell came in just before dusk to eliminate Jock Hutchison, Chicago, with a 215, for possible first honors.

Ciuci struck a par stride in the morning to go round with two 35's for a 70. In yesterday's eighteen-hole play he carded a 74.

VIRGINIA FIVE AT NAVY TODAY

Seven Court Games at Annapolis This Week.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 13.—Seven basket ball games are on card for local fans the remainder of the week. Tomorrow afternoon the Naval Academy quint, undefeated in five starts, will face a scrappy University of Virginia team. The Cavaliers on Monday bowed to St. John's, Annapolis, by the small margin of 22 to 20 at Charlottesville and should give Coach Wilson's Middies a hard fight.

The invaders will have to stop Loughlin, Navy ace, who has averaged 13 points. Gilman School, of Baltimore, will face the St. John's freshmen in a game, which will mark the young Johnnies debut, here tomorrow afternoon also.

St. John's Plays Gallaudet In Home Debut.

Friday night the 1931 St. John's Team and its new coach, Leonard (Dutch) Lentz, will make its home debut against Gallaudet, of Washington. The Blues, who extended Maryland, have been clicking well and the locals are none too confident of laurels.

St. John's has a veteran quint except at center, but the sharpshooting of the Washingtonians is respected. The Johnnies have in Hoff and Capt. Bob MacCartee, forwards, and Fader and Carpentier, guards, among the best players in the State. Wolanske and Ziegler have been alternating at center. Play is set for 8 o'clock.

St. John's Frosh will play again Saturday night, meeting Western High School, of Washington, at 7:30 o'clock. On Saturday the Navy varsity will take on Duke's fine court team, following the Plebes' warm-up encounter with Peddie School, which begins at 1 o'clock. Friday night Friends, of Baltimore, will play the high school here.

Wrestling will also make its debut at the Academy Saturday, the Navy grapplers meeting the University of North Carolina. Gray, Middy captain and 155-pounder, is not expected to compete, owing to a sore shoulder. Silverstein will be in his place.

Four Games This Week For Old Line Cub Five

University of Maryland's freshman basket ball team, which makes its bow tomorrow against Business High, will be fully tested before the week is over, as it also will play Eastern High Wednesday, Catholic University frosh Friday and Georgetown freshmen Saturday. All except the game with the Hoya yearlings will be played at College Park at 4 o'clock and that will be staged at Tech High at 7:15 as a preliminary to the Washington and Lee-Georgetown varsity tilt.

Coach Jack Faber, of the Old Line yearlings, has a number of clever performers in his squad of fourteen players. Numbered among them are Vincent and Wright, former Hyattsville tossers; Chase, elongated Business High product; Buscher, who attended Western High and Emerson; Lampson, one of Central High's best last year; Monk, who played for both Eastern High and Georgetown Prep; Davidson, from Emerson; Snyder and Hart, who were members of Hagerstown High's State championship team; McDonald, from Paterson, N. J.; Naughton, from La Salle Institute, of Cumberland, Md.; Pickels, of Catonsville, Md.; Curran, from Middletown, Md., and Cohen, from Baltimore.

Chase and Buscher, forwards; Vincent, center, and Wright and Hart or Lampson, guards, probably will be the starting line-up against Business.

Primo Lands in U. S. at High Tide; Was in Demand as Dancing Mate

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera arrived here from France today on the liner Paris and was safely beached at high tide.

The docile man mountain of Venice hustled back to the land where he bowled over a varied list of minor opposition on his first invasion and gathered a sheaf of boxing commission suspensions at the urgent request of Bill Duffy, chief of his American stockholders, who signed him today to meet the winner of the Schmeling-Sharkey fight in June.

The giant Italian appeared in need of hard conditioning. Dancing provided the hardest exercise he took on the trip over. In spite of the size of his feet, fellow passengers reported that Primo was a great favorite in the ballroom and barely had time between France and New York to comply with all the requests for dances. He was as amiable as ever, cheerfully exercising the couple dozen words of English he picked up during his first batting practice over here.

GOLFERS BID FOR AGUA CALIENTE'S $25,000 TODAY

97 Pros, 17 Amateurs to Play 18 Holes Each Day.

By BRIAN BELL.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—There's gold in these Mexican hills and early tomorrow morning 97 professionals and 17 amateurs will go out in search of it.

With $25,000 prize money offered, $10,000 going to the winner, most of the game's brightest stars have gathered in Baja California for the second annual Agua Caliente open.

Gene Sarazen, the doughty New York pro, who won the game's richest prize last January with a 72-hole score of 297, reached the battle field today and at once went out to practice for the defense of his crown.

MacDonald Smith and Sarazen complained in the Los Angeles open they did not have enough golf under their belts to strike their stride there, but with the Los Angeles "infield practice" behind them they expected to do much better in the big game beginning tomorrow.

Diegel, as Host Pro, Also Seeks Prize.

Leo Diegel, a whirling dervish of golf, who does things in a hurry and in a big way, is the host to the assembled star golfers, as this is the fast Leo's home course, but the former tutor to famous figures in the financial and motion picture worlds, will try to keep as much of the money as possible at home.

Two professionals from Mexico City will attract attention during the play, although they are not expected to figure largely in the prize money. Manuel Barrera and Francisco Perez, assistant professionals at the Mexico City Country Club, had the distinction of being the first native Mexicans to carry the colors of their country into a big money golf competition.

Although the Agua Caliente course is only a year old, having been formally opened for play for the first $25,000 open last January, well known pros and amateurs who played practice rounds today reported the layout in splendid condition for the important test.

Prizes Range From $100 to $10,000.

The pros will not have to win the major prize to do well in a financial way for the prize money ranges all the way from $100 to $10,000. The runner-up will receive $3,500 and the show position is worth $2,000. Fourth place will be rewarded with a payment of $1,500 with $1,000 to fifth.

Eighteen holes will be played each day and the field will be reduced after the first 36 holes to the low 50 professionals and 10 amateurs.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

LITTLE Jack Horner who sat in a corner eating his Christmas pie, was a real boy and lived in the Abbey of Glastonbury, England, in the time of Henry VIII. This was about the time that the campaign against monasteries began, and the Abbot, trying to save the monastery, put the title deed in a pie and sent it to the king by little Jack Horner. Jack, instead of delivering the deed, appropriated it for himself. The deed was the "plum," for it was the title deed of the Manor of Mells, the choicest part of the whole estate. This estate is still in the Horner family today.

The huge cabbage, which grows in the back yard of the Freitas family, looked like any other cabbage two years ago. Then it began to grow remarkably fast. Four months ago it measured 7 feet, and since then it has been averaging a foot a month.

Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Fair Grounds Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Bobet purse, for older horses at six furlongs, features the Fair Grounds racing today. The track remains muddy. This brings up the fitness of VOLTEAR, for he has always been a disappointment on any but a muddy track. He meets a more ordinary class of horses in this race than he was able to defeat in Maryland. His recent races have not been up to his own standard.

The opposition will come from BEN MARSHALL, an improved horse, which won his last out, beating Genuine and Essare, and on a slow track, so VOLTEAR is not the only mudder in this field. WAR INSTIGATOR, which was blocked in the BEN MARSHALL race, but finished fourth with good courage, should be as good as third.

FIRST RACE—Baby 2-year-olds start in the first race, at three furlongs. ESCOSTAR, which ran second Monday to Adelaide N., the winner, and finished in front of Watauga, is the form horse among those which have started. NOAH'S PRIDE, which has not started, but was scratched when cast among the entries, is said to have some promise, and may get the place, but PRINCE HOT SPUR, which is a beaten favorite, is considered dangerous.

SECOND RACE—FLAGG PORTER looks best of the 3-year-olds in the second race. He has been close in a number of races, but unable to win. This may be the time for his graduation from the maiden class. EYE WHITE is another that has run close up with better horses than these and should be the contender. Last out, EYE WHITE was second to Valedictory on a muddy track. He seems to be a kind of quitter. ORKIN may hold the others safe.

THIRD RACE—VILLAGER is best of the platers in the third, at a mile and a furlong, which has attracted a large field of little quality. His last race was the middle of December, when he ran second to Zahn. Some very fair platers finished behind him on that occasion. COLONEL CRUMP, which was second to Count Palatine in his last start, should have a chance and is picked for the place. GRIFF W. is about on an equality with the first two mentioned and should figure in the race.

FIFTH RACE—FRANK FULLEN should repeat in the fifth race. In his last start he came from behind to beat Vanquish and Spanflow going away, making his third victory this winter. PARADISE LOST is a mudder and has been waiting for a favorable spot and a few days ago was third to Little Gyp. The show money is between EAGER PLAY and BLACK PATRICIA. Both have been running in best form. EAGER PLAY was second to Cockrill Monday and was a winner recently.

SIXTH RACE—BIG GUN is selected in the sixth. He has had a rest, winning his last start on the last day of the old year at Jefferson Park and beating Seventeen Sixty and other platers. He was heavily backed in that race. The horse he will have to beat today is BLUE JOHN, easy winner last Saturday over Harold Ormont, and previous to that second to POISON IVY. The last-named horse has a chance in this race, but may get only third, for BLUE JOHN showed improvement in his last.

SEVENTH RACE—COUNT PALATINE is a standout in the seventh contest. In his last race it was a gallop for him to beat Colonel Crump and Spurrier, with E. James in the saddle. It should be easy again. SHASTA LAD looks like the contender. He was second to My Beauty in his last race in December. He has much early speed. He may not like the distance. MARY ELOISE will hold the others safe. She is a mudder.

"You are to be commended for this public service"

Says

DR. A. F. ADAMS

City Health Officer, Reno, Nevada

CITY HALL
RENO, NEVADA

September 23, 1930.

The American Cigar Company,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, New York.

Gentlemen:

Your very effective campaign in the newspapers against "spit-tipping" by some cigar manufacturers is decidely in the interest of the public health and in my opinion you are to be commended for this public service.

The use of the word "spit" forcibly calls attention to the evils of the "spit-tipping" methods and no other word could as effectively get over your message to the public.

Our health department is interested in those campaigns which tend to improve general health conditions and in our opinion your present campaign comes within this classification.

Therefore since I consider your campaign to be in the interest of public health since it directs attention to a bad sanitary condition in some cigar manufacturing plants, you have my permission to use this letter if my statement is of value to you.

Sincerely yours,
A. F. Adams
City Health Officer.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Adams' letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Adams writes: "The use of the word 'spit' forcibly calls attention to the evils of the 'spit-tipping' methods."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild

KILLING OFF FLIES.

IN the Canal Zone garbage and other waste is disposed of by dumping it on low ground. They select some area of swampy, mosquito breeding land within easy reach of the city and fill it with garbage and rubbish. This saves the expense of keeping the marsh oiled to prevent mosquito breeding. Incidentally, it makes new fills on which houses can be built eventually. This stone, having killed two birds, does not stop until it has annihilated the block. It is far cheaper than any other method of garbage disposal, it does not call for separation nor for long hauls. It does not breed flies nor attract rats. With this introduction, we proceed to the method.

All household waste is put into one container. There is a daily collection service. There is none of the insistence on a peculiar type of expensive wagon, about which we hear so much back home. Very gross rubbish, such as boxes, straw mattresses, and broken furniture are not put in the garbage box, however. Such inflammable rubbish is burned. The garbage pile is well policed and managed. All dumping on a given date must be on a designated sector.

A dated sign shows the dates on which filling was done on a given sector. Trained men level the garbage. A man goes about shooting fly and rat repellent on to the garbage by means of a knapsack spray. This repellent consists of eight parts crude oil, 1 part creosote, and 1 part kerosene. This mixture is cheap and it is very freely used. When the day's fill is completed it is covered with matting, oil cloth, and dry paper, all of which have been removed from the waste and set aside for the purpose.

This covering is to make the garbage inaccessible to flies, fly larvae, and to rats. It is then covered with 6 inches of dirt and that ends the matter. The garbage immediately begins to ferment and heat up. This kills off all fly eggs and larva. When Col. Siler and Dr. Curry were asked the secret of success with this method their reply was: "Competent supervision by trained men devoted to making a success of their work."

DROPSY.

Mrs. M. H. asks what may be the cause of dropsy in the following case: A woman 60 years old, no heart nor kidney trouble, always tired, has dizzy spells. Her physician says she carries around 20 pounds of dropsy water.

REPLY.

You do not say where this water is. In cirrhosis of the liver most of the water is in the abdomen, some of it in the legs. In heart disease most of it is in the legs. A tumor of the abdomen or pelvis, causing pressure, causes some cases. Anemia causes some. So may great weakness from tuberculosis. Have your physician find the cause.

COLORLESS SESSION SEES STOCKS SLUMP

FUNDS PROVE PLENTIFUL

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Security prices drifted lower in quiet markets today. Stocks, manifesting a heavy undertone during another colorless session, closed with small losses, while listed bonds were borne down by the weight of new offerings. Commodities held firm.

The stock market was a profession l affair. Early declines were mostly regained in a slow upward movement that lasted until the final dealings when softness in the steel issues caused a resumption of the reaction in other groups. Bethlehem Steel, Vanadium and Auburn Auto were prominent weak spots. Sales for the five hours expanded in comparison with yesterday, but amounted to only 1,712,890 shares.

Net declines of a point in U. S. Steel, Union Carbide, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Columbia Gas and Johns-Manville were slightly exceeded in the cases of American Can, Du Pont, American Tobacco, A. M. Byers, Coca Cola and Republic Steel preferred. Bethlehem lost 1¾, Vanadium 4⅞ and Auburn 6¼.

Rails Dull and Steady.

Rails were dull and steady, with Atchison 2 points net higher. American Telephone recovered a 3-point drop, but backed up for a 1-point loss. Its 1930 earnings statement, which is expected to show about $10.50 a share, appears soon. Westinghouse touching a new low halved its extreme decline of a point.

Sources close to the oil situation said further cuts in crude prices in the California, Texas and Midcontinent fields seemed imminent, because of competitive conditions and because output is still in excess of demand. Additional reductions, if the lower levels, were maintained, would, of course, have an unfavorable effect on first quarter earnings. Oil shares eased.

There was better statistical news concerning another commodity. Stocks of refined copper registered in December their first decline in fourteen months. The decrease for the Western Hemisphere was only 2,657 short tons, but it indicated that the production curtailment program was bearing fruit. Available blister copper on January 1 was also affected favorably, showing a December drop of 5,732 short tons, so that the combined decline was 8,389 short tons.

Mitchell Advises Caution.

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank, added a cautious word to the banking fraternity's expressions of opinion on business. He believed there was little basis for a rapid recovery, but he did think volume had reached bottom, that replacements might be expected to hold the present level and that "a general revival of activity" would develop gradually "as the industries take the measure of the conditions with which they have to deal."

Bankers said that seldom had money been so plentiful here as it was today. Acceptance rates were pared ⅛ of 1 per cent to the lowest basis on record, but no immediate change in the reserve bank's buying rate was anticipated. Reduction of clearing house interest allowances in Boston, Chicago and Los Angeles, following similar action in New York, is regarded as most favorable, since funds should now be attracted to term investments, notably bonds.

Fair export sales, firmness in Winnipeg and Farm Board support assisted the Chicago wheat market, which closed ⅛ to ¾ higher. Corn was steady, while cotton finished unchanged to 4 points up.

European exchanges eased, the French dropping 3-16. A quarter cent rise in silver improved the far Easterns.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—India suddenly became a grain-price factor today, and all cereals scored an advance, especially wheat. Owing to drought reports, India has been transformed from an exporter into a large importer of wheat. Simultaneously, United States Government-sponsored agencies lifted their price at Minneapolis and Kansas City. World stocks of wheat exhibited 4,667,000 bushels decrease, bringing the total down to almost the same as a year ago.

Wheat closed firm ⅜ to ¾ cent higher, corn unchanged to ⅜ cent up, oats ¼ to ½ cent advanced, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents higher.

Authoritative British advices said wheat buying might be heavy unless India's drought was relieved immediately, as rain was urgently needed in a large part of the Indian wheat area. It was announced that 1,000,000 bushels of Australian wheat has been bought for India this week and that India had imported unusually large amounts for more than two months back, although previously the world's grain trade was disturbed by forecasts of large impending exports. Such forecasts have since proved mythical, notwithstanding that freight rates from the interior of India to the seaboard were reduced.

A statement credited to Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board that the Grain Stabilization Corporation had taken so much wheat that there was not much left to buy was contrasted with reports that Government-sponsored bodies were actively acquiring wheat both at Minneapolis and Kansas City. One such agency was reported as having taken ownership of 50 cars of hard winter wheat today in Kansas City, paying 71½ cents, compared with 71 cents yesterday. Friends of higher prices for wheat contended that sellers of July wheat, representing the 1931 crop, would face full but locked bins of old wheat and would have to depend on the June and July movement to meet contract requirements, cold comfort as judged by past years.

Profit taking for recent buyers acted as a drag on corn which, unlike wheat, was without support from Farm Board sales. Zero temperature prevailing in part of the corn belt, however, was regarded as likely to increase feeding demand. Primary arrivals were 634,000 bushels, against 1,054,000 a year ago. Oats were firm but dull.

Provisions rose with grains and hogs.

REACTIONARY TREND RULES BOND SALES

New Financing, Amounting to $100,000,000, Proves Feature of Market.

GERMAN ISSUES DECLINE

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—New financing amounting to $100,000,000, the largest day's offering in many weeks, coupled with the softness in shares, influenced a reactionary trend in the listed bond market today.

High-grade investment issues were fractionally lower, and second-grade and stock privilege issues followed the trend of stocks to lower levels. There was some inquiry for Latin-American issues, but most of the foreign loans were soft. United States Governments were quiet and firm.

The bond market is facing the first real test of its new-found strength. The day's offerings brought the two-day total to $165,000,000 and offering houses were understood to have many additional issues groomed for appearance this month. Estimates of the volume of new financing in prospect vary from $250,000,000 to $350,000,000. A large loan appearing tomorrow is $50,000,000 E 5s of the Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation.

Investment circles are watching the behavior of the bond market closely this week in view of the large offerings. Prices have been little affected so far. Most of the new bonds carry 5 per cent coupons, a high yield, compared with present returns in the short-term market, and institutions are quick to take advantage of an opportunity to acquire large blocks of high-grade investment issues at one figure. The competition from new issues naturally diverts some support from the listed bond market and is reflected in lower bids.

Announcements of the new offering for Columbia Gas brought a sharp drop in the 5s, to 98, at which the new bonds were expected to be sold. The 5s of April, 1952, dipped 3¼, and the 5s of May, 1932, sagged 2⅛. Many second-grade rails yielded a point or two and some of the utilities yielded large fractions, apparently due to profit taking and switching operations.

Realizing was apparent in the softness of German bonds. The 5½s were active and dropped 1⅝, and the 7s lost ¾. German Bank issues sagged 1 point each. Chilean Mortgage Bank bonds, Bolivian governments and several Brazilian state loans were a point or so higher.

SECONDARY ROADS URGED AS FARM AID

MEETING HEARS PLEA

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 13 (A.P.).—Secondary roads linking the rural communities with primary State highways, as a means of reducing the cost of marketing farm products, was advocated today by Norman M. Blaney, director of farm-to-market roads for the American Farm Bureau Federation, who addressed the county officials section of the convention of the American Road Builders Association.

"From the standpoint of American agriculture there is no question of the economic and social necessity for more adequate roads," Blaney said. "Many highways joining the large cities and towns will not fill the need.

"There are approximately 5,000,000 farms in the United States located on dirt roads. Farmers on these roads must sell their produce when the road is passable."

Maj. Roy F. Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri, also urged more secondary roads.

Produce Markets Show Price Gains

Butter, Eggs, Meats and Citrus Fruits Reported Weak and Unsettled.

The early January markets have shown some price gains, in contrast with the general decline in December. Advances in corn and other grains, the upward swing in the cotton market, and a rising tendency in potatoes, cabbage and poultry were offset by weak or unsettled conditions in the markets for butter, eggs, meats, citrus fruits and live stock.

The vegetable market in the Manatee section has been generally unsatisfactory this month; the demand was slow and prices low. Head lettuce has sold slowly at 50 cents. There have been only fifteen carloads. Cabbage has been in fair demand at $1.75 to $1.80 per 1½-bushel hamper. The market for tomatoes has been in bad condition in the Miami district, many shipments having been rejected because buyers were afraid of the quality.

Prices of sweet potatoes have shown a downward trend, but shipments are decreasing to about 50 cars daily. Tennessee and Delaware are still shipping heavily. Sales of Delaware and Maryland sweets ranged from $1.25 to $1.75 per bushel in city markets. North Carolina sweets, in barrel, brought $3.50; Nancy Halls, from Tennessee, ranged from $1.15 to $1.60.

More Tire Makers Join Cut in Prices

Akron, Ohio, Jan. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Competitive slashing of the retail prices of tires by the huge manufacturing plants in the Akron district, where 60 per cent of the tires used in this country are made, continued today. The India Tire & Rubber Co. and the Mohawk Rubber Co. today announced reductions in their prices ranging from 6½ to 12 per cent. In so doing they followed the example set yesterday by the General Tire & Rubber Co., B. F. Goodrich Co., Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., and Seiberling Rubber Co.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. is the only large producer which has not yet announced price cuts. Officials of the company have been studying the revised price lists of their competitors, and it is thought they are only awaiting the most favorable moment for loosing their formal announcement of lower prices.

Gas Consumption Gains.

Consumption of gas in Washington during 1930 showed a huge increase over the amount of gas consumed here in 1929, Frank A. Woodhead, vice president of the Washington Gas Light Co., announced yesterday. In actual figures, the volume of gas produced in 1930 measured 6,646,397,000 cubic feet. In 1929 the figure was 6,387,418,000 cubic feet, or 258,979,000 cubic feet below the 1930 registering.

Part of this increase was due to the sale of gas appliances and a record number of house-heating jobs, Mr. Woodhead declared. A steady gain also was shown in the first ten days of the new year, with the consumption up to date registering 256,184,000 cubic feet, or 37 per cent more than for the same period of last year. For daily production the average has been 25,618,000 cubic feet as compared to 18,708,000 cubic feet for 1930.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Jan. 13 (A.P.).—An opening decline in cotton attributed to some near-month liquidation and selling of later deliveries on the relatively easy showing of Liverpool was followed by rallies in the cotton market today. Offerings were light after the early selling had run its course, and a very moderate demand was sufficient to send prices up from 10.06 for March to 10.15, or 2 points net higher. March closed at 10.13 with the general market closing steady, net unchanged to 4 points higher.

The opening was steady, 5 to 11 points lower in response to the easier Liverpool cables. According to early estimates notices were issued against new January contracts representing about 11,400 bales and their circulation brought in some liquidation in the near months. This was absorbed by spot houses who seemed willing to buy new January at about 22 points under March and after the first flurry of selling in the later months had been absorbed, prices generally turned steadier. The war offerings tapered off after the initial spurt of selling seemed to make rather a bullish impression on sentiment which prompted covering by shorts if it did not bring in some fresh buying.

Reports that there were trade buying orders in the market for execution on a scale down about the prevailing prices also had a tendency to check selling and covering or reburing by the early sellers became a little more active in the late afternoon. New January which had sold off to 9.83 during the early trading, or 12 points net lower, advanced to 9.97 and closed at 9.96 compared with 9.95 at the close of the previous day. May contracts meanwhile sold up from 10.32 to 10.39 and closed at 10.38.

Business was quiet during the greater part of the day, and except for the continues liquidation of near months and switching from old to new crop positions, no particular trading feature was reported. Steadiness of the market recently in the face of the labor disputes in Lancashire and easiness in Liverpool has come in for some comment, however, and there were reports today that trade buying orders were beginning to reach the market for execution in the event of further declines.

There were reports this afternoon that the British government was preparing to intervene in the Lancashire mill disputes and would attempt to bring about conferences in a hope of settling the differences. Exports today, 7,059; making 245,370 so far this season. Port receipts, 23,076. United States port stocks, 4,079,086.

Curb Review

Curb shares were again irregularly depressed in sluggish trading today, with oils and some of the utilities notably heavy.

The day's transfers slumped to 393,400 shares, or 77,500 less than yesterday's. The day's trading was in the smallest volume for a five-hour session since last August.

Oils were unsettled by further talk of crude price cutting. Standard of Ohio dropped 5 points in a few transactions. Humble lost 2, and Gulf and Indiana about 1 point. Cities Service eased fractionally.

In the utility group, American Gas & Electric broke 3 points, and Electric Bond & Share lost nearly a point in active trading. United Light A, however, gained nearly a point, and changes elsewhere were largely narrow.

Industrials and specialties were quiet and irregular. Aluminum Co. lost 5 points, and Dow Chemical, slipped off a point to a new low. Ford, Ltd., sagged ¾, then recovered. Rubberoid gained 2, and Bohack 3.

Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line rallied more than a point on the news of the denial of the receivership petition, but since the denial was based on lack of jurisdiction it reacted to lose most of its gain.

Among the comparatively inactive issues, Wheeling Steel, appearing on the tape for the first time in a long while, traded at 30, a drop of 40½ points since the last transaction.

Active investment trusts moved narrowly. In light trading, railway and light securities jumped 7, and General Capital, 5. Continental Shares preferred slipped back 2¾.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

FROM GOLF TO BUSINESS.

THE period of the golfing business man is over, says an economist, predicting that the next few years will see him devoting more time to improving his business and less time to improving his backswing.

• • • •

The economist is correct. During the boom years the average American business man spent so much time on the golf links that he was practically a total stranger to the office staff. From 1925 to October, 1929, there were offices in which the boss was never seen except on rainy days.

• • • •

If you wanted to talk business with a big business executive you had to meet him in a foursome. He judged his corporation's position by the indifference with which it accepted his consistent absence.

• • • •

American industry was fundamentally sound as long as it put no limitations on his excursions into the rough, and a little thing like a loss of $5,000 worth of new business at no time disturbed him as much as the loss of a 75-cent golf ball.

• • • •

The business was really a subsidiary of golf.

• • • •

It had come to be felt that a business man who didn't spend his afternoons digging divots was violating the code of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club and the Business Men's Association.

• • • •

His presence around the office in fair weather between May and December was generally considered a public confession that he didn't have the staff well organized.

• • • •

A master mind was judged by the appointments it could forget and the par holes it could remember.

• • • •

SUCCESS stories began, "Everything that I am in life I owe to the Vardon grip," and always had a paragraph stating, "Success did not come easy. I spent many long years developing a correct backswing. My advice to young men starting out in the business world is to get a set of matched clubs and never watch the clock."

• • • •

The business genius of the past few years gave all he had to the stockholders. But all he had was a terrible stance.

Business came before pleasure. And golf came before either.

• • • •

It had become a reflection on a man's ability if he showed any concern about office affairs. Any inability to spend most of his time thrashing across undeveloped real estate in pursuit of a little white ball was held prima facie evidence that he didn't know how to systematize his affairs.

• • • •

His one regret was that no books could be balanced with a mashie-niblick and that the directors wouldn't accept his year's best golf score as the corporation's annual report.

• • • •

All in all, there is no doubt that business interfered with the American business man's golf.

• • • •

And it will be a relief to investors to know that he is not going to give up his business.

COMPENSATION.

WHILE I am getting gray and thin, he's growing bald and fat;
We both are conscious, keen of time's demands;
But there's a compensation, felt by us in spite of that—
We sit throughout the "talkies" holding hands.

REVOLT.

COURTHOUSE VOTED $1,500 FOR REPAIRS

Prince Georges Commission Authorizes Much-Needed Improvements.

FOURTH JUDGE WANTED

More than $1,500 was appropriated yesterday by the Prince Georges County commissioners for repairs and improvements on the courthouse at Upper Marlboro. The largest single item is $1,400 for linoleum for the floors of offices in the building. Other floors are to be patched and painted, and may be covered with red tile in the future.

This is the second step in a clean-up campaign instituted by the new board of commissioners. Last week they made a trip of inspection through the courthouse, and several changes in the manner of cleaning have resulted. Floors are being swept more thoroughly and often, and boxes of dirt, serving as spittoons, have been installed in dark corners.

The purchase of furniture for the office of the county prosecutor was authorized, at an expense of about $100. This will provide filing cases and bookcases. Running water will be installed in the office of the clerk to the commissioners at a cost of about $70. A great deal of guttering work should be done to the building, and bids will probably be asked when the new levy is made up. It is likely that this work will be done even if it requires an additional penny on the tax rate.

A committee of the defense and prosecution lawyers in the Brady case asked the board to arrange for the expenses which will be incurred when that case is brought to trial the latter part of this month. Evidence will have to be moved from Rockville, where the last trial was held, to Annapolis, and witnesses will have to be brought from Cleveland. The committee was composed of Alan Bowie, J. Frank Parran and J. Wilson Ryon.

Refusing a request of the Gulf Refining Co. for a depreciation of 25 per cent on its gasoline pumps, the board decided that the company should be taxed as last year. The old rate was 15 per cent. The company owns 41 pumps in the county, against 54 last year.

The commissioners agreed to pay half the cost of a road from the Marlboro pike to Bradbury Heights if the patrons would pay half the cost. It is estimated that the road, a little more than a mile long, will cost about $2,500 to build.

Mrs. Louis M. John asked that the paving of Riggs road be continued. It was also asked that the road between Chillum road and Riggs road to Queens Chapel road be taken over by the State. T. C. Gardner appealed from the commissioners' refusal to take over certain streets in Riverdale Heights. The commissioners, however, would not change their stand that streets in subdivisions would not be made into county roads.

A delegation headed by Benedict Gallentt, of Vansville, asked a new road from that community to Laurel. Declaring that mail can not be delivered along the present road between Hillmead and Glenn Dale, R. W. Suman, postmaster at the latter place asked for improvements of the road. The present route is often impassable in winter. His request was backed up by a delegation of citizens from that town.

The last year's board of commissioners accepted a road through the underpass at Arundel Station on the Pennsylvania Railroad, but an objection against making this a county road was registered by R. Lee Mullikin. The road is in bad condition and would cost $1,500 to fix up, Mr. Mullikin said.

A board of examiners was appointed to inquire into the need for the county taking over Spencer street between the Baltimore boulevard and Oakcrest Station on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. The board consists of Clinton Donaldson, George Sellers and Whitney Atchison.

A complaint was received from Mrs. George B. Ness and Natalie L. Ness, who object to the condition of the Brooklyn Bridge on the outskirts of Laurel. This bridge, they say, was damaged by a thrashing machine some years ago. The board informed the women that this was a town matter, as the bridge was on the town boundary.

The Prince Georges County Bar Association yesterday approved the provision for another judge in the Seventh judicial circuit, which provides the county with its justices. The appointment of a fourth judge, still far in the future, has to be done through a constitutional amendment.

Judge Joseph C. Mattingly, who spends most of his time in the circuit court at Marlboro, has long been kept busy by his judicial work. The added judge on the circuit is designed to relieve this condition.

Judge T. Van Clagett, president of the association, appointed a committee of three to draw up the amendment. It is composed of J. Frank Parran, Ogle Marbury and Frank M. Hall. Once framed, the amendment must be approved by the legislature and then submitted to the voters at the general election in 1932.

Two divorce petitions were filed yesterday in the circuit court at Upper Marlboro. Alleging that she was abandoned, Iva C. Moran asked for an absolute divorce from Frank A. Moran. The couple were married in 1918, she says, and lived together until 1923. They have one child, Clifton Francis Moran, 12 years old. She asks custody of the child. Attorney Frank M. Hall appears for the plaintiff.

Saying that his wife, Bertha K. Jarusso, 37 years old, has been unfaithful to him and naming a corespondent, Pardo Jarusso yesterday filed suit in the same court. Jarusso, a barber living in Mount Rainier, last week had his wife arrested on a charge of drunkenness.

The couple were married in 1921, but have no children.

Fines totaling $4,357.25 were collected in the county police court last month.

Director of Athletics Missing Since Jan. 7

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 13.—Paul B. Davis, 26, director of athletics at the Pennsylvania Forest School, at Mont Alto, near here, has been missing since January 7, when he left in his car. The car, with keys in the instrument board, has been found here. Students say that Davis has been despondent.

An officer of the school went today to Philadelphia to learn whether a man answering Davis' description, believed to be an amnesia sufferer, is the director.

ROCKVILLE MEETING WILL DISCUSS REDS

Gen. Fries and Mrs. Hobart Among Speakers Tonight for Legion Groups.

PARK FUNDS ARE URGED

Two prominent speakers will stress the dangers of communistic propaganda in America at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Rockville High School under the auspices of the American Legion and Auxiliary of Montgomery County. A section of the United States Army BaBnd will play.

Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, former chief of the Chemical Warfare Bureau of the United States Army, and Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, identified with the anticommunistic campaign waged by patriotic societies in this country, will tell of investigations which show a decided "Red" menace to the peace and security of this country. National defense will be touched on also by the speakers.

Warner E. Pumphrey, post commander of the Henderson-Smith-Edmonds Post, of Rockville, is in charge of the meeting, assisted by Maj. Howand Cutler, commander of Cissel-Saxon Post, Silver Spring; Albert Wilson, commander of Norman B. Price Post, Sandy Spring; Mrs. Paul Clark, president of the Cissel-Saxon Auxiliary, and Miss Lucy Smith, president of the Henderson-Smith-Edmonds Auxiliary.

Department Commander George Henderson, of Cumberland, will preside and introduce the speakers. Mrs. Estelle Hunt Dean will sing the "Star-Spangled Banner," accompanied on the piano by Miss Helen Dean, her daughter. The invocation and benediction will be by the Rev. Millard F. Minnix, of Rockville. Mrs. Charles T. Conrad, president of the State Legion Auxiliary, is expected to be present.

State participation in the Cramton Park development program was urged in a resolution adopted yesterday by the Montgomery County Civic Federation. The federation voted to petition Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and the State Legislature to enact legislation at the present session of the Legislature which would refund one-third of the $3,000,000 which is to be loaned by the Federal Government in accordance with the provisions of the Cramton bill for development of parks in Montgomery and Prince Georges counties.

Action on the resolution favorting the petition was taken as an emergency measure by vote of the federation and the advisory committee acted on the petition and advocated its adoption in the course of the evening. Frederic P. Lee, chairman of the committee on public finance and budget, objected and recommended that the matter be brought before the federation at a later time when details could be presented by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission. Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic leader, objected, declaring that the matter was of such importance as to justify emergency action.

The federatio nalso indorsed the report of the committee on public finance and budget advocating a 10½-cent raise in the county tax rate, authorization of a $2,000,000 bond issue for schools and roads and the adoption by the federation of "standards of safety" to be adopted by the body in recommending bond issues. The committee reported unfavorably on a resoltuion which would provide for mandatory referendum on all bond issues and the designation of specific projects for which the bond money was to be spent.

A resolution was adopted directing the committee on legislation and legal action to investigate alleged electric rate discrimination policy being advocated before the District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission.

The meeting lasted until well into yesterday morning, having started at 8 o'clock Monday night in the Bethesda School.

The Rockville police court is believed to have established a record in the number of cases heard before Judge Charles W. Woodward in December, according to C. Y. Latimer, clerk of the court. There were 75 cases disposed of in the month. Paradoxically, the fines and costs collected were only $433.25, a low record for 1930 and may establish a low record. Motor vehicle fines aggregated $137 and this must be deducted from the total and forwarded to the commissioner of motor vehicles in Baltimore. The remainder of the funds collected is credited to the police upkeep fund.

A number of resolutions from civic bodies in the county was received yesterday by the Montgomery County Board of Education meeting in Rockville.

One resolution sponsored by the Drummond Citizens Association, the Woman's Club of Somerset, the Somerset Parent-Teacher Association and the Somerset Citizens Association asked the expenditure of money to purchase lots adoining the present Somerset School and to improve the grounds. The Takoma-Silver Spring Parent-Teacher Association urged construction of a senior high school in or near Silver Spring.

The Glen Echo-Cabin John P.-T. A. asked that the grounds of that school be given consideration in any school ground improvement program decided upon by the board. The Fairland School trustees forwarded a resolution approving the recommendation of the Montgomery County Civic Federation that two additional classrooms and a gymnasium-assembly room be added to that school.

The board announced the appointment of Mrs. Henry Allnutt as trustee of the Poolesville High School to take the place of Mrs. Lawrence Allnutt, resigned. It also announced that all evidence in the suit to close Valley Place in order that the construction of the addition to the Chevy Chase Elementary School can be started is now before Judge Robert B. Peter in Circuit Court at Rockville. It is expected that the udge will announce his decision at an early date.

Four outstanding improvements for the area contiguous to Kensington were urged in a report of the committee on legislation and legal action of the Kensington Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the chamber Monday night in the Kensington School. The chamber adopted the report nad a resolution urging that the projects be made a part of the county legislative program for the 1931 session of the General Assembly now in session.

The projects urged are widening of the Garrett Park road from Kensington to the Rockville pike and elimination of the dangerous one-way bridge over Rock Creek, location of the proposed park drive along the banks of the Rock Creek so that it will connect with Kensington by way of the Capitol View road, construction of a surfaced extension of the Viers Mill road from Wheaton to Rockville and establishment of a central high school in or near Kensington.

President Irvin Linton announced the following committee appointments: Roads, streets and bridges committee, H. D. Appleby, chairman; A. C. Warthen and W. A. Wagner; school committee, Charles Bohanan, chairman; Prof. W. P. Hay and H. W. McGinniss, and the appointment of George C. Shinn to the committee on legislation and legal action.

The entire slate of officers in the Kensington Volunteer Fire Department was renominated and reelected at a meeting of that body Monday night in the Kensington National Guard Armory. Officers reelected were Alfred L. Geiger, president; Edgar W. Moore, first vice president; E. J. C. Raney, second vice president; E. F. Burner, secretary; Matthew Trimble, jr., treasurer; Marrian D. Curran, chief, and H. R. Magruder, assistant chief.

The department voted to hold its annual banquet Monday night at the Villa Roma on Rockville pike. The special guests will include the mayor and council of Kensington, Fire Chief George Watson, of Washington, and other members of the Washington Fire Department.

The Kensington department answered 146 alarms in 1930. It is estimated that property valued at $175,000 was saved. The fire loss of approximately $40,000 was attributable to lack of water in a majority of the fires, it was reported. The treasurer reported a balance on hand of $1,750 and that the department is now equipped with a 750-gallon pumper, a 300-gallon pumper, a rescue wagon, a hose wagon and 2,500 feet of hose. There are 40 active members and 10 reserve list members.

A Montgomery County Chapter of the Maryland State Normal School at Towson Alumni Association is being formed in the county. Mrs. Thomas Barnsley, of Olney, is chairman. Any resident of the county who has attended the school is entitled to join.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Bethesda Elementary School will hold a "civic night" at the school tonight at 8 o'clock. Speakers will include Dr. Edwin W. Broome, superintendent of county schools; County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner, of the Bethesda district, and the school trustees, Mrs. Benjamin C. Perry, Mrs. Latane Lewis, Robert E. Bondy and E. C. Bosworth. Presidents of citizens associations in the neighborhood have been invited to be present.

Burden Bearers Circle, of Rockville, King's Daughters, met yesterday at the home of Mrs. John Brewer to participate in the world wide celebration of the firty-fifth anniversary of the founds of the International Order of King's Daughters. The circle also celebrated its own forty-first anniversary.

The order was founded January 13, 1886, by ten women in New York City. Within a year its membership had leaped to the almost phenomenal figure of 70,000 in the United States, and the order now has become international in scope. The Rockville circle paralleled the founding of the mother body in that it had ten charter members.

The only living member of the original ten, Mrs. Edwin Smith, of Rockville, addressed the meeting. Mrs. Warren Evans conducted the meeting and read a communication from the central council which recalled the aims of the order, the pledge service and urged a rededication of the members to service.

Mrs. John Brewer read three poems and Mrs. George H. Lamar read two papers describing the formation of the mother body and the Rockville Circle. Mrs. Thomas Falvy prayed. The devotional service was concluded with Mizpah, following which a social hour was held in which the hostess served refreshments. The home was decorated in flowers of the colors of the order, white and purple. The symbol of the order is a silver cross.

FALLS CHURCH BOND ISSUE PLAN IS LOST

253 FAVORED PROPOSAL

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Chraenden 2324-W-2.

The proposed water bond issue of $125,000 in the town of Falls Church was defeated yesterday, not because of the number of votes cast against the proposition, but because of the lack of the number of total votes cast in the election. In fact, out of the 285 votes cast yesterday, 253 persons voted in favor of the bond issue, 27 against and 5 ballots were void. The majority was almost ten to one, only 21 votes lacking in the total number cast.

The election yesterday was under special provisions contained in the town's charter. The charter provides that two elections shall be held for the purpose of issuing bonds against the town, the first shall be called by the town council on the presentment of a petition signed by a certain number of resident Freehold property owners. In that election only persons over 21 years old owning real estate within the corporate limits of the town and actually residing therein are entitled to participate. Of the total number of resident freehold property owners in the town, at least 50 per cent of them must participate before the election is valid, and to hold the second election among the qualified voters of the town, at least 50 per cent of those voting must favor the bond issue.

According to the list of freehold property owners in Falls Church, as passed by the council after they had been posted according to the charter for a certain number of days, there were 612 persons entitled to participate in yesterday's election. This meant that at least 306 of this number had to cats ballots; otherwise the election was held in vain, as the results indicated.

At the last meeting of the Town Council of Falls Church a resolution offered by Councilman Julius Parmelee was adopted notifying the Rosslyn Gas Co. that it must put all streets of the town back in the condition in which they were found prior to the time the gas mains were installed, within ten days or an additional bond of $1,000 would be required by the town. Members of the council expressed themselves as being dissatisfied with the manner in which the streets had been repaired by the gas company.

The committee on laws, public order and public property reported that it had not completed its consideration of the ordinance submitted by Mayor L. P. Daniel at the last regular meeting. This ordinance would require any person, firm or corporation to secure a permit to cut up any street and to deposit a bond or cash to insure proper restoration of the street. Mayor Daniel urged the committee to make rapid progress in their consideraton, as the streets of the town are in a bad condition at present and the situation is difficult to cope with without proper ordinances.

C. J. Hyslup, of Richmond, State superintendent of vocational training in the schools of the State is in Fairfax County making a survey of the local situation in regard to installing vocational guidance classes in the high schools of the county. This survey is being made at the request of the Fairfax County school board. Superintendent Hyslup yesterday visited the High Schools at Falls Church, McLean, Oakton and Herndon. While there he explained the nature of his examination and gave the pupils questionnaire to fill out and return. This questionnaire asks if the pupils have made their choice of the trade, profession or business they intended to follow. What the choice is, when made, if help was received from their school teachers in making it and how they were preparing themselves for their life work. It also asks if the following courses were offered in the school, which they would choose; general academic, commercial, home economics, agriculture or vocational. The last includes woodworking, also mechanics and electricity, &c.

Supt. Hyslup will complete his survey in the county today by visiting the high schools at Clifton Station, Fairfax and Lee-Jackson. As soon as he has completed the examination of the questionnaires the result of the survey and his recommendations will be made public. His work will guide the County School Board in the determination of whether or not vocational guidance classes will be established in hte various high schools of the county in the near future or whether it would be best to first construct a centrally located vocational high school before attempting to teach the vocational subject to the pupils of hte county.

The Centerville Grange will hold its meeting this evening in the auditorium of the Oakton school. The recently elected officers of the grange will be installed by Worthy Master R. Colton Lewis. The initiation services and banquet originally planned for tonight have been postponed until a later date because of the difficulty encountered in arranging for a drill team.

The annual meeting of the executive committee of the Fairfax Country American Red Cross will be held this afternoon in the health office at the courthouse at Fairfax. The chairmen of all branches throughout the county are requested to make their final reports on the annual roll call at this meeting, so that the retruns for the county may be forwarded to the national headquarters in Washington.

The Fairfax Bar Association will hold its quarterly meeting this evening in the offices of its president, William M. Farr, on Poyne street, in the town of Fairfax. The secretary, Paul E. Brown, urges that all members attend the meeting as the officers for the coming year will be elected.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Southern Methodist Church at Andrew Chapel will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Day.

The new officers of the Providence Council, Daughters of America, will be installed at the meeting this evening by Mrs. Clintoh A. Lane, of Vienna, district deputy State councilor.

The Great Falls Grange at Forestville plane to send a large delegation to Washington this evening to attend the installation of the officers of the Potomac Grange. Miss Elizabeth Guilford and Oswald Carper, of the Great Falls Grange, have been invited to act as marshals in the installation services.

CHEST AND RED CROSS COMBINE CAMPAIGNS INTO ONE FUND DRIVE

$1,950,154 Is Goal Set for February 4 Under Joint Plan.

$100,000 OF TOTAL FOR STRICKEN AREA

Bodies Act for Prevention of Confusion Through Separate Pleas.

The plea of the District Chapter of the American Red Cross for $100,000 as its quota of the $10,000,000 drought-relief fund was combined last night with the Community Chest's 1931 campaign, to be waged January 26 to February 4, bringing the total to be raised by the Chest workers to $1,950,154.40.

The action, which had been under discussion for two days, was taken to facilitate raising the money and to prevent confusion which would be caused by two distinct drives for funds during identical periods.

Announcement of the joint campaign was made by Gen Frank R. Keefer, chairman of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Red Cross, and John Poole, president of the Community Chest, following a meeting of the board of trustees of the Chest.

According to the plan of cooperation which was adopted at the meeting by agreement of the Red Cross and the Chest, the Red Cross drought relief will be included in the campaign on the same basis as any member organization.

Red Cross Pledged $100,000.

The only exception is that in view of the urgent need which the Red Cross represents, the Red Cross is guaranteed its $100,000 quota. It will be paid whatever part of this sum is immediately needed upon request after the campaign, and the remainder within 30 days.

Gifts received direct by the Red Cross for this purpose will be credited toward the total drought relief budget of $100,000, but the Red Cross will not solicit separate gifts, encouraging all persons to make their subscriptions through the Community Chest and add to what they otherwise would give to the Chest, the extra amount for drought relief.

The name of the Red Cross will be printed on the Chest pledge cards and gifts to it will be encouraged. If the campaign goal is oversubscribed, the Community Chest and the Red Cross will share the oversubscription in proportion to their prospective budgets.

The joint campaign goal of $1,950,154.40 will include only the $100,000 drought relief quota of the local chapter of the Red Cross and the Chest's previous goal of $1,850,154.40.

$388,000 More Than Last Year.

The Chest's part of the campaign was held by its officials to be the minimum under which its member orgahizations can successfully and adequately carry on their work in 1931. The $1,850,154.40 budget was approved yesterday by the board of trustees. The goal is $388,000 or 26 per cent more than raised last year.

The decision to add the Red Cross quota came after Red Cross officials submitted a plan for participation in a joint money-raising drive to the executive committee of the Chest. This body approved the idea and sent it to the trustees, who also favored it.

President Poole and Gen. Keefer issued the following statement following the decision to include the Red Cross in the drive:

"We believe that this amount is justified in view of the situation both here at home and in the stricken areas and that Washington will gladly give the additional 26 per cent necessary to meet the emergency or drought and unemployment at home and throughout the country. Washington has always rallied to such emergencies and we confidently count on reaching this goal. We also believe that all Washingtonians will approve the combination of these two campaigns, which

RED CROSS LEADER REPLIES TO THOMAS

GIVES REPORT FIGURES

Charges by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, that the Red Cross has $25,000,000 available for relief work instead of $4,500,000, and that managers of the organization have hoarded the money given them in former years and are not only hoarding it but attempting to conceal it, brought a quick retort last night from Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the central committee of the Red Cross.

"There is no need for any misunderstanding or uncertainty as to the funds of the Red Cross," Judge Payne declared. "It publishes and distributes widely each year an annual report which contains in detail the financial statement audited by the War Department.

"The financial report for the year ended June 30, 1930, was transmitted to the Congress October 10, 1930, by

FATAL EARTHQUAKE ROCKS MEXICO CITY

Walls Fall, Houses Crack and Lightning Flashes as Skies Turn Yellow.

VERA CRUZ ALSO STRUCK

Mexico City, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The sharpest earthquake felt in Mexico City for 19 years caused at least one death and four injuries tonight, at the same time starting fires in two parts of the city, cracking buildings and throwing inhabitants into panic.

A woman was killed by a falling wall in San Antonio Abad street, while four persons, one of them a small child, were injured by falling objects in houses.

The shock began at 8:48 p. m. (8:48 p. m., E. S. T.) and for two minutes shook buildings with a rolling motion. Minor quakes continued for some five minutes after the principal shock.

Electric lights went out, power lines were broken and telephone service was interrupted for some time.

The fright of the inhabitants, who ran out of their homes in terror as the houses began to heave, was

SENATE YIELDS ON FOOD, HURLS RELIEF THREAT

$25,000,000 PROGRAM ASKED BY DEMOCRATS

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate yesterday backed down in its controversy with the House over the drought relief appropriation bill, but in so doing the Democrats and Progressives set the stage to give the administration-controlled body at the other end of the Capitol a licking calculated to last it for some time.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, minority leader, introduced an amendment to the pending agricultural appropriation bill providing $25,000,000 for the relief of distress generally, and made it very plain that the amendment would go in the bill and stick there, or there would be no bill.

The upshot of it all is that the bill providing $45,000,000 for loans to farmers in the drought-stricken area for crop rehabilitation goes now to the President, and in its wake arises the issue of giving $25,000,000 from the Federal Treasury to relieve distress generally, in the unemployment centers of the East and in the agricultural sections, and this money is to be given straight out, without the suggestion that it is being loaned. And in administration quarters it was admitted that no way of beating the proposition is in sight.

New Plan Is Dole.

The issue in the drought relief measure involved only $15,000,000 for loans to farmers for personal food. It was attacked by the administration as being dangerously near to constituting a dole, as it was contended the loans would not be paid back.

The new proposition is not dangerously near a dole, but is one. The money would presumably be distributed, however, by the Red Cross, as the Robinson amendment provides it is to supplement Red Cross assistance.

Under the rules of the Senate he needs a two-thirds vote to get the amendment in the pending arricultural appropriation bill, but whether he has that many votes is neither here nor there. His threat that the appropriation will go in and stick, or there will be no bill, is one he can easily carry out.

Tables Are Turned.

The Democrats and Progressives are pretty sore about backing down in every one of these controversies with the House, and it was pointed out that not only did the House conferees remain adamant in their refusal to accept the $15,000,000 provision in the drought relief measure, but held out against another little Senate amendment, quite harmless, as well. But there never seems anything these senators can do but back down, when confronted by a situation such as that yesterday, when it was dangerous to hold up the drought relief measure any longer.

Now the tables are turned and, if the administration refuses to accept the Robinson amendment, the inescapable implication of his threat is an extra session, and the minority leader does not make idle threats.

The idea came to him suddenly while the senators were fretting over the administration's attitude toward giving relief out of the Federal Treasury. Senator Black, of Alabama, in fact, gave it to him, and immediately

NAVAL PROJECT IS VOTED TOTAL OF $74,030,000

House Committee Reports Bill to Augment Sea Forces.

6-INCH-GUN CRUISER PROPOSAL REJECTED

Britten Believes Measure Is Likely to Be Passed in Both Houses.

(Associated Press.)

The House naval affairs committee voted yesterday to authorize $74,030,000 for construction to augment naval forces that operate on, over and under sea. It approved a bill for that amount but declined, by 9 to 7, to indorse Secretary Adams' recommendation that an additional $16,605,000 be spent on a 8-inch-gun cruiser.

The measure would allow the Navy to build a radically different fighting ship—a cruiser to cost $20,780,000 and carry 36 airplanes. Chairman Britten said it is "barely possible that all future cruiser tonnage will be that class of ship" since experts predict it may revolutionize naval warfare.

Provision For Planes.

In addition, this would provide for 280 airplanes, 150 to be built out of funds allotted to the ships. Five million dollars is set aside for the remaining 130. It carries $27,650,000 for a 114-plane airplane carrier, $17,600,000 for four submarines, and $3,000,000 for experimentation with Diesel engines.

Besides this construction, the Navy is asking an appropriation of $5,300,000 for a destroyer leader and $47,000,000 for ten destroyers already authorized. Pending legislation would allow $30,000,000 more to modernize three battleships and appropriations will be asked for the $6,000,000 Sunnyvale, Calif., air base and about $3,000,000 for the sister ship to the dirigible Akron now under construction.

Britten Is Optimistic.

Britten said since the Navy general board had favored 8-inch vessels over the 6-inch gun type, the committee felt it was not advisable to authorize construction of the smaller ship. The United States is allowed 80,000 tons of additional cruisers under the London treaty, he said, and the committee decided it would be "inadvisable to sacrifice any cruiser tonnage on which landing decks could be employed."

The bill provides that construction of the vessels and planes be completed at the "earliest practicable date." Britten predicted it had "quite a good chance to pass both houses" this session.

The battleships and aircraft carriers of the future may be huge metal-clad dirigibles.

This vision was laid before the House yesterday by Representative Collins (Democrat), Mississippi, during consideration of the item in the War Department appropriation bill carrying $200,000 for further cooperative investigation and research into the relative value of metal-clad and fabric-clad dirigibles.

Representative Taber (Republican), New York, presented an amendment designed to eliminate this item from the bill. He had announced in advance his purpose to strike it out. Mr. Taber insisted that under existing law development of rigid airships is left with the Navy Department.

The amendment was supported by Representative Stafford (Republican), who declared it was a scheme to have Uncle Sam finance further studies by private parties. The funds are to be used by the Air Corps in cooperation

Court Also Hears How Secretary Burned Love Notes.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 14 (A.P.)—Clara Bow, the "it" girl of the movies, was described as "being drunk, very, very drunk," in an asserted confession of Daisy DeVoe, formerly secretary to the film actress, read here today in the latter's trial for grand theft.

The DeVoe statement also told how the former secretary, before her discharge, destroyed love letters written to the actress by Harry Richman, an actor; Dr. Earl Pierson, of Dallas, and Gary Cooper, also an actor.

"I burned the love letters because I would not have them around the house. That is how Clara gets into trouble, so I took the liberty of burning them," the alleged statement said.

Reed Quizzed Two Hours as New Start Upon Inquest Nears.

BARGFREDE IS FREED; WIFE STILL DETAINED

Mother, Sister of Slain Girl Granted Release as They Hold to Testimony.

After releasing George T. Bargfrede, who had been held in connection with the murder of Beulah Limerick, detectives of the Homicide Squad last night made preparations for resumption of the murder inquest by interrogating Richard Reed at the Eleventh Precinct.

Capt. Edward J. Kelly, assistant chief of detectives, and Sergt. John F. Flaherty, head of the Homicide Squad, sought to break down Reed's story that he knew nothing of the murder.

Under an interrrogation lasting more than two hours, Reed failed to vary the story which he has told to detectives from the time of his imprisonment on December 31, Capt. Kelly said, "Reed has told us the same story. He has not changed it in the slightest."

Denies Making Statement.

Mrs. Dora E. Limerick, mother of the slain girl, and Mrs. Julia Bywaters, sister of Beulah, yesterday were confronted by Bargfrede and his wife, Mrs. Martha Bargfrede, at the Fifth Precinct station. The Bargfredes repeated their story that on the night following the killing Mrs. Ethel Limerick and Mrs. Dora Limerick cautioned them to say nothing about the recovery of a gun in the stove in the murder house.

Vernon Limerick, who is held in connection with the shooting, was brought into the witness room of the Fifth Precinct, into the presence of his mother. Mrs. Limerick said: "I want you to tell everything that you know about Beulah's death."

"Mother, I have told all that I know," replied Vernon.

When the Bargfredes reaffirmed their story of the statement they said Mrs. Limerick had made, the mother of the girl emphatically denied that any mention had been made of a gun during the conversation held in her home on the night following the murder.

"Gun" Proves Hinge.

Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins last night indicated that he would use Bargfrede as a witness at the inquest, to corroborate Mrs. Bargfrede's testimony. Mrs. Bargfrede, who was a close friend of Beulah, is still being held at the House of Detention and will again be before the inquest today. Her husband has confirmed her story and repeated it yesterday to detectives, in the presence of the girl's mother and her sister.

Inspector William S. Shelby yesterday announced that a piece of metal, reported to have been found in the basement of the Limerick home, which had been described as a "gun," proved to be nothing more than a piece of hinge, which had apparently been attached to a piece of wood used as fuel.

Mrs. Dora Limerick and Mrs. Bywaters were removed from their home yesterday and, after being questioned for three hours, Capt. Kelly announced that police had been unable to break down their story of events immediately following the murder. They were immediately released.

Seeks to Find Motive.

Harry T. Whelan, counsel for patrolman Robert P. Langdon, who is also held by police, said last night that he will question witnesses closely today in an attempt to ferret out the reason why they are all so ready to cast suspicion upon his client.

"The memories of the witnesses questioned so far," he said, "are very good where it concerns something detrimental to Langdon, but the memories become very hazy where

GOV. RITCHIE ENTERS UPON FOURTH TERM

NOTABLES AT CEREMONY

(Picture on Page Four.)

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 14.—Delivering his inaugural address after taking the oath that inducted him into office for his fourth term as chief executive of the Commonwealth of Maryland, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie today reiterated his advocacy of States rights principles and severely attacked national prohibition and Federal centralization of power.

Gov. Ritchie has frequently been mentioned as a Democratic presidential possibility, and his address today was interpreted in some quarters as a forerunner to his becoming a potential candidate in 1932. The talk was carried to a nationwide audience over the Columbia Broadcasting System's network, and the ceremonies also were broadcast by Station WBAL, Baltimore, under an independent arrangement. And the audience that heard Gov. Ritchie direct was perhaps the largest ever to hear an inaugural address. The statehouse was jammed and amplifiers carried the speech to several thousand persons on the outside.

NEW ARRESTS EXPECTED

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Federal agents tonight claimed to have smashed an alleged $5,000,000 mail order liquor ring operated throughout the United States, with the arrest of two men and a woman in a Times Square office.

H. J. Simmons, chief agent of the Department of Justice, said documents were seized giving the names of many prominent customers. He said large and small shipments had been sent to all parts of the country.

The prisoners were listed as D. M. Lefkowitz, Benjamin Williams and Pauline Earls. They were taken before United States Commissioner Cotter charged with conspiring to violate the prohibition law.

Simmons said more arrests were expected. The source from which

Freakish Weather Chills Dixie, Southern Countries

Postage-Stamp Blizzards, Snow in Mexico City and Sands of Desert Grown Cold Are Features of World Climatic Conditions.

(Associated Press.)

The world was a bit giddy with its Wednesday weather.

In Mexico City, where it shouldn't, it snowed.

A postage stamp blizzard laid a deep snow along a narrow section of territory near Buffalo, N. Y., and blew itself out without being felt elsewhere in the vicinity.

Warm-blooded Spaniards, unused to severe cold, saw mercuries fall below zero, and in southern Spain, where furnaces and red underwear are unheard of, there was considerable suffering.

Dixie shivered under snow. It was freezing at Chattanooga, Tenn., and in Johnson City there was 7 inches of snow. The piedmont and mountain sections of the Carolinas also had snow falls and temperatures below 32. It was cold in Virginia and Albama last night, with readings low in the twenties predicted before dawn.

Arkansas went to bed with the warning of a freeze and the promise of warmer weather today. Atlanta looked forward to a season's low of 14 during the night, and even Florida, her feet splashing in the warm gulf, saw the thin red line of her thermometers dip into the thirties.

Snow in Mexico City was a revelation to thousands of natives who never had seen it save on the distant mountain peaks. Many who habitually sleep outdoors had to avail themselves of charity's shelter.

The West Coast had seasonable temperatures which went into the 60's, tapering down to lower figures in the North. Canada's Northwest

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Some of the current reports concerning the expected visit of the Prince of Wales to the Argentine suggest that any advantage resulting to British trade might be an injury to our own exports. That view is unnecessary. The British Empire is world-wide. It is a great stabilizing influence. Naturally it wants trade, but it wants friendly relations even more. The visits of its royal house are properly made for that purpose and do not differ from the trip made by Mr. Hoover to South America.

The better the trade of the empire the better will be our trade. Over two-fifths of our exports go to the British Empire. Canada is our largest customer with the British Isles a close second. We want them all prosperous. To maintain our living standards we have and shall retain some advantage in our home markets under the tariff, but imports of about three billion dollars, free from duties, make us the second largest free market in the world. No nation can do all the export trade on earth. Unless it is properly distributed it diminishes. We can take our chances with all other exporters and wish them well.

Beau Brummel Bootlegger Bounces Into Jail and Out

Habeas Corpus Action Frees Terry Druggan, "Public Enemy," Speedily After Judge Lyle Gives Him Year for Contempt of Court.

Chicago, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Terry Druggan, erstwhile millionaire beer peddler, bounced into jail today—and bounced right out again.

Municipal Judge John H. Lyle sentenced the Beau Brummel bootlegger to jail for a year on a contempt charge, refused bail pending an appeal and ordered him locked up at once.

Druggan's attorneys immediately got a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Joseph Burke, who ruled that granting of bond pending appeal was mandatory, and released the "public enemy" on $5,000 bail.

Manifestly broken in health, Druggan got little sympathy from Judge John H. Lyle, whose municipal felony court has become an unhappy rendezvous for "public enemies." The pleas of his attorney had been waved aside and the crusading judge, a candidate for mayor, pronounced sentence.

A few moments later Judge Lyle heard a rustling in the adjacent bureau of identification, where Druggan was finger-printed and photographed. He went in to find the prisoner seated in a chair drinking milk.

"Take that man and lock him up," the court ordered. Druggan was led away to jail.

It was the former beer baron's failure to appear before Judge Lyle at vagrancy hearings that incurred the court's wrath and the contempt citation. Druggan had been named in one of Lyle's "public enemy" warrants, arrested and arraigned. Later he was absent from a scheduled hearing and his attorneys and physicians testified he was too ill to attend.

Prosecutors and court investigated, raided his luxurious downtown hotel

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

FROM GOLF TO BUSINESS.

THE period of the golfing business man is over, says an economist, predicting that the next few years will see him devoting more time to improving his business and less time to improving his backswing.

* * * *

The economist is correct. During the boom years the average American business man spent so much time on the golf links that he was practically a total stranger to the office staff. From 1925 to October, 1929, there were offices in which the boss was never seen except on rainy days.

* * * *

If you wanted to talk business with a big business executive you had to meet him in a foursome. He judged his corporation's position by the indifference with which it accepted his consistent absence.

* * * *

American industry was fundamentally sound as long as it put no limitations on his excursions into the rough, and a little thing like a loss of $5,000 worth of new business at no time disturbed him as much as the loss of a 75-cent golf ball.

* * * *

The business was really a subsidiary of golf.

* * * *

It had come to be felt that a business man who didn't spend his afternoons digging divots was violating the code of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club and the Business Men's Association.

* * * *

His presence around the office in fair weather between May and December was generally considered a public confession that he didn't have the staff well organized.

* * * *

A master mind was judged by the appointments it could forget and the par holes it could remember.

* * * *

SUCCESS stories began, "Everything that I am in life I owe to the Vardon grip," and always had a paragraph stating, "Success did not come easy. I spent many long years developing a correct backswing. My advice to young men starting out in the business world is to get a set of matched clubs and never watch the clock."

* * * *

The business genius of the past few years gave all he had to the stockholders. But all he had was a terrible stance.

Business came before pleasure. And golf came before either.

* * * *

It had become a reflection on a man's ability if he showed any concern about office affairs. Any inability to spend most of his time thrashing across undeveloped real estate in pursuit of a little white ball was held prima facie evidence that he didn't know how to systematize his affairs.

* * * *

His one regret was that no books could be balanced with a mashie-niblick and that the directors wouldn't accept his year's best golf score as the corporation's annual report.

* * * *

All in all, there is no doubt that business interfered with the American business man's golf.

* * * *

And it will be a relief to investors to know that he is not going to give up his business.

COMPENSATION.

WHILE I am getting gray and thin, he's growing bald and fat;
We both are conscious, keen of time's demands;
But there's a compensation, felt by us in spite of that—
We sit throughout the "talkies" holding hands.

REVOLT.

COURTHOUSE VOTED $1,500 FOR REPAIRS

Prince Georges Commission Authorizes Much-Needed Improvements.

FOURTH JUDGE WANTED

More than $1,500 was appropriated yesterday by the Prince Georges County commissioners for repairs and improvements on the courthouse at Upper Marlboro. The largest single item is $1,400 for linoleum for the floors of offices in the building. Other floors are to be patched and painted, and may be covered with red tile in the future.

This is the second step in a clean-up campaign instituted by the new board of commissioners. Last week they made a trip of inspection through the courthouse, and several changes in the manner of cleaning have resulted. Floors are being swept more thoroughly and often, and boxes of dirt, serving as spittoons, have been installed in dark corners.

The purchase of furniture for the office of the county prosecutor was authorized, at an expense of about $100. This will provide filing cases and bookcases. Running water will be installed in the office of the clerk to the commissioners at a cost of about $70. A great deal of guttering work should be done to the building, and bids will probably be asked when the new levy is made up. It is likely that this work will be done even if it requires an additional penny on the tax rate.

A committee of the defense and prosecution lawyers in the Brady case asked the board to arrange for the expenses which will be incurred when that case is brought to trial the latter part of this month. Evidence will have to be moved from Rockville, where the last trial was held, to Annapolis, and witnesses will have to be brought from Cleveland. The committee was composed of Alan Bowie, J. Frank Parran and J. Wilson Ryon.

Refusing a request of the Gulf Refining Co. for a depreciation of 25 per cent on its gasoline pumps, the board decided that the company should be taxed as last year. The old rate was 15 per cent. The company owns 41 pumps in the county, against 54 last year.

The commissioners agreed to pay half the cost of a road from the Marlboro pike to Bradbury Heights if the patrons would pay half the cost. It is estimated that the road, a little more than a mile long, will cost about $2,500 to build.

Mrs. Louis M. John asked that the paving of Riggs road be continued. It was also asked that the road between Chillum road and Riggs road to Queens Chapel road be taken over by the State. T. C. Gardner appealed from the commissioners' refusal to take over certain streets in Riverdale Heights. The commissioners, however, would not change their stand that streets in subdivisions would not be made into county roads.

A delegation headed by Benedict Gallentt, of Vansville, asked a new road from that community to Laurel. Declaring that mail can not be delivered along the present road between Hillmead and Glenn Dale, R. W. Suman, postmaster at the latter place asked for improvements of the road. The present route is often impassable in winter. His request was backed up by a delegation of citizens from that town.

The last year's board of commissioners accepted a road through the underpass at Arundel Station on the Pennsylvania Railroad, but an objection against making this a county road was registered by R. Lee Mullikin. The road is in bad condition and would cost $1,500 to fix up, Mr. Mullikin said.

A board of examiners was appointed to inquire into the need for the county taking over Spencer street between the Baltimore boulevard and Oakcrest Station on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. The board consists of Clinton Donaldson, George Sellers and Whitney Atchison.

A complaint was received from Mrs. George B. Ness and Natalie L. Ness, who object to the condition of the Brooklyn Bridge on the outskirts of Laurel. This bridge, they say, was damaged by a thrashing machine some years ago. The board informed the women that this was a town matter, as the bridge was on the town boundary.

The Prince Georges County Bar Association yesterday approved the provision for another judge in the Seventh judicial circuit, which provides the county with its justices. The appointment of a fourth judge, still far in the future, has to be done through a constitutional amendment.

Judge Joseph C. Mattingly, who spends most of his time in the circuit court at Marlboro, has long been kept busy by his judicial work. The added judge on the circuit is designed to relieve this condition.

Judge T. Van Clagett, president of the association, appointed a committee of three to draw up the amendment. It is composed of J. Frank Parran, Ogle Marbury and Frank M. Hall. Once framed, the amendment must be approved by the legislature and then submitted to the voters at the general election in 1932.

Two divorce petitions were filed yesterday in the circuit court at Upper Marlboro. Alleging that she was abandoned, Iva C. Moran asked for an absolute divorce from Frank A. Moran. The couple were married in 1918, she says, and lived together until 1923. They have one child, Clifton Francis Moran, 12 years old. She asks custody of the child. Attorney Frank M. Hall appears for the plaintiff.

Saying that his wife, Bertha K. Jarusso, 37 years old, has been unfaithful to him and naming a corespondent, Pardo Jarusso yesterday filed suit in the same court. Jarusso, a barber living in Mount Rainier, last week had his wife arrested on a charge of drunkenness.

The couple were married in 1921, but have no children.

Fines totaling $4,357.25 were collected in the county police court last month.

Director of Athletics Missing Since Jan. 7

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 13.—Paul B. Davis, 26, director of athletics at the Pennsylvania Forest School, at Mont Alto, near here, has been missing since January 7, when he left in his car. The car, with keys in the instrument board, has been found here. Students say that Davis has been despondent.

An officer of the school went today to Philadelphia to learn whether a man answering Davis' description, believed to be an amnesia sufferer, is the director.

ROCKVILLE MEETING WILL DISCUSS REDS

Gen. Fries and Mrs. Hobart Among Speakers Tonight for Legion Groups.

PARK FUNDS ARE URGED

Two prominent speakers will stress the dangers of communistic propaganda in America at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Rockville High School under the auspices of the American Legion and Auxiliary of Montgomery County. A section of the United States Army BaBnd will play.

Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, former chief of the Chemical Warfare Bureau of the United States Army, and Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, identified with the anticommunistic campaign waged by patriotic societies in this country, will tell of investigations which show a decided "Red" menace to the peace and security of this country. National defense will be touched on also by the speakers.

Warner E. Pumphrey, post commander of the Henderson-Smith-Edmonds Post, of Rockville, is in charge of the meeting, assisted by Maj. Howard Cutler, commander of Cissel-Saxon Post, Silver Spring; Albert Willson, commander of Norman B. Price Post, Sandy Spring; Mrs. Paul Clark, president of the Cissel-Saxon Auxiliary, and Miss Lucy Smith, president of the Henderson-Smith-Edmonds Auxiliary.

Department Commander George Henderson, of Cumberland, will preside and introduce the speakers. Mrs. Estelle Hunt Dean will sing the "Star-Spangled Banner," accompanied on the piano by Miss Helen Dean, her daughter. The invocation and benediction will be by the Rev. Millard F. Minnix, of Rockville. Mrs. Charles T. Conrad, president of the State Legion Auxiliary, is expected to be present.

State participation in the Cramton Park development program was urged in a resolution adopted yesterday by the Montgomery County Civic Federation. The federation voted to petition Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and the State Legislature to enact legislation at the present session of the Legislature which would refund one-third of the $3,000,000 which is to be loaned by the Federal Government in accordance with the provisions of the Cramton bill for development of parks in Montgomery and Prince Georges counties.

Action on the resolution favorting the petition was taken as an emergency measure by vote of the federation and the advisory committee acted on the petition and advocated its adoption in the course of the evening. Frederic P. Lee, chairman of the committee on public finance and budget, objected and recommended that the matter be brought before the federation at a later time when details could be presented by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission. Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic leader, objected, declaring that the matter was of such importance as to justify emergency action.

The federatio nalso indorsed the report of the committee on public finance and budget advocating a 10½-cent raise in the county tax rate, authorization of a $2,000,000 bond issue for schools and roads and the adoption by the federation of "standards of safety" to be adopted by the body in recommending bond issues. The committee reported unfavorably on a resoltuion which would provide for mandatory referendum on all bond issues and the designation of specific projects for which the bond money was to be spent.

A resolution was adopted directing the committee on legislation and legal action to investigate alleged electric rate discrimination policy being advocated before the District of Columbia Public Utilities Commission.

The meeting lasted until well into yesterday morning, having started at 8 o'clock Monday night in the Bethesda School.

The Rockville police court is believed to have established a record in the number of cases heard before Judge Charles W. Woodward in December, according to C. Y. Latimer, clerk of the court. There were 75 cases disposed of in the month. Paradoxically, the fines and costs collected were only $433.25, a low record for 1930 and may establish a low record. Motor vehicle fines aggregated $137 and this must be deducted from the total and forwarded to the commissioner of motor vehicles in Baltimore. The remainder of the funds collected is credited to the police upkeep fund.

A number of resolutions from civic bodies in the county was received yesterday by the Montgomery County Board of Education meeting in Rockville.

One resolution sponsored by the Drummond Citizens Association, the Woman's Club of Somerset, the Somerset Parent-Teacher Association and the Somerset Citizens Association asked the expenditure of money to purchase lots adoining the present Somerset School and to improve the grounds. The Takoma-Silver Spring Parent-Teacher Association urged construction of a senior high school in or near Silver Spring.

The Glen Echo-Cabin John P.-T. A. asked that the grounds of that school be given consideration in any school ground improvement program decided upon by the board. The Fairland School trustees forwarded a resolution approving the recommendation of the Montgomery County Civic Federation that two additional classrooms and a gymnasium-assembly room be added to that school.

The board announced the appointment of Mrs. Henry Allnutt as trustee of the Poolesville High School to take the place of Mrs. Lawrence Allnutt, resigned. It also announced that all evidence in the suit to close Valley Place in order that the construction of the addition to the Chevy Chase Elementary School can be started is now before Judge Robert B. Peter in Circuit Court at Rockville. It is expected that the udge will announce his decision at an early date.

Four outstanding improvements for the area contiguous to Kensington were urged in a report of the committee on legislation and legal action of the Kensington Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the chamber Monday night in the Kensington School. The chamber adopted the report nad a resolutfon urging that the projects be made a part of the county legislative program for the 1931 session of the General Assembly now in session.

The projects urged are widening of the Garrett Park road from Kensington to the Rockville pike and elimination of the dangerous one-way bridge over Rock Creek, location of the proposed park drive along the banks of the Rock Creek so that it will connect with Kensington by way of the Capitol View road, construction of a surfaced extension of the Viers Mill road from Wheaton to Rockville and establishment of a central high school in or near Kensington.

President Irvin Linton announced the following committee appointments: Roads, streets and bridges committee, H. D. Appleby, chairman; A. C. Warthen and W. A. Wagner; school committee, Charles Bohanan, chairman; Prof. W. P. Hay and H. W. McGinniss, and the appointment of George C. Shinn to the committee on legislation and legal action.

The entire slate of officers in the Kensington Volunteer Fire Department was renominated and reelected at a meeting of that body Monday night in the Kensington National Guard Armory. Officers reelected were Alfred L. Geiger, president; Edgar W. Moore, first vice president; E. J. C. Raney, second vice president; E. F. Burner, secretary; Matthew Trimble, jr., treasurer; Marrian D. Curran, chief, and H. R. Magruder, assistant chief.

The department voted to hold its annual banquet Monday night at the Villa Roma on Rockville pike. The special guests will include the mayor and council of Kensington, Fire Chief George Watson, of Washington, and other members of the Washington Fire Department.

The Kensington department answered 146 alarms in 1930. It is estimated that property valued at $175,000 was saved. The fire loss of approximately $40,000 was attributable to lack of water in a majority of the fires, it was reported. The treasurer reported a balance on hand of $1,750 and that the department is now equipped with a 750-gallon pumper, a 300-gallon pumper, a rescue wagon, a hose wagon and 2,500 feet of hose. There are 40 active members and 10 reserve list members.

A Montgomery County Chapter of the Maryland State Normal School at Towson Alumni Association is being formed in the county. Mrs. Thomas Barnsley, of Olney, is chairman. Any resident of the county who has attended the school is entitled to join.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Bethesda Elementary School will hold a "civic night" at the school tonight at 8 o'clock. Speakers will include Dr. Edwin W. Broome, superintendent of county schools; County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner, of the Bethesda district, and the school trustees, Mrs. Benjamin C. Perry, Mrs. Latane Lewis, Robert E. Bondy and E. C. Bosworth. Presidents of citizens associations in the neighborhood have been invited to be present.

Burden Bearers Circle, of Rockville, King's Daughters, met yesterday at the home of Mrs. John Brewer to participate in the world wide celebration of the firty-fifth anniversary of the founds of the International Order of King's Daughters. The circle also celebrated its own forty-first anniversary.

The order was founded January 13, 1886, by ten women in New York City. Within a year its membership had leaped to the almost phenomenal figure of 70,000 in the United States, and the order now has become international in scope. The Rockville circle paralleled the founding of the mother body in that it had ten charter members.

The only living member of the original ten, Mrs. Edwin Smith, of Rockville, addressed the meeting. Mrs. Warren Evans conducted the meeting and read a communication from the central council which recalled the aims of the order, the pledge service and urged a rededication of the members to service.

Mrs. John Brewer read three poems and Mrs. George H. Lamar read two papers describing the formation of the mother body and the Rockville Circle. Mrs. Thomas Falvy prayed. The devotional service was concluded with Mizpah, following which a social hour was held in which the hostess served refreshments. The home was decorated in flowers of the colors of the order, white and purple. The symbol of the order is a silver cross.

FALLS CHURCH BOND ISSUE PLAN IS LOST

253 FAVORED PROPOSAL

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clrsenden 2324-W-2.

The proposed water bond issue of $125,000 in the town of Falls Church was defeated yesterday, not because of the number of votes cast against the proposition, but because of the lack of the number of total votes cast in the election. In fact, out of the 285 votes cast yesterday, 253 persons voted in favor of the bond issue, 27 against and 5 ballots were void. The majority was almost ten to one, only 21 votes lacking in the total number cast.

The election yesterday was under special provisions contained in the town's charter. The charter provides that two elections shall be held for the purpose of issuing bonds against the town, the first shall be called by the town council on the presentment of a petition signed by a certain number of resident Freehold property owners. In that election only persons over 21 years old owning real estate within the corporate limits of the town and actually residing therein are entitled to participate. Of the total number of resident freehold property owners in the town, at least 50 per cent of them must participate before the election is valid, and to hold the second election among the qualified voters of the town, at least 50 per cent of those voting must favor the bond issue.

According to the list of freehold property owners in Falls Church, as passed by the council after they had been posted according to the charter for a certain number of days, there were 612 persons entitled to participate in yesterday's election. This meant that at least 306 of this number had to cats ballots, otherwise the election was held in vain, as the results indicated.

At the last meeting of the Town Council of Falls Church a resolution offered by Councilman Julius Parmelee was adopted notifying the Rosslyn Gas Co. that it must put all streets of the town back in the condition in which they were found prior to the time the gas mains were installed, within ten days or an additional bond of $1,000 would be required by the town. Members of the council expressed themselves as being dissatisfied with the manner in which the streets had been repaired by the gas company.

The committee on laws, public order and public property reported that it had not completed its consideration of the ordinance submitted by Mayor L. P. Daniel at the last regular meeting. This ordinance would require any person, firm or corporation to secure a permit to cut up any street and to deposit a bond or cash to insure proper restoration of the street. Mayor Daniel urged the committee to make rapid progress in their consideraton, as the streets of the town are in a bad condition at present and the situation is difficult to cope with without proper ordinances.

C. J. Hyslup, of Richmond, State superintendent of vocational training in the schools of the State is in Fairfax County making a survey of the local situation in regard to installing vocational guidance classes in the high schools of the county. This survey is being made at the request of the Fairfax County school board. Superintendent Hyslup yesterday visited the High Schools at Falls Church, McLean, Oakton and Herndon. While there he explained the nature of his examination and gave the pupils a questionnaire to fill out and return. This questionnaire asks if the pupils have made their choice of the trade, profession or business they intended to follow. What the choice is, when made, if help was received from their school teachers in making it and how they were preparing themselves for their life work. It also asks if the following courses were offered in the school, which they would choose: general academic, commercial, home economics, agriculture or vocational. The last includes woodworking, also mechanics and electricity, &c.

Supt. Hyslup will complete his survey in the county today by visiting the high schools at Clifton Station, Fairfax and Lee-Jackson. As soon as he has completed the examination of the questionnaires the result of the survey and his recommendations will be made public. His work will guide the County School Board in the determination of whether or not vocational guidance classes will be established in hte various high schools of the county in the near future or whether it would be best to first construct a centrally located vocational high school before attempting to teach the vocational subject to the pupils of hte county.
